BRITISH RULERS SAIL FOR CANADA AND U. S. TODAY

Arrival at Quebec Set for May 15.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 5.—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain will sail from Portsmouth aboard the liner Empress of Australia at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for a six weeks' visit to Canada and the United States. It will be the first time any British sovereign has ever set foot on the North American continent. They will step ashore at Quebec on May 15.

When the king arrives in Washington, D. C., on June 8 the royal standard will be unfurled there for the first time since it was hauled down in 1776 after America's Declaration of Independence. It will be run up over the British embassy while the monarch is in town.

Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy of the United States, who entertained the king and queen at dinner last night, will be among the notables to bid them farewell at Waterloo station when they board the train for Portsmouth.

To Travel Through Canada.

The king and queen and royal suite of ten will spend nine days at sea. They will travel throughout Canada until June 7, when they will cross the border at Niagara Falls for a four day visit to the United States. In the party are the king's attendants and the queen's ladies in wating, Lady Nunburnholme and Lady Seymour.

The royal visit to Canada was announced at Balmoral castle on Oct. 8 shortly after the signing of the Munich pact which was to have brought peace and good will to Europe. Three weeks later President Roosevelt announced he had invited the king and queen to visit the United States, and on Nov. 8 the king accepted the invitation in his speech at the opening of parliament.

The visit to the United States has three principal objects:

First, to strengthen the impression in totalitarian states that President Roosevelt is eating out of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's hand.

Second, to reënforce American ties with England to help in case this country gets into a conflict and to win support for Chamberlain's policies.

Third, to efface American recollections of King Edward VIII., who abdicated and now is the duke of Windsor.

Feared Visit to U. S.

The plan to visit the United States was not greeted with unalloyed enthusiasm in Britain. Fears were expressed in the British press that America's uproarious way of greeting visiting celebrities might offend the king's dignity.

The thought that American photographers might shout, "Hey, you, look this way!" at the king caused shivers of apprehension to run up and down the spines of British editorial writers.

References to the king and queen as Bert and Betty in American newspapers and magazines brought howls of rage at the "insult" from British writers. One Sunday newspaper writer challenged an American magazine contributor to "put up his fists and fight" after it had been suggested that the king and queen were "on probation" with their own people.

But what really disturbed the British was the fear of political repercussions if something went wrong. Britain is counting heavily on American assistance in the next war and all her propaganda is directed toward drawing America closer and closer to the European turmoil. Prime Minister Chamberlain was warned openly in the press that it would be his downfall if Americans became convinced that the king was trying to sell them a bill of goods.

Talked of Canceling Visit.

There was talk of calling the visit off and for several months it was considered an even chance that it would not take place.

But the hue and cry died down and the trip will take place according to the original schedule, except that the sailing date has been advanced two days to allow for fog off Newfoundland and that the cruiser Repulse will not accommodate the royal party.

The cruiser had been remodeled for the trip, but it was decided to keep the 32,000 ton fighting ship here. Fear of war prompted the move. The liner Empress of Australia was substituted and only the royal party will be

NEW TELESCOPE TO BARE BILLION MYSTERY STARS

Notables of Science at Dedication.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Davis, Tex., May 5.—[Special.]—Perhaps in all history there has never been a time when the formal opening of a great astronomical observatory had more significance than the dedication today of the McDonald observatory on Mount Lock, joint project of the University of Chicago and the University of Texas.

Arrow points to location of McDonald observatory.

For it was more than the dedication of a building and a mirror, important as these may prove in capturing the celestial secrets of energy and order and bringing them to the uses of mankind. It was also the dedication of a fortune and the lives of many men to a renewed faith in the search for truth, in the ways of peace, in the freedom of the human intellect.

400 Scientists Present.

Four hundred astronomers and other scientists from the United States and six other democratic countries found their way today to Mount Lock, in southwestern Texas.

It seems remote as these hills from every day life of the cities, but the thoughts of these men, what they read from the photographs which the 82 inch mirror of this new observatory will capture from space never before plumbed by man, may touch intimately the lives of all men.

The late William J. McDonald, Texas banker who left a million dollars for the building of this observatory, once jokingly remarked to his Negro barber that one day a telescope would be built large enough to see the gold paved streets of the New Jerusalem.

What actually will be accomplished by this mirror, second largest in the world and the most nearly perfect, is to record starlight a million times too faint for the human eye to perceive.

"There are a billion or more stars which have never even been looked at and which this telescope will analyze and classify," said Dr. Otto Struve, director of Yerkes observatory and now charged with the additional direction of this astronomical plant, in accepting this observatory from the builders, the Warner & Swasey company of Cleveland.

Two Systems Discovered.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory, revealed for the first time the recent discovery of two curious star systems in the southern heavens. These masses of stars are in the constellations of Sculptor and Fornax, within less than three hundred thousand light years from the edges of the Milky Way. They increase to nine the number of star systems in our local supergalaxy.

The largest of these objects is the Milky Way itself. It has two smaller companions, the greater and lesser Clouds of Magellan.

The new observatory, with its silver dome, is built on the rounded top of Mount Lock above a wide plateau at an elevation of 6,828 feet. It is 40 miles from a railroad and no lights from cities interfere with its view of the southern heavens, where the principal explorations will be made.

True to Millionth of Inch.

The reflecting telescope is 82 inches in aperture, true to within a millionth of an inch. It took 4 years of polishing to make this. The mirror is covered with a thin surface of aluminum. A hole in the center of the mirror permits the star light to come to a focus after it has been reflected a second time from a convex mirror at the upper end of the tube. The diameter of the dome is 60 feet. There are several accessory instruments for measuring and analyzing the light.

The dedication ceremony was held in the revolving dome.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago sent a message, President Homer P. Rainey spoke for the University of Texas, and Prof. Arthur H. Compton spoke on "The First of the Sciences."

ON HIS WAY

Widow Raided as Smuggler; Jewels Seized

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. James C. Ayer of New York and Nassau, socially prominent widow of a wealthy surgeon and painter, was involved today in a smuggling case which investigators said would rival that in which Mrs. Edgar J. Lauer, wife of a Supreme court justice, was convicted.

The suspected smuggling of $25,000 worth of merchandise was revealed last night when customs agents raided Mrs. Ayer's spacious $4,000 a year apartment atop exclusive River house in Manhattan. The agents seized a large quantity of expensive furs, jewelry, evening gowns, and silk lingerie.

The contraband was discovered as a result of information supplied by a woman who first was reported to be a close friend of Mrs. Ayer, but later was believed to be a worker who had access to the Ayer penthouse.

Hide Informer's Identity.

Government officials described the informer only as Mary Doe and guarded her identity carefully. As in the case of Rosa Weber, discharged maid of Mrs. Lauer, who received an award of $11,000 for informing on her mistress, Mary Doe is expected to receive informer's fees.

Although no action other than the raid has been taken against Mrs. Ayer, the case is being investigated by Joseph L. Delany of the criminal division of United States Attorney John T. Cahill's office.

The affidavit on which the raid on Mrs. Ayer's apartment was authorized charged the society woman willfully smuggled with intent to defraud. It was said the contraband articles were brought back from successive trips to Europe on the liner Bremen in 1936, the Normandie in 1937, and the Bremen in 1938.

Husband Dies March 20.

The affidavit stated that Mrs. Ayer "usually is accompanied on her trips by her maid, whose first name is Frieda, and who has been in the employ of Mrs. Ayer for the past five years." The statement of Mary Doe said the smuggling activities dated back to 1935.

Mrs. Ayer's husband, who was a retired surgeon, art connoisseur, and heir to an American Woolen company fortune, died on March 20. He was a descendant of a prominent colonial family and a member of several fashionable clubs.

The Ayers spent much of their time at their home in Nassau, British West Indies, and frequently entertained prominent members of society.

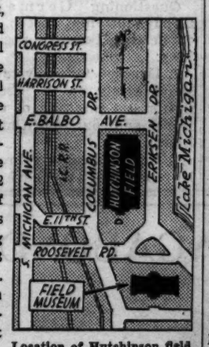
Kites to Fight a Battle Royal in Skies Today

There will be an aerial battle royal in Grant park this morning. The prettiest, finest, and most novel kites in the city will ride the lake front breezes carrying the hopes of 372 builders of both sexes ranging from 8 to 53 years in age.



Location of Hutchinson field, scene of kite contest.

Finals in THE TRIBUNE'S first annual kite flying contest will start at 10 a. m. in Hutchinson field, just north of the Grant park bandstand. Competition in eight divisions will be conducted by park district officials directed by Fabian E. Kardes, craft technician.

In case of inclement weather the finals will be held one week from today at the same location and at the same hour.

Cream of 9,000 to Compete.

Today's finalists represent survivors of more than 9,000 contestants who participated in kite flying events at seventy-nine parks. In the semi-finals alone 1,500 contestants competed in six different areas.

Owners of winning kites will receive silver loving cups in the following events: Largest kite, smallest kite, novelty kite, artistic kite, solo box kite, messenger sending contest, hand winding contest, and mechanical winding contests. Kites weighing as little as a fraction of an ounce and as much as fifty pounds will compete in the first two events. All kites are home-made. Awards will be presented at 1:15 p. m.

Free-for-All Event.

At 1:30 p. m. there will be a free for all with thousands of kites of all sizes and description taking the air.

There is no limitation on type of design, color or material. This, as the preliminaries have proven, insures an enjoyable show for spectators.

Parking will be forbidden on the main drives, but there will be space in areas just north and east of the Field museum. Guards will aid in parking and watching cars and there will be extra police to conduct young entrants through traffic.

Bus, street car, elevated lines, and the Illinois Central provide transportation to the field.

Victims' Bodies Left on Desert; Auto Missing

Phoenix, Ariz., May 5.—[Special.]—A young college student, who learned crime by frequenting the office of his father, a prosecutor, was sought throughout the southwest and Pacific coast states tonight for the brutal slaying of two automobile salesmen. Federal agents joined other authorities in the search.

The youth is Robert M. Burgunder Jr., 22 years old, formerly of Seattle, Wash., where his father once was county prosecutor. He was on parole from a Washington state reformatory, where he served a term for robbery, and was attending the Teachers college at Tempe, nine miles east of here.

In school young Burgunder's acquaintances said he had given considerable thought to "the perfect crime." Investigation showed he had laid with meticulous care his plans for the car robbery which culminated in the murder of Jack Peterson, 35 years old, and Ellis Moury, 24.

Rancher Finds Bodies.

Their trussed and bullet pierced bodies were found today in a desert wash near here. They might have lain in the arid waste for months if a rancher had not driven out into the desert south of the Indian village of Guadulupe in search of a ranch animal.

The two men had been missing since Saturday when Burgunder went to the Ford agency where they were employed as salesmen and drove away with them in a demonstration of a new car. The youth was seen on the Tempe college campus Saturday night after the killings, but has eluded pursuit ever since.

Officials say Burgunder's well laid plans included a fake telegram, which he displayed to his friends. It read, "Father dying," and he added that as a result of the message he was flying to Seattle. Then he cashed three checks totaling $120, two of them apparently forged, and rode to Phoenix with a college professor Saturday morning.

Rides in Back Seat.

Tracing his movements, officers learned he purchased a .25 caliber automatic at a pawn shop and bought a 1929 Ford car for which he obtained a title and license. He then went to the Ford agency where Peterson and Moury worked and asked to be shown a new car.

Witnesses heard Burgunder explain to the salesmen that he had wrecked his mother's auto. He said he wished to ride on the back seat because his mother, who was traveling with him, had become ill while riding there and he wanted to test it for her. He was heard to direct the salesmen to drive toward Tempe where, he said, the car had been wrecked.

Apparently he made his victims drive five miles into the desert south of Tempe. Peterson's hands were tied behind him with a necktie and his feet bound with a belt. Moury's feet were tied with a necktie. Officials believed Burgunder had forced Moury to bind Peterson and then tie his own feet.

Find Signs of Struggle.

Five empty .25 caliber shells and signs of a struggle about 100 feet from the wash indicated the salesmen were shot there. Marks in the earth showed where Burgunder apparently dragged the men by the feet to the wash after he had shot them.

When Burgunder was sentenced in 1936 for the $14 holdup of a Seattle drug store, which he executed with his father's pistol and his mother's car, three psychiatrists said they believed his act was prompted by the extraordinary knowledge of crime he obtained from visits to the prosecuting office of his father.

HITLER SPURNS POLISH ANSWER; MOVES TROOPS

Drafts New Demands Upon Warsaw.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 5.—The Nazi propaganda ministry late tonight announced that Germany is not satisfied with the speech made in Warsaw today by Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister. In his speech Col. Beck rejected Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands for the return to Germany of Danzig and for a German right of way through the Polish corridor.

Col. Josef Beck. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

"Germany demands a clear and precise reply for her requests," the propaganda ministry said. "They were presented to Poland in October, 1938; in March, 1939, and were repeated in Hitler's last reichstag speech. Germany cannot consider Beck's speech of today as an adequate answer."

May Be Ultimatum.

Whether the latest Nazi demands are framed as an ultimatum and how much time the Germans will give Poland to reply was not disclosed by official quarters.

For the last three days Hitler has spoken almost exclusively of Germany's claims against Poland and what he plans to do about them. This ominous sounding news was brought to Berlin by a number of the Fuehrer's aids who returned today from Berchtesgaden, his Alpine retreat.

Albert Forster, Nazi district governor of Danzig, arrived at Berchtesgaden today to confer with Hitler. Also at Berchtesgaden was Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister. He interrupted his journey to Italy, where he is to confer with Italian Foreign Minister Ciano, to discuss Beck's speech with the Fuehrer.

Hitler Listens on Radio.

Hitler listened to Beck's speech over the radio, though he does not understand Polish. The ovations given Beck by the audience in the Polish parliament aroused the Fuehrer's anger. A translator took the speech in shorthand and Hitler had a full translation before him half an hour after Beck finished speaking. He also received the text of the Polish note delivered in Berlin this afternoon replying to Germany's note denouncing the German-Polish nonaggression pact.

One ominous development noted by observers is that the members of Hitler's bodyguard, the leibstandarte, were fitted out in new field gray uniforms at the end of April to replace their black uniforms. The bodyguard then left Berlin for an undisclosed destination. These men disappeared in a similar manner on the eve of the occupation of Austria and of the conquest of Czecho-Slovakia.

All day today big trucks rumbled through the eastern part of Berlin, transporting members of the tank regiments. The tanks, it is understood, already are in garrisons near the eastern border. Railroad employés said they could not assure that trains would arrive on time because of the heavy military trafic.

Papal Envoy Calls on Hitler.

The Rev. Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio to Berlin, called upon Hitler today at Berchtesgaden. Roman Catholic circles in Berlin disclaimed any knowledge of an alleged note from Pope Pius XII. to the Fuehrer praising him for the nonaggression pacts he is offering many of the countries which President Roosevelt charged were in fear of German aggression and urging him to come to terms with Poland through negotiation. Nazi circles also denied the existence of such a note. They pointed out that the papal nuncio is planning to leave Germany soon and may have been making his farewell visit to Hitler.

Hitler today ordered his ambassadors to London and Paris, Herbert von Dirksen and Count Johannes von Welczeck, respectively, back to their posts with the Fuehrer's newest instructions, evolved after the discharge by Moscow of Maxim Litvinov as soviet foreign commissar.

Nazi circles have been talking caensively about an impending Russian-German rapprochement. Today they asserted that Von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi air minister, and Col. Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, Nazi chief of staff, will see prominent Russian emissaries during their visit in Italy. They asserted that Premier Mussolini has been advocating a Russian-German reconciliation.

Poland Offers New Pact.

BERLIN, May 5.—(AP)—The Polish note delivered to the German government today in reply to Hitler's denunciation on April 28 of the German-Polish nonaggression pact of 1934 contained five sections and declared Poland was ready to negotiate a new treaty on a good neighbor basis.

Its principal reservation was that a new treaty must be negotiated through a process of free discussion and not by one side making demands which the other side was expected to accept.

Section 1 of the communication developed the idea that the object of the 1934 treaty was twofold: The renunciation of force in settling differences between the two nations, and the application of peaceful negotiation to all points at issue.

Section 2 stated that the Polish government foresaw trouble over Danzig and addressed itself to the German government with the view to regulating the matter. It related that Germany replied that Danzig was a secondary matter—that it never would be of prime importance in German-Polish relations—but suddenly in March, 1939, the German government made a proposal, of which it said that "it must be settled urgently," without giving any reason for this urgency.

Counterproposal Ignored.

The Polish government on March 26 made counterproposals, to which the German government did not even reply. A month passed and the Polish government learned of the German government's answer only through Hitler's speech of April 28 and the German memorandum on the same day.

The Polish government, the note said, was determined not to accept a principle of negotiation in which demands of one side simply must be accepted by the other without change or even discussion. This German method, the Polish communication asserted, was not in accord with the 1934 agreement.

Section 3 of the note said the Polish government could not agree that the 1934 nonaggression pact excluded the making of agreements with other countries. Otherwise, it said, independence in foreign affairs would be lost.

It continued that Germany had engaged herself notably with Slovakia and Italy before Poland had negotiated with Great Britain. The British-Polish mutual guarantees, the note said, are purely defensive and in no way a menace to Germany.

No Provision for Abrogation.

Section 4 of the reply said there therefore was no reason for Hitler's denunciation of the 1934 treaty, which, furthermore, was signed for ten years without provision for its abrogation. The German government proceeded, it said, without listening to Polish explanations of what the British-Polish guarantees meant.

The fifth and final section of the reply stated the Polish government's readiness to negotiate a new treaty with Germany on a good neighbor basis, but only if the conditions set forth in the preceding sections of the note were taken into account.

ALIEN DETENTION BILL PASSED BY HOUSE, 288 TO 61

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill for detention of certain aliens who have been ordered deported.

The measure, approved by a vote of 288 to 61, would authorize the secretary of labor to "arrange for appropriate places of detention in established institutions" for such aliens who had not or could not leave the United States because the countries of their nativity refused passports or travel papers.

Representative Sam Hobbs [D., Ala.], author of the bill, said it applied only to deportable aliens who are "criminals, procurers, narcotic smugglers or peddlers, or other like immoral persons, or members of the anarchist or similar class." The bill was attacked by Representative Emanuel Celler [D., N. Y.], as a concentration camp measure.

aboard the vesesl. Two smaller warships will act as escorts for the liner.

The Repulse will accompany the ships a short way out. The visitors will return to England on the liner Empress of Britain, flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet. This liner will be reconditoned before sailing to pick up the royal mission.

Aboard the Empress of Australia are gifts for President and Mrs. Roosevelt. They were closely guarded in the strong room and their nature was kept a secret.

Take Royal Jewels.

Also locked safely in the ship's vaults are the royal jewels which the monarchs will wear while in Canada. They will not, however, be taken to the United States for their four day visit, which will include stops in New York City and Hyde Park, N. Y., in addition to Washington, D. C.

A special cleaning powder is to be taken aboard the liner to polish the crown jewels, which the sea voyage is expected to tarnish somewhat. In addition to the imperial crown of state the queen's crown is to be taken, as well as the Insignia of the Garter, which the queen will wear.

In the lower part of the queen's crown is set the Kohinoor, the most famous diamond in history. The queen can wear it three ways—as part of her crown, in her evening headdress when she wears the lower part of her crown, or detached as an ornament.

WARSAW FEARS MOVE BY HITLER TO FORCE CRISIS

Diplomats Believe Duce May Intervene.

WARSAW, May 5.—(AP)—Diplomats here tonight said they believed that Reichsfuehrer Hitler, as a result of the deadlock created by Poland's rejection of his demands, might create a situation in which world alarm may react to bring about international mediation.

The Nazi demands for the return of Danzig to Germany and a sovereign right of way through the Polish corridor, and Hitler's denunciation of the Polish-German nonaggression pact, were condemned by Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, as one sided. Beck, however, in his speech to parliament declared a willingness for peaceful negotiation.

Poland also delivered a note to the German government replying to issues raised on April 28 by Hitler's reichstag address and a German memorandum to Warsaw.

See Duce as Peacemaker.

Diplomats believed Hitler might put on a demonstration against Poland. Such a demonstration, they said, might be planned as a cue for Premier Mussolini of Italy to intervene, as in the Czecho-Slovak crisis, with proposals for a settlement.

Whether Poland would agree to foreign mediation was uncertain. Most observers regarded it as unlikely, but Mussolini was regarded as the logical choice because Italy belongs to the Rome-Berlin axis and has historical ties of friendship with Poland.

It was doubted in foreign circles that Hitler planned any direct action against Danzig and the Polish corridor. As a restraint against such a move it was pointed out that it was accepted as a fact that Col. Beck's speech was made with the full agreement and approval of Great Britain and France.

Public Remains Calm.

The public awaited the turn of events calmly, but there was a rush of last minute contributions to the air defense fund. There was a general feeling that the nation was ready for any emergency.

Great enthusiasm was aroused by Col. Beck, both in the sejm [parliament] during his address and through the country. While the foreign minister's reference to Poland's desire for peace was reëchoed by approving commentators, the phrase which caught the public imagination was his ringing declaration that Poland does not know the conception of peace at any price.

Among the diplomats applauding the foreign minister's address was the American ambassador, Anthony Drexel Biddle Jr.

The Polish press lavishly praised Col. Beck for his firm attitude, devoting special comment to his calm and dignity in the face of a serious moment in Polish history.

Call Speech Not Provocative.

Poles emphasized that his speech was in no way provocative. They said that only by deliberate design could Germany regard it as a warlike gesture or a complete refusal to negotiate toward a peaceful settlement of common problems.

Questioning Germany's aims throughout his speech, Col. Beck enunciated Poland's position as follows:

1. Danzig—"We have stood and we stand firmly on the ground of the rights and interests of our overseas trade and our maritime policy in Danzig."

2. Communications through the Polish corridor—"We have no grounds whatever for restricting our sovereignty on our own territory."

3. A new contractual settlement of Polish-German relations—"Two conditions are necessary for this work to have real value: [1] Peaceful intentions. [2] Peaceful methods of action."

"Peace is a valuable and desirable thing," the foreign minister declared. "However, peace, like almost all things in this world, has its price, high but definable. We in Poland do not know the conception of peace at any price. There is only one thing in the life of man, nations, and states which is without price—that is honor."

He charged that Hitler had used the Polish-British mutual assistance agreement as a pretense for a one sided denunciation of the Polish-German nonaggression treaty.

The German government, he said, made its decision without consulting the views of either the British or the Polish government as to the character of the agreement concluded.

"It was not difficult to do so," he added, "for I expressed immediately on my return from London my readiness to receive the ambassador of the reich, who did not avail himself of the opportunity."

Morton Queen

Miss June Denmark, crowned crystal queen at Morton Junior college.

Morton Junior college, in Cicero, celebrated its fifteenth aniversary last night in the presence of 1,500 visitors.

As part of the celebration Miss June Denmark, 18 years old, 2507 60th court, Cicero, was crowned crystal queen. Members of the court of honor were Miss Phyllis Landry, Miss Betty Smith, Miss Ruth Teeter and Miss Althea Soucek.

Walter B. Sjelman, dean of the college, recited the history of the college. He pointed out that it started with an enrollment of 79 students and now has 1,141.

WRIGHT COLLEGE QUEEN NAMED AT STUDENTS' BALL

Miss Elaine Oertel, 18 years old, an attractive brunette, was chosen "Blossom Time Queen" at the student ball of Wright Junior college at the Stevens hotel last night.

As a result she will be given the leading rôle in the school's production of "Blossom Time," starting May 16. Second place went to Miss Christina Tragni and third place to Miss Eetty Heitsch. All three girls are students.

Each was presented with a loving cup by Miss June Travis, former movie actress.

BELIEVE POLAND CANNOT DEFEND CORRIDOR IN WAR

Expect Stiff Resistance Elsewhere, However.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special.]—News reports that Poland may put a large army into the Polish corridor to defend that area in the event of war with Germany were dismissed as ridiculous by military experts here today.

Students of military tactics said such an army would march to extermination as certainly as the famous six hundred went into the jaws of death at Balaklava in the Crimean war. That encounter evoked this comment from a French general: "It is magnificent, but it is not war."

American military experts said the excellent spirit and bravery of the Poles would be equal to a corridor campaign, but the Polish high command is well aware that such a campaign could end only in disaster.

Would Be Cut Off.

The corridor is unfortified. It was not fortified because the corridor was recognized as a path to the sea for the new nation after the war, and also because Poland realizes the folly of its defense.

The corridor is 150 miles wide at its widest point and twenty miles at its narrowest point. German East Prussia lies to the east, and Germany proper to the west. If a Polish army should march into the corridor Germany could apply the pincers from the two borders, cut off the army, and capture or destroy it, according to military experts.

There is no doubt that such an army would give an excellent account of itself, but it could not withstand the German might that would be applied in the corridor, experts assert. Poland, particularly in the west, is a country of plains and has no natural obstacle to a German advance save the Vistula river, which is approximately fifty miles east of the border of Prussia and, for part of its course, forms the western boundary of East Prussia.

Predict Poles Will Fight.

Poland has fortifications west of the river, but these are nowhere near as extensive as the French Maginot line and the German Limes lines. Experts, knowing the Polish spirit, do not expect the Poles would withdraw behind the east bank of the river on the outbreak of hostilities, but rather, predict that they would fight from the first moment an invading German foot touches Polish soil, invading Germany where possible.

In the event of war Poland, whose tactical doctrine is offensive, can be expected to strike hard to the limit of her power. If, however, the full might of the German army is brought to bear against her, the Polish forces will be pushed back slowly.

The German war plan in a campaign against Poland, experts believe, would be an immediate air attack followed by occupation of the corridor from Stettin and advance in force up the Vistula via Thorn on Warsaw.

MUSSOLINI STRIVES TO PRESERVE PEACE IN DANZIG DISPUTE

ROME, May 5.—(AP)—Fascists expected tonight that the response of the Rome-Berlin axis to Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck would be decided tomorrow at a meeting between Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Von Ribbentrop stopped at Berchtesgaden en route to his meeting with Count Ciano to confer with Reichsfuehrer Hitler after Beck's speech to the Polish parliament rejecting German demands for the Free City of Danzig and a roadway across the Polish corridor to East Prussia.

Despite Beck's stand it was indicated that Premier Mussolini had not given up hope of finding a basis for peaceful settlement of the Polish-German issue. It was generally believed that Count Ciano would press the search for a peaceable basis of negotiations in his talks with Von Ribbentrop.

The government today announced an 85 million dollar increase in army and air force estimates for the year beginning July 1.

SWASTIKA FLYING IN OAK PARK SETS OFF A NEAR RIOT

A riot call sent several squads of Oak Park policemen to the Suburban Trust and Savings bank at 840 South Oak Park avenue in the suburb last night. More than 100 irate men and women were in front of the place. They pointed to the flagpole on top of the bank building.

Looking up, police saw a white flag with a red swastika in the center flying from the pole. The flag was quickly removed and the crowd dispersed. Lieut. Joseph Wolthius began an investigation to determine why and how the flag was hoisted. A prankster was suspected.

CAPITAL GREETS NICARAGUA HEAD WITH PAGEANTRY

Military Pomp Welcomes Visiting President.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special].—In an impressive display of military pomp and pageantry, President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua was welcomed to Washington this noon by President Roosevelt.

The welcoming ceremonies were carried out in perfect weather with a solemn splendor which completely mantled the amusing aspects of the entrance of the former bookkeeper, who planned the visit in the hope that he might obtain an American loan to balance his nation's books.

Welcomed as American Democrat.

Not an inkling was given the beaming head of the small republic that the reception was not entirely in his honor—that he and Mrs. Somoza were but stand-ins for the reception that will be given King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain June 8.

President Somoza was made to feel that it was an outburst of the good neighbor policy and accepted it as such. He was welcomed as the head of one of the family of American democracies, which Mr. Roosevelt has said are giving a working example of democracy to the dictator ridden nations of the world.

President Somoza, as head of the Nicaraguan guardia nacional virtually eased his uncle, President Sacasa, out of the executive mansion on its bayonets and early this year with the army drawn about the Nicaraguan assembly induced the delegates to extend his term to May, 1947, without the formality of an election.

Met by President.

The 43 year old Latin-American dictator arrived at the Union station a few minutes before noon. Trumpets sounded a flourish as he mounted the steps with his wife, daughter, and staff that led to the President's waiting suite, where Mr. Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice President and Mrs. Garner, Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, cabinet members and their wives, and other high dignitaries waited. As the party reached the station plaza the United States Marine band played the Nicaraguan national anthem and then the "Star Spangled Banner." A twenty-one gun salute echoed in the plaza.

The procession got under way past field artillery units to lines of marines in dress blue, drawn up on either side of the avenue. The motor cavalcade was led by the third cavalry to the capitol where the task of escorting was turned over to tanks and scout cars. Ten flying fortresses and forty-two pursuit planes soared overhead.

After a reception and lunch at the White House Samoza visited Mount Vernon, where he laid a wreath at the tomb of George Washington and Arlington cemetery, where he placed another at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The party returned to the White House for a state dinner and to remain overnight.

RETURN OF 2 NAZI WARSHIPS GIVES GIBRALTAR SCARE

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

GIBRALTAR, May 5.—A flurry was caused at Gibraltar today by the return to the Mediterranean of two destroyers of the German fleet which steamed through the straits on a westerly course in the last few days. The destroyers Friedrich Eckholdt and Erich Steinbrinck passed through the straits from the Atlantic and disappeared, making full speed in an easterly direction.

According to a reliable source in Algeciras, Spain, the latest date mentioned for Generalissimo Francisco Franco's victory parade in Madrid is May 28. Increasing differences between the Spanish and the Italo-German high command is given as a reason for further postponement of the parade.

HOUSE MEMBER JEERS AT POMP FOR NICARAGUAN

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's reception today of President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua evoked caustic comment from Representative Knutson [R., Minn.] on the floor of the house.

"Mr. Speaker, it was very gratifying to me," Knutson observed, "to observe the dictator of Nicaragua and that great democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, riding down Pennsylvania avenue together. It shows the lamb can lie down with the lion."

Knutson's remark brought Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], the majority leader, to his feet with the comment that "of all the unfortunate statements that I have ever heard, Knutson's was the most unfortunate."

BRITISH CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS ON SOVIET ALLIANCE

Send Fresh Advice to Envoy in Moscow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 5.—After a meeting of the cabinet foreign affairs committee, new instructions were sent from London tonight to Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, diplomatic sources revealed.

While the British government still is puzzled about the implications of the dismissal of Maxim Litvinov as soviet foreign commissar, Seeds has been ordered to resume immediately his talks with the soviet government. These talks have hung fire for the last three weeks.

Chamberlain Leads Meeting.

The foreign affairs committee, with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain presiding, was in session for ninety minutes framing the draft of British counter-proposals. These, it was stated, seek to stall off Moscow's scheme for a three power military alliance among England, France, and Russia to resist aggression.

[An Associated Press dispatch yesterday said the British government has accepted Russia's proposal to form a British-French-Russian military alliance and offered a supplementary plan for supporting Poland and Rumania against possible aggression.]

The status of the British negotiations with Russia was not cleared up by the prime minister in debate in the house of commons during the day.

Chamberlain hedged and dodged a number of questions by the opposition, insisting that the various proposals and counter-proposals which have been put forward still are being considered by Russia and other interested governments. At no stage has there been any delay on the part of the British government, he insisted.

In Touch with France.

The prime minister said he had received a communication from France yesterday on the Russian deal.

Chamberlain finally tired of the opposition's questions about how he was running affairs and exclaimed that its purely partisan attitude was not conducive of the interests of the country.

Reproached by Maj. Clement R. Attlee, leader of the opposition, for causing uncertainty in the country by delay in pushing the Russian agreement to a conclusion, Chamberlain replied that uncertainty was being caused by people who all the time are suggesting that if there is any fault it must be the fault of the British government.

Takes Dig At Soviet.

The prime minister got in a crack at the soviet government when he was asked by Willie Gallacher, communist MP, why he did not make a personal contact in order to get Dictator Josef Stalin's own views.

"Perhaps Mr. Gallacher will suggest with whom I should make personal contact because personalities change so rapidly," Chamberlain replied.

The prime minister referred here to the replacement of Litvinov by Vyacheslau Molotov as Russian foreign minister last Wednesday.

Chamberlain resisted all attempts to make him reveal how the Russian dickering was going. He said it was impossible to name the date, but added that "I have no reason to suppose we shall not arrive at a satisfactory conclusion." He said he thought it not desirable to tell the public the nature of the proposals advanced by either side.

He admitted, however, that the government was in close contact with France, Poland, Rumania, Greece, and Turkey, as well as Russia.

Meanwhile, the campaign of more appeasement went on apace. The latest manifestation appeared in a letter in the London Times this morning over the signature of Lord Elton.

One of a Series.

The letter is one of a series which has been appearing in the Times advocating the policy of conciliation of the dictators. Lord Elton attacked Alfred Duff Cooper, who quit in disgust as first lord of the admiralty after the Munich agreement, and other enemies of the dictators and suggested a comprehensive agreement as the way to settle Europe's problems. The influential Times, which frequently tips off the way the wind is blowing, today suggested that Danzig is not worth a war.

The foreign office revealed today that Great Britain has granted Slovakia de facto [actual] recognition.

Britain Supports Beck.

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—The British government today gave full approval to the statement of Polish Foreign Minister Colonel Josef Beck rejecting German demands on Danzig and the Polish corridor, but offering to negotiate on a peaceful basis.

Official British reports indicated that both Italy and Turkey were urging Germany to settle her dispute with Poland through peaceful means. Sources close to the government said Beck had defined Britain's as well as Poland's stand not only in contending that the Danzig problem could be settled peaceably if Germany genuinely desired to negotiate it on a basis of equality but also in refusing one-sided concessions.

SENATOR CLARK SEES U. S. ON ROAD TO FOREIGN WAR

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—Senator Clark [D., Mo.] declared tonight in a radio speech that the United States was "much farther along the road" to a European war than it was even three months before it entered the world war.

Clark said that "already high government officials, including some eminent senators, have contributed what they could toward bringing us into conflict by consistently thumbing their noses and making faces and shaking their fists at certain nations abroad." He accused the administration of failure to enforce the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality act.

Clark asserted the United States could stay out of the next war if it were willing to sacrifice the "transitory profits which come from warmongering and trafficking in death." Although the present neutrality act was imperfect, Clark said, it did take "the American flog off munition ships.

BODY FOUND IN CULVERT.

The body of a man was found late yesterday in a culvert about six miles west of Zion on Skokie highway. A social security card in his pocket bore the name Paul Herman Schmidt.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SUMMONS FOR SOVIET PARLIAMENT TO MEET

MOSCOW, May 5.—(AP)—Russia's parliament—the supreme soviet—was summoned today to meet on May 23. The summons stirred immediately speculation over what new soviet foreign policy might possibly be made. The international situation being what it is, it is only natural to assume that something important will come of the session. The firing Wednesday of Maxim Litvinov as foreign commissar also was recalled.

One subject of speculation was the Russian-British negotiations for an anti-German alliance. British circles in Moscow asserted tonight that there was no clarification of the soviet attitude toward such an alliance.

A London report that Britain now favored a triple military alliance with Russia and France was received silently by soviet leaders.

DECLINE OF PESO AND TRADE MARK YEAR IN MEXICO

Germany and Italy Gain at Expense of U. S.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY.—[By Mail.]—Declines in the volume of trade and the value of the peso, and an expansion of dealings with Germany and Italy marked the economic record of Mexico in 1938.

It was the fourth year of President Lazaro Cardenas' six year plan and saw an extension of the land expropriation program, expropriation of foreign owned oil properties, and of employé operation of railways.

After the peso had stood at 27.75 cents for more than three years, it hit the toboggan in February, 1938, and reached 20 cents—a decline of approximately 25 per cent—after the government seized foreign owned oil properties in March. This meant that along with a decline in trade volume, there was also a 25 per cent decline in the value of the goods traded.

Trade with U. S. Skids.

Mexico's imports for the first eleven months of 1938 were valued at 451,306,929 pesos compared with 557,962,564 pesos in the same period of 1937. Exports were worth 776,364,641 pesos in 1938 compared with 803,778,606 pesos in 1937.

In the first eleven months of 1937 Mexico received 64 per cent of all its imports from the United States. In the same period of 1938 American business with Mexico—partly because of sudden tarif boost—declined 7 per cent, yet this figure represented 89 per cent of the total decline of Mexico's imports from all countries.

Imports of iron and steel pipe from the United States showed a tremendous decline from 8,571,158 pesos to 3,800,174 pesos and resulted largely from the oil expropriation and Mexico's barter deals with Germany.

German Barter Trade.

Germany's sales to Mexico were worth 84,575,428 pesos in 1938 compared with 87,938,656 pesos in 1937. However, these figures include very little of the great barter trade going on between Germany and Mexico.

Italy's exports to Mexico increased from 5,612,981 pesos in 1937 to 8,671,794 pesos in 1938. The principal item that skyrocketed was artificial yarn. The increase of imports from Italy was due not to barter deals, but to lower prices which American manufacturers were unable to meet.

Silver is the big item in Mexico's dealings with the United States and is the saving factor in Mexico's situation. Mexico has plenty of silver and as long as the United States buys the metal the peso will not fall below the market created by Washington, D. C.

SLASHED AS HE ROUTS BANDIT.

OLIVE OIL DIET FAILS TO SAVE INCUBATOR BABY

Olive oil and skim milk, fed from an eye dropper, failed to save the life of a fourteen ounce baby girl born in the Oak Park hospital Thursday afternoon. The infant, one of the smallest ever born in the Chicago area, was kept in an incubator, where it was supplied with a mixture of oxygen and carbon dioxide. The child was a little more than twelve inches long. Despite all efforts to save its life, however, it died late yesterday.

The mother is Mrs. Annette Canepa, 28 years old. 1717 North Long avenue, the wife of Louis Canepa, a chauffeur. The child, her first, was four months premature.

Dr. Michael J. Parenti said the baby was perfectly developed and had an excellent chance of surviving.

JAP FEVER RISES FOR A WAR PACT WITH DICTATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 5.—Patriotic organizations clamored for a military alliance with Germany and Italy today as the cabinet again studied the probable effect of European developments on the future of Asia.

Posters in gigantic red and black letters advocating an alliance with Germany and Italy were placed at important street intersections. They attracted considerable interest.

The government is confronted by a most perplexing problem. No matter which road the country takes it appears to run against a stone wall. Some newspapers reported tonight that the cabinet finally had decided on a course, but no indication of what this is was given.

Those advocating the alliance are convinced that the United States will stay out of a European war, in which event the alliance will vastly aid Japan in its relations with soviet Russia. Japan also does not want to impair friendship with Germany and Italy by assuming too cool an attitude.

French Chiefs Mark 150th Anniversary of Revolution

PARIS, May 5.—(AP)—President Albert Lebrun, Premier Edouard Daladier and other French leaders went to Versailles today for ceremonies in connection with the 150th anniversary of the French revolution. The services were at the spot where representatives of the French people met King Louis XVI. on May 5, 1789, thus starting the chain of events leading to the revolution.

WOMAN IS FINED $100.

Mrs. Carrie McFeeley, 46 years old, 517 North Wood street, was fined $100 yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was accused of asking two girls to be lenient in the prosecution of a morals case.

THOUSANDS FLEE JAP AIR RAIDS ON CHINESE CAPITAL

CHUNGKING, May 5.—(AP)—Frightened refugees streamed by the thousands from this wartime capital of China today in flight from Japanese bombers and fires which burned in many sections of the city.

Casualties in the raids, which started on Wednesday, were estimated to run as high as 5,000.

A high foreign official said he had ascertained almost definitly that no Americans or other foreigners had been hurt except a British embassy official and a German who suffered slight injuries. Many Americans took refuge aboard the United States gunboat Tutuila and the British gunboat Falcon.

STEALS $6 JACKET; GETS 30 DAYS.

James Costello, 36 years old, of New York City, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Victor A. Kula for the theft of a $6 jacket.

ESTONIA DECIDES TO TAKE HITLER'S OFFER OF PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Estonia, May 5.—The Estonian government today decided to accept, in principle, Germany's offer to sign a bilateral nonaggression pact. The Estonian action followed a similar decision by the Latvian government, which was announced officially today in Riga. It was reported that Wilhelm Munters, Latvian foreign minister, had left for Tallinn to confer with his Estonian colleague, Karl Selter.

Estonia and Latvia are bound together in a defensive alliance. Their foreign ministers will formulate identical replies to Germany's proposal, which leaders in both countries agree greatly strengthens the possibilities of peace in northern Europe.

Joint acceptance by Latvia and Estonia of Germany's offer of a nonaggression pact marks an end of Poland's attempt to form a so-called bastion of peace linking Finland and the Baltic states with Poland and Rumania between Germany and Russia. It also further confirms previous reports about widespread dissatisfaction in northern European countries with the British policy of making overtures to Russia, whose military power, according to the northern chiefs of staff, is greatly overrated.

Bodies of Two U. S. Flyers Found in Brazilian Wilds

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 5.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Oglobo said today that the bodies of two American aviators, Carl O. Chader and Alexander Garafolo, missing since Tuesday, had been found, badly burned, in the wreckage of their airplane in a rugged mountain region about seventy miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro. The two flyers had taken off Tuesday in a private plane from Caravellas on a scheduled 440 mile flight to Rio de Janeiro.

LINDBERGH GOES WEST ON ARMY AVIATION SURVEY

Winslow, Ariz., May 5.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed his army plane here at 9:32 o'clock Chicago time tonight and went to a hotel. He will continue his flight to March field, California, early tomorrow. At first he told airport officials he merely wanted to refuel and would continue on to the west coast tonight, but later changed his plans.

Col. Lindbergh will inspect west coast defenses and aviation research facilities for the war department.

The colonel, flying an army P36A pursuit plane, left Patterson field, Dayton, O., at 7:26 a. m. He made a brief stop at St. Louis—his former home city—for the first time in several years.

Wearing his uniform as a colonel in the air force, Lindbergh also made stops during the day at Fort Riley, Kas., and Albuquerque, N. M.

PRYSTALSKI HAS PROFESSION AND HOBBY—THE LAW

Judge Is Leader in Fight Against Crime.

(This is the second of a series of colorful stories on candidates in the Cook county judicial election of June 5. Careers of sitting judges will be reviewed first.)

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Law is both a profession and a hobby to Judge John F. Prystalski, a Democrat, one of the twenty-one sitting judges seeking reëlection on his party's ticket.

Judge Prystalski.

As an assistant under State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, Judge Prystalski was a spectacular and successful prosecutor. Since his elevation to the Circuit bench in 1930, he has been a leader in combating crime through speedy and efficient administration in the Criminal court.

In private life the judge's relaxation is fishing. But his friends say that even then he takes no respite from his work—he is as likely as not to be reading a law tome between bites on his line.

Admitted to Bar in 1906.

Judge Prystalski is 57 years old. He was born in Poland and came to this country with his parents when he was 7. He took his degree at the Chicago College of Law and was admitted to the bar in 1906. He was an assistant city prosecutor from 1910 to 1912 and an assistant state's attorney from 1912 to 1920.

In the latter capacity he teamed with the late James C. [Ropes] O'Brien. O'Brien, who always wore a red necktie, was the orator of the two, while Prystalski excelled in devastating cross examinations. So successful were the pair that they won more than a dozen hanging verdicts.

After his service in the state's attorney's office Judge Prystalski was a master in chancery and in private law practice until 1930, when he was elected to the Circuit court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Frank Comerford. When he was assigned to the Criminal court in 1931 defendants frequently tried to take change of venue.

Cleans Up Court Calendar.

On becoming chief justice of the Criminal court in 1932 Judge Prystalski led the campaign to reduce crime by cleaning up the docket. In his year of stewardship the Criminal court judges disposed of 4,342 indictments.

While he was chief justice, and since then, Judge Prystalski has been a leading proponent of parole reform. He has actively sponsored the measure pending in the legislature which authorizes judges to fix maximum and minimum sentences within the limits of the indeterminate sentence act.

On Jan. 13, 1936, Judge Prystalski had a narrow escape from death in his courtroom. John W. Keogh, a real estate man, fatally wounded Attorney Christopher G. Kinney and fired three shots at the judge. The judge escaped injury by dropping behind the bench. Keogh later was adjudged insane.

Praised by Bar Committee.

Judge Prystalski was the candidate of the regular Democratic organization for county judge in the April 12, 1938 primary. He was defeated by County Judge Jarecki.

Judge Prystalski is popular with Polish groups in Chicago, frequently addressing their meetings in their language. His home is at 11317 Forest avenue. He is married and has a son and a daughter.

In the recent bar association primaries, the lawyers' committee on candidates said of him: "His service as a judge has been performed with courage, fidelity, and efficiency. He is well qualified for office and should be renominated. In the association's grading on ability, integrity, and diligence of judges seeking reëlection, Judge Prystalski ranked seventh with a 92.23 percentage. There were 1,629 votes for his renomination and 205 against it.

JUDGE CAMPAIGN WILL SHIFT INTO HIGH NEXT WEEK

Prepare for Intensive Month of Drive.

Republicans and Democrats prepared yesterday to open their judicial campaign full blast early next week and continue without a letup until the election June 5.

Both parties developed the coalition issue. Republican managers and nominees, at a meeting in the La Salle hotel, expounded the view that the Democratic machine sought to force Republicans into support of the coalition ticket, leaving the voters no choice at the election. Democrats, meeting in the Morrison hotel, charged the Republicans are seeking to inject politics into a judicial election.

Democratic committeemen from the country towns arranged for weekly meetings each Wednesday night in the thirty country town districts for the Democratic coalition ticket.

Offers Coalition's Case.

Joseph Lelivelt of Proviso, as chairman, said:

"Republican voters have strong resentment against their party's political dictators, who refused to tender sitting Republican judges a place on their ticket. They will vote for the Democratic sitting judges' ticket in wrath at the attempt to inject politics into the judicial situation."

Several of the Republican candidates met with the directors of the Carl Schurz Round Table in the La Salle hotel. A. G. Lauterbach is chairman of the round table which adopted resolutions indorsing the Republican ticket.

Assail Democratic Machine.

"The Democratic machine," the resolution said, "has attempted to coerce the Republican ticket into approving a so-called coalition slate and to make nominations and thus deprive the voters of their right to choose their own judges. . . . We are opposed to any Republican who enters a bipartisan combination the purpose of which is to deprive the people of their free choice of those who will serve as judges."

Republican candidates addressed three ward meetings last night. Democratic candidates are to meet this morning in Judge Harrington's chambers to plan a speaking campaign starting Monday or Tuesday.

The 33d tank company, Illinois National Guard, observed the tenth anniversary of its founding last night with a reception in the Maywood armory. About 500 guests called to inspect the tanks and other equipment. Capt. H. W. Carnright is commanding officer of the company.

STANTON ACTION UP TO BAR GROUP, SAYS COURTNEY

State's Attorney Courtney, who on Tuesday charged Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Criminal court with deliberate judicial misconduct in the handling of a burglary case, said yesterday that if action is to be taken against Judge Stanton, it should be by the Chicago Bar association.

"If the bar association wants to go into this matter, we will be glad to give all the coöperation of this office and all the information in our possession," Courtney said.

The case involved James Callahan, 15 years old, 8220 Emerald avenue, and Donald Lanktree, 18, of 8500 Sangamon street, who were charged with house burglary. Before giving the case to the jury Judge Stanton warned that conviction on the charge would make mandatory a sentence of one year to life. The jury then acquitted the pair, despite the fact that Callahan had confessed.

SLOT MACHINES RATTLE ELECTION IN 12TH CIRCUIT

Judge Wilson's Record Is Campaign Issue.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Slot machines are continuing to cause complications in the 12th circuit judicial election. Three candidates now have refused to be running mates of Judge Edwin L. [Slot Machine] Wilson of Joliet.

Judge Wilson is unpopular because of his record on the bench. At one time his impeachment was considered at Springfield, but the movement failed.

Three judges are to be elected on June 5 in the 12th judicial circuit, comprising the counties of Will, Kankakee, and Iroquois. For their ticket the Democrats first nominated Judge Wilson, State's Attorney Samuel Shapiro of Kankakee, and Attorney W. S. Kay of Watseka.

Three Quit the Ticket.

Shapiro and Kay withdrew their names. To replace them the Democrats certified the names of William J. Parrish of Momence, Kankakee county, and Herman W. Danforth of Danforth, Iroquois county. On Thursday Danforth withdrew, declaring that his name had been placed on the ticket without his consent.

Two years ago more than 700 slot machines in Will county rattled and whirred under protection of a temporary injunction more than a year old. The Crown Supply Company of Chicago took in a harvest of nickels, dimes, and quarters, some of it grocery money from housewives.

Judge Wilson, a frequent racegoer, had issued the temporary injunction on April 27, 1936, restraining the sherif and Joliet officials from interfering with the machines. Coroner Londus B. Brannon then announced he would try to get rid of them. He swore in special deputies to seize the machines. Next day Judge Wilson amended the injunction to include the coroner.

Ask Impeachment of Judge.

Soon afterward an investigation of the official conduct of Judge Wilson was recommended by a house committee at Springfield. A resolution had been introduced by Representative Sam Perry [D., Wheaton], which asked Wilson's impeachment. In arguing for impeachment Perry said Wilson was a pallbearer at the funeral of Lawrence [Butch] Crowley of Joliet, who was shot to death in the fall of 1936 after the slot machines had become a profitable racket.

Perry charged that Judge Wilson "has conducted himself in intimate and friendly association with known criminals and persons of disrepute and low character and that he has unlawfully and corruptly acted or omitted to act."

The house, by a margin of two votes, decided not to concern itself with the conduct of Judge Wilson and the impeachment was dropped. The injunction against slot machines had been dissolved by Wilson.

Republicans in the 12th district have a ticket composed of James B. Bartley of Joliet, Roscoe South of Watseka, and Luther B. Bratton of Kankakee.

POLICE TEAR GAS RIPS C. I. O. PICKETS' LINE AT COFFIN FACTORY

Erie, Pa., May 5.—(AP)—Police threw tear gas bombs into a crowd of C. I. O. pickets today for the second time in a week to open an entrance to the strike-closed Erie Casket company plant. Five men were arrested and held on open charges. One man was cut and bruised in the fight between pickets and police.

Chief of Police George Christoph said the tear gas was used after the C. I. O. pickets refused to permit the workers to enter the plant.

Mayor Charles P. Barber said he would back the police to the limit in helping nonstrikers to get to work.

Joseph Pattan, company president, said 71 workers were on the pay roll and that the C. I. O. United Furniture Workers' union called the strike to force a closed shop. The union claimed 41 members in the plant and Mike Buto, president of an independent group, claimed 42.

HORNER ALLOWS POLICE FUND BILL TO BECOME LAW

Gov. Horner yesterday allowed the Gormley bill, increasing the city's contribution to the police pension fund, to become a law without his signature. He said he could not approve the measure, "knowing that later an increase in the tax rate will be demanded to enable the city to pay the contributions provided."

At present the policemen pay 3½ per cent of their salaries into the so-called annuity fund from which pensions are paid. The city has been paying into the same fund $1,750,000 annually, compared with the policemen's approximate $700,000.

Under the Gormley law the policemen's contribution will be about $800,000 a year and the city will have to pay two and three-seventh times as much, or $1,943,00.

3 Men Released as Woman Accuser Changes Story

Because a woman accused them, three men were arrested April 27 on charges of robbery, assault, larceny, and kidnaping. They are Leo Mazurkiewicz, 4715 South Rockwell street; Theodore Bala, 3032 40th street, and Walter Kurcab, 2738 41st street. Yesterday the complaining witness, Mrs. Louise Sennett of 3321 South Claremont avenue, admitted that much of the story she told was incorrect. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of Felony court freed the three defendants.

MISSING PENDERGAST LIEUTENANT'S BODY IS TAKEN FROM RIVER

Kansas City, Mo., May 5.—[Special.]—The body of Edward L. Schneider, missing lieutenant of Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss, was found in the Missouri river today.

Schneider had been sought by federal agents and other authorities since Monday, when he disappeared, leaving his car parked on the Fairfax bridge.

Examination showed no marks of violence on the body. Authorities appeared satisfied that Schneider had drowned himself.

He vanished about the time Pendergast appeared in federal court and pleaded not guilty to federal charges of having evaded taxes on $443,500 income for 1935 and 1936.

Schneider was secretary-treasurer of eight Pendergast companies holding lucrative city contracts and is alleged to have been used by Pendergast to cover Pendergast's income. Schneider had testified before the grand jury.

WOMAN, 63, DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Augusta Seldon, 63 years old, 1107 North Keeler avenue, fell and fractured her skull yesterday while sweeping the sidewalk in front of her home. She was taken to St. Anne's hospital, where she died an hour later.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT BY DRIVER IN WILD DASH

Motorist Seized in Chase After Two Crashes.

Raymond Madaus climaxed a night's tour of taverns early yesterday by stealing the automobile of a chance acquaintance and starting off on a wild ride through the west side. Before he was captured he had killed a man and injured a woman pedestrian, sidewiped a car and a truck, and created panic among other motorists. Police pieced together the story of Madaus' wild ride after his arrest.

Raymond Madaus.

Madaus, who is 23 years old and said he lives at 4742 Monroe street, took the car from Charles W. Mattsin of Montpelier, Ind., whom he met in a tavern. He began his drive at La Salle and Lake streets by weaving around the elevated line pillars as he drove west on Lake street.

At Lake and Leavitt streets he offered a ride to Benjamin Grant, colored, of 1947 Walnut street. At Oakley boulevard Madaus went through a red light while speeding sixty miles an hour. At Western avenue he collided with a car.

Struck While Loading Truck.

In front of 2435 Lake street he struck and fatally injured Charles Kaleta, 27, of 3104 Walnut street, who was loading a truck. Kaleta died in County hospital.

In front of 2452 Lake street Madaus sidewiped a truck belonging to Al Boyte, 1138 North Mason avenue. Grant screamed at him to stop, but Madaus paid no attention, Grant told police. At Fairfield avenue the car Madaus was driving struck and injured Mrs. Norma Roberts, colored, 19 years old, 214 North Washtenaw avenue.

At this point Grant switched off the ignition and leaped from the car. Madaus started it again and drove on, pursued by other motorists. The chase went north in Fairfield to Fulton street, west to California avenue, north to Carroll avenue, west to Sacramento avenue, and south to Fulton street. At Sacramento avenue and Fulton street a line of cars forced Madaus to stop and he was arrested by Park Policeman Jerry Karella, on duty there.

Denies Loan of Car.

At the Warren avenue station Madaus said he had borrowed the car. Mattson admitted he had been with Madaus in several taverns, but denied he had lent him the car.

Albert P. Zink, 23 years old, 1715 Diversey parkway, a CCC camp enrollee, died yesterday in the Oconto Falls hospital, Oconto, Wis., of injuries incurred in an automobile accident near Breed, Oconto county, on Wednesday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 302 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 233 were killed in Chicago, where 6,537 were injured in the same period.

195 MILE AN HOUR OCEAN AIRLINER MAKES TEST HOP

San Diego, Cal., May 5.—[Special.]—A new 50,000 pound flying boat built in secrecy by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation today made a successful test flight from San Diego bay. The big craft, powered with the largest air cooled motors ever built for commercial service, rose easily from the water and flew over a 10 mile course.

According to the company, the plane can carry fifty-two passengers by day or twenty-eight in berths at night over ranges in excess of 4,000 miles. The speed for the plane is said to be more than 250 miles an hour, unprecedented speed for a multi-motored boat of its size. It is supposed to cruise at 195 miles an hour with the motors throttled to their most economical long range setting.

ARREST C. I. O. AID FOR SPEEDING TO SEE PALS IN JAIL

Every Friday a representative of the steel workers' organizing committee in Chicago goes out to see Meyer Adelman and other organizers of the C. I. O. union held in the Lake county jail in Waukegan. The men are serving sentences in connection with the Fansteel strike.

Yesterday John J. Brownlee, personal representative of Van A. Bittner, midwest director of the S. W. O. C., made the trip. But his visit was cut short. In Lake Forest Policeman Derk Bennes pursued Brownlee from one end of the village to the other. At the northern limits he arrested Brownlee.

Bennes said: 70 miles an hour. Brownlee said: 60. The speed limit: 45. Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess of Lake Forest said: $10.

Dr. Benes Guarded After Threats at Fort Wayne

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 5.—(AP)—Boy Scout executives said tonight they had received telephoned threats that they would "be sorry" if they let Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, speak at a scout merit badge show. Dr. Benes spoke at the show before lecturing under sponsorship of the Lions club. The scout heads attributed the threats to Nazi sympathizers. Four detectives and many uniformed policemen were in the audience at the lecture to guard Benes.

Fatal Drive Follows Tavern Tour

HER QUICKWITTED ACTION FAILS TO HALT A ROBBERY

A misinterpreted message frustrated the quick witted action of a woman operator in the Western Union Telegraph company office at 2655 North Clark street last night and saved two masked bandits from probable arrest.

The robbers, both armed, entered the office just before midnight. Behind the counter were Mrs. Ella Foster, 410 Grant place, the operator; Mrs. Clover Doremus, 1705 Wallen avenue, the manager, and Joseph Pughta, 4404 Thomas street, a messenger boy. In front were Mrs. Foster's husband, Albert, and a friend, Frank Lombard, 4150 North St. Louis avenue, who were waiting to take her home.

The bandits menaced all with their guns and ordered them into a rear room. Mrs. Foster delayed obeying long enough to write, with lightning speed, a message on the electric typewriter connected with the main office. The message read:

"We are being held up."

The message caused no excitement in the main office, for the phrase "held up" or "hold up" is commonly used to signify a routine interruption. Thus police were not notified. The bandits stayed in the office five minutes—long enough for a police squad to have reached the scene—and escaped with $50.

W. J. CAMPBELL VISITS CAPITAL TO SEE MURPHY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special.]—William J. Campbell, United States district attorney at Chicago, was in the capital today to confer with Attorney General Frank Murphy.

It was understood the conference was concerned with the income tax case the government is preparing against M. L. Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer and the General News service, a race track wire service.

Neither the department of justice nor Campbell would discuss the conference. Campbell left in the early evening for White Sulphur Springs, Va.

CONFIRM CLAIM OF SUICIDE JONES TO 'CHUTE RECORD

Willie [Suicide] Jones, colored parachute jumper, has set a new American record for delayed falls from an airplane, according to bureau of standards reports received yesterday from Washington, D. C. On March 2, above Dixie airport, Harvey, he stepped from a plane at 24,468 feet and fell to 800 feet before opening his canopy. His delayed fall was 23,668 feet.

Suicide Jones.

The jump was the fourth Willie has made from heights of more than 20,000 feet during the last ten months. The previous American record was an unofficial one made from a plane at 20,000 feet. Willie has been trying to smash the world's free fall mark of 25,350 feet claimed by a Russian daredevil. Willie's hard luck, according to his manager, Rupert A. Simmons, 4715 Indiana avenue, has been that he was unable to find an airplane capable of lifting him to the height necessary to exceed the Russian's record.

The jump made last March was from a Bellanca plane with a Wasp motor. The ship was climbed for three and a half hours and the altimeters in the plane read 31,000 feet when Willie bailed out. The bureau of standards, however, based its report upon a sealed barograph that was carried in the airplane.

SAFETY STICKER DEFENDANTS GET JUNE 1 REPRIEVE

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced yesterday that motorists who are arrested for failure to possess safety lane stickers will be allowed until June 1 to correct the condition and escape a fine.

This plan, adopted because of the jam in the testing lanes, was announced after a meeting of Municipal court judges who hear trafic law violation cases.

Motorists arrested for failure to have safety stickers will be given a summons to go to the cafeteria court, room 810 city hall. Their cases will be assigned to a judge and they will be given until June 1 to obtain their stickers and gain dismissals. Motorists without state drivers' licenses will be required to post a $25 bond, Sonsteby said. They will face a standard fine of $10 for the offense.

City and park police issued 3,112 summonses to motorists Thursday night and yesterday for failure to obtain state licenses, city licenses, drivers' licenses, or city safety stickers. Yesterday nearly 1,000 paid fines of $2 each in the cafeteria court.

RETIRED RAILROADER DIES.

Byron, Ill., May 5.—[Special.]—Charles J. Reese, 74 years old, retired Great Western railroad employé, died at his home here yesterday. He leaves three sons, a daughter, and six grandchildren.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GETS 5 MONTHS ON STATE FARM

Charles Janis, 16th street and Dugdale road, North Chicago, who was arrested for driving while intoxicated, was sentenced yesterday to five months on the state farm at Vandalia by Judge Perry L. Persons in the Lake county court at Waukegan. Judge Persons ordered the severe sentence when he found that Janis had been fined $25 for similar offenses three times in the last year.

In the Safety court in Chicago, before Judge Eugene Holland, Mrs. Loretta Mullen, 32 years old, 215 North Central avenue, escaped with probation for one year when she was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident. Mrs. Mullen, a widow and mother of a daughter 14 years old, said she was Miss Chicago in 1926.

John A. Netz, 2429 Erie street, was sentenced to seven days in the Bridewell for leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a safety sticker.

Illinois Auto Registrations Exceed Year Ago by 32,697

Springfield, Ill., May 5.—(AP)—Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes reported today 1,412,540 passenger cars were registered in Illinois during the first four months this year, 32,697 more than in the corresponding 1938 period. Hughes said 202,542 registrations were made near the close of last year, bringing the 1939 total to 1,598,173. Receipts from all registrations for the four months totaled $20,115,100, an increase of $1,692,584 over the same period a year ago.

PRINCE, PRINCESS SMILE THROUGH STRENUOUS DAY

Attend Banquet After Tour of City Sights.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Crown Prince Olav of Norway and his princess, Martha, in Chicago for a three day visit, traveled the length and breath of Chicago yesterday, their escorted parade of limousines blaring in and out of trafic.

They visited the University of Chicago, whisked by Northwestern university, shook hands with dozens of Norwegian Americans, and smiled graciously to thousands of patient people who stood for hours to greet them.

Princess Slips Away.

But there was one time when the princess forewent her noble duties. Accompanied only by her lady-in-waiting, Ragni Oestegaard, she slipped out of the Blackstone hotel. Together they lifted the tiny flags off the front of an official car and climbed in. Princess Martha unpinned her corsage and laid back her cape of silver fox.

"To a department store," she ordered the driver. "And quickly! I will buy some slippers. And I want to be alone."

And for a few minutes she was. Then she rejoined her husband.

Whirlwind Tour of City.

There followed a whirlwind tour, a steady afternoon of anthems, cameras, and applause that ended in a brilliant banquet in the Palmer House last night. There, gowned sumptuously and wearing a jeweled tiara, the princess still appeared tireless and appreciative. Olav smilingly assured the 1,500 guests that they would carry back to Norway a "deep friendship for your city and your people."

Earlier in the day Martha had exclaimed over the Evanston Cradle and visited the Chicago Maternity center on Maxwell street. Olav, after a lunch of beer and steak at the Saddle and Sirloin club as the guest of Thomas E. Wilson, had driven Mr. Wilson's six horse team.

The royal party will leave Chicago this morning on the Burlington railroad for La Crosse, Wis. After stops in Minnesota and Iowa they will head southwest for the Grand canyon, Boulder dam, and Los Angeles.

CAPONE INCOME TAX SETTLEMENT WILL BE DELAYED

Settlement of the government's civil claims for unpaid income taxes against Al Capone and Lawrence C. O'Brien, former legislator from Chicago's north side, will be delayed for some time, it was revealed yesterday The suits were called before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, but government attorneys said they have been unable to serve the necessary papers

Capone can't be served with the civil suit until he is released from prison at Terminal Island, Cal. O'Brien, who served an eighteen month sentence for income tax evasion several years ago, can't be found. The government wants $350,011 from Capone and $43,000 from O'Brien.

City Basks in Warmest Day of Year; Rain Tonight

Yesterday was Chicago's warmest 1939 day. The mercury, stirred by bright sunlight and a southwest wind, climbed to 85 degrees at 3:30 p. m. This is only one degree under the record for the date, set in 1930. The previous high for the year was 81 on April 24. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted more warmth for today. He hazarded the guess that the temperature would reach 85 again. Rain is expected tonight and tomorrow.

FINE FEATHERS MAKE FINE BIRDS FINER IN SPRING

Romance Takes Wing in Gay Plumage.

Peacocks strut proudly across the lawns, and tigers loll in the sun. Whooper swans make wild music beside their five eggs on the shore of a lake. A tame alley cat nurses a wild baby raccoon.

In this leisurely, lazy manner spring manifests itself outdoors at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield. But for scintillant spring visitors must enter the bird houses. There drab little birds which have been flitting about like disembodied shadows all winter, are bursting suddenly into brilliant, luxuriant plummage.

Mating calls fill the air. The naked throated bell bird, silent since December, once more screams out his discordant, incessant cries, harsh and explosive as an anvil. The secret: Breeding time is here again.

A Comet Streaks the Sky.

The African whydah bird, which in winter has only a skeleton tail, now has one long and brilliant with black, red and yellow. Flying through the air, he is a little comet once more, a touch of flame and a swoop of black.

The scarlet ibis, lately faded to soft coral, is becoming suffused with red. Soon it will be the color of blood. It swims at will on a lake back in the woods. Karl Plath, curator of birds, hopes it will breed. The stately pelicans, too, are at the height of their glory. They are a delicate flesh pink, a color they lose completely by midsummer.

The goura, or crowned pigeon, now is in perfect feather. Largest of all the pigeons, he is slate blue with a wine colored breast and lacy crests, like immense Victorian plumes, sticking out over his ruby eyes. Now, with spring in his blood, he emits a deep, rumbling, booming call, mysterious and sad.

The ruff, an aquatic bird that looked like a trim, mottled little snipe a month ago, now is sprouting an immense feather ruffle around his neck. On some the ruffle is white; on others buff, chestnut or black. Each bird uses his ruffle as a shield in mock combat. By August it will be gone again, but so will be his ardor.

Sugar Bird a Cinderella.

Probably the most striking metamorphosis, Mr. Plath says, is that of the tiny sugar bird, which is dull olive in winter. Now it has back and wings of sleek, velvety black, lined with violet, while a turquoise crown has grown upon its pate.

With it all, however, there is one sad note. Don't try to recognize the bird of paradise by his fountainlike golden tail. It is gone, gone with the spring, not to return until fall. Nor should you expect sweet, symphonic music, for more birds, the officials say, are fighters than singers.

Buttons and Susie, selected as mascots of Anti-Cruelty society.

Susie and Buttons are established. After two years' residence in the kennels of the Anti-Cruelty society, 157 West Grand avenue, they have an official standing.

First they wagged their way into the affections of Assistant Kennel Master Art Colia. Then, having him to plead their cause with Dr. W. A. Young, managing director of the north side shelter, getting to be named the society's mascots was, as you would say in dog language, a pushover.

Being mascots entails certain responsibilities, chief of which is acting as receptionists to the dozens of boys and girls who visit the kennels daily.

REPUDIATES HIS CONFESSION IN GARY RAPE DEATH

A blanket denial of the crime and his confession was made yesterday by Henry W. Schurg, who is held for the rape and murder of Frieda Borman, Gary girl. The denial came when Schurg was on the stand in Crown Point at a habeas corpus hearing.

The writ seeking his freedom is being asked by Schurg's wife, who produced additional witnesses yesterday to testify to acts of insanity by Schurg. He confessed the crime on April 17, several weeks after the girl was found dead in a thicket near Griffith, Ind.

When Schurg testified yesterday he was asked if he remembered signing a confession. He said he didn't. He was asked if he had any connection with the Borman girl's death. He denied it. Next Monday, at the continuance of the hearing, the state expects to call physicians and alienists to testify as to Schurg's mental condition. If he is found insane, the charges will be dropped.

Seize Accused YoungTough on Complaints of Neighbors

James Chase, 17 years old, whom Shakespeare avenue police described as a neighborhood tough, was arrested last night in his home at 3043 Armitage avenue on complaint of neighbors. Police said Chase threw bricks through windows, insulted housewives, and menaced their husbands with a toy gun. The gun, a realistic looking pistol that fires blank cartridges, was seized. Police said Chase has been in trouble with juvenile authorities on two previous occasions.

CITY WILL WAIT FOR NO NEW TAX COLLECTING LAW

The city will begin its drive to collect delinquent taxes without waiting for new legislation, Ald. Frank Keenan [49th] yesterday told the council committee on taxation, of which he is chairman. He said that Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes has assigned eight of his assistants and several clerks to aid in the campaign.

"The clerks will begin Monday inspecting county tax records," Ald. Keenan said. "We will compile all the necessary information regarding delinquencies as soon as possible. And the first suit filed will be against the biggest tax dodger we can find."

The county and sanitary district have been asked to join in the suits. If they refuse, suits will be brought only for the amounts owed the tax funds under the city's control, Ald. Keenan said. City financial experts estimate that more than 300 million dollars in taxes is due those funds.

FIRST DAMAGE SUIT FILED OVER SUBWAY WORK

The first damage suit hinging on construction of the new Chicago subway was filed yesterday in Circuit court. It asks $15,000 from the Herlihy Mid-Continent company, contracting concern.

The suit was filed by Marion S. Alk, owner of a three story building at 751 North Dearborn street, and Sam Segal, operator of a rooming house at that address. They asked an injunction restraining the company from twenty-four hour a day operation and from operating noisily in a lot adjoining the rooming house, where a downshaft is being sunk.

The bill complained that a number of roomers had moved out because of the continuous clamor and others had given notice.

Wins Divorce

MRS. MARJORIE REILLY.

Los Angeles, May 5.—(AP)—Aided in court by her veteran stage actor father, Carter De Haven, Mrs. Marjorie De Haven Reilly, film actress and dancer, won a divorce today from Thomas Reilly, film editor.

She said Reilly continually left her at home nights and would not tell her where he had been.

De Haven testified he found his daughter weeping on several occasions and tried to patch up the couple's differences, but Reilly would not listen to him. The couple married last June and separated six months later.

Mrs. Reilly formerly was married to Paul Lockwood, film cameraman. He sued Film Director Victor Fleming for $150,000 damages, charging alienation of affections, but the suit never was brought to trial.

ARBITERS WEIGH A FAIR DATE FOR WIEBOLDT VOTE

Interview Each Worker on His Wishes in Dispute.

Federal Judge Otto Kerner, the impartial chairman of the arbitration board chosen to settle the labor dispute between the Wieboldt Stores, Inc., and the trucking unions, interviewed thirty-seven of the store's seventy-four truck drivers and helpers in his office last evening. Each conversation was confidential, the judge said.

The interviews, an unusual procedure, were adopted as the quickest and most direct method of obtaining information needed by the board. It was suggested by Attorney Daniel D. Carmell, the union representative on the board, and agreed to by Elmer T. Stevens, vice chairman of Charles A. Stevens & Co., the Wieboldt representative.

Meets Each Separately.

Judge Kerner met each man alone. He asked each if the union had used undue pressure or threats in urging him to join the trucking locals. He also sought to determine whether the men felt that, at this time, they could freely express their choice of a bargaining agent.

On Monday evening the judge is to interview the other thirty-seven men. From his findings he will tell the other members of the board whether he believes the time is ripe to hold the election or whether it should be delayed.

It was explained that the principal point at issue in the dispute which began with a walkout April 6, and was ended by Mayor Kelly's intervention last Tuesday, is the date for holding an election. The stores have asked for a delay of at least two weeks. The unions asked for an immediate election.

Both Sides Stand Firm.

This point deadlocked direct negotiations between the disputants for twenty-six days, and both sides still take the same positions.

Yesterday was the twenty-fourth day since the slaying of James Lawrence, a Wieboldt truck helper, who was shot by terrorists on April 12, during a day of strike violence and general rioting. No prisoner is held in connection with the crime, and police say they are unable to find the one man who is considered a suspect in the case.

The search for the killers, however, is being redoubled, according to police and state's attorney's investigators. Rewards of $6,000 have been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers.

FIVE BARGES CUT LOOSE; STRIKERS DENY ANY GUILT

St. Louis, Mo., May 5.—(AP)—H. R. Odell, operations manager of the federal barge lines, said today five loaded barges were cut loose from a mooring at Memphis, Tenn., last night and drifted five miles downstream before running aground.

The General Council of River Workers, representing striking employés, took cognizance of the report and in a telegram to Attorney General Frank Murphy said: "No barges were cut loose anywhere by our men."

Steamer Under Guard.

New Orleans, La., May 5.—[Special.]—The river steamer Natchez departed under guard today with a nonunion crew as violence subsided in the C. I. O. strike against the government owned federal barge lines. The Natchez had been bombarded with rifle fire from the shore last Sunday.

ENDS LIFE SO HIS WIFE CAN HAVE "HER FREEDOM"

Marshall Martin, 29 years old, shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday in the basement of his home at 6405 Parnell avenue. His sister Margaret, 18, who was taking a piano lesson in the room above, found her brother unconscious, a rifle at his side. She called Englewood police, who took Martin to the St. Bernard's hospital. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Alexander Jenkins.

Miss Martin found a note in her brother's handwriting which read: "Now Hallie can have her freedom." Hallie, police were informed, is Martin's wife, from whom he had been estranged for two years. She lives at 912 East 61st street. She visited Martin yesterday morning, the sister said, and they quarreled.

Inquest to Be Held Today in West Side Tavern Slaying

An inquest will be held today in the slaying of Forrest Troutman, 49 years old, a laborer, of 2252 Monroe street who was shot Thursday in a tavern at 2128 Madison street. His assailant was Matthew Marz, 2032 Washington boulevard, who shot Troutman when the latter offered to buy him a drink. Ernest Imonetti, 2231 Washington boulevard, part owner of the tavern, seized Marz and beat him severely. Marz is in the Bridewell hospital.

TWO DROWNINGS IN EAST CHARGED TO MURDER RING

Philadelphia, Pa., May 5.—(AP)—Two drownings—one in the sea off the New Jersey coast and the other in a Philadelphia river—were charged to an insurance-murder ring today when another arrest brought to eighteen those seized in the case.

Poison was used in most of the forty deaths already known. Other methods of the ring have been disclosed as faked automobile accidents and sandbaggings.

The drowning disclosures in the ring's operations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, and Delaware were recorded at a hearing for four persons arrested within twenty-four hours. All were held without bail. One of the drownings was disclosed by Samuel Sortino, 38 years old, a machinist, who confessed helping drown Rafael Caruso.

Gaetano Cicinati, 45 years old, an insurance agent, was accused of making it easy for the murder ring to obtain policies on intended victims. He was held on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder in the drowning of Joseph Arena, 47 years old, a Philadelphian.

'LOVE ON A DIME' MARRIAGE HITS ROCK—A WEE ROCK

15 Cent Movie Wrecks Scotchman's Romance.

James Smiley, his wife Matilda said yesterday, was a Scotchman. She didn't know how other Scotchmen were about money, but she knew the high regard James had for it.

Mrs. Matilda Smiley.

In the morning, after boiling his breakfast egg, he used the hot water to brew his tea. He kept the house at 55 degrees in the winter and as a special treat for guests, handed them coats as they huddled in the kitchen under the sickly glow of a lone low-watt bulb.

Judge Robert C. O'Connell gave Mrs. Smiley a divorce on the ground of cruelty when she told all this and testified her husband had shaken her and put her in fear for her life for spending 15 cents to see a movie. Smiley, 65 years old, is a motorman for the surface lines. She is 58.

Files Divorce Suit.

When Mrs. Smiley came before Judge O'Connell a week ago seeking separate maintenance, the court refused to hear her petition.

"You've been married only eight months," he said. "I'm not going to tie this man down for the rest of his life. File a suit for divorce." She filed the suit, and was in court yesterday with her attorney, Harry X. Cole.

The Scotch Comes Out.

"I was a widow operating a store when James met me," she testified. "He thought I had money. After we were married he flashed a $1,000 bill and said, 'If you love me, you'll put your money with mine.' I told him I had none. Then the Scotch in him came out.

"He objected to my going to a hairdresser's, and wanted to cut my hair himself. He played a hand-wound phonograph and made me sing and said it was as good as a radio.

Mrs. Smiley lives at 8225 Calumet avenue and Smiley at 431 West 79th street.

Hears Mate Testify

Mrs. Theresa Wippern as she appeared at court yesterday when her husband, Dr. Virgil Wippern, won a divorce after testifying that she beat him.

Mrs. Theresa Wippern, 27 years old, was a spectator in Judge Rudolph Desort's courtroom yesterday when she was divorced by her husband, Dr. Virgil Wippern, 35, of 7449 Cottage Grove avenue. She did not contest the divorce, and listened interestedly as Dr. Wippern told the court she once had torn her clothes off in a rage which she climaxed by beating him. On another occasion, he testified, she broke his glasses, with a blow. A $3,000 settlement was announced, Mrs. Wippern to get $1,000 immediately and the rest in instalments of $100 a month.

22 YEAR ALIMONY YOKE LIFTED OFF REWED HUSBAND

Since 1917, when he divorced his wife, Anna, Harry A. White has paid her more than $15,000 to support herself and their son, Harry Jr., long since grown to manhood. Yesterday Judge Philip J. Finnegan lifted the burden from White's shoulders. He vacated the alimony decree.

Attorney Joseph B. Lofton, invoked this principle of law in White's behalf: When the wife is the offending party to a divorce, she is not entitled to alimony in the absence of special circumstances.

The special circumstances at the time the divorce was granted were represented by the son, then 7 years old. White agreed to pay his divorced wife $600 a year. Two years later he consented to make it $700 a year for Mrs. White and $300 for Harry Jr. White, it was explained, was making $21,000 a year then as head of an automobile sales agency.

When Harry Jr. became of age in 1931, his father gave him $500 and stopped the $300 annual contribution. But he still sent $700 a year to Mrs. White in Palo Alto, Cal., where she had moved two days after the divorce.

Times changed. White, who had become an investment counselor, ceased prospering after the depression. On May 1, 1936, he found himself $1,300 in arrears and petitioned the courts for relief. Mrs. White replied with a counteraction.

In answer to this White asserted he now gets $1,500 a year, his second wife has had to go to work and he is $100,000 in debt.

White, who lives at 1361 Estes avenue, asserted there had been no change in his first wife's circumstances, that she had never worked, and always lived in a fashionable suburb of San Francisco. Mrs. White, in a deposition taken at Palo Alto, contended she was destitute and in poor health.

Judge Finnegan, in vacating the alimony order, said the arrearage should be paid off at the rate of $25 a month.

U. S. to Give Examinations for Engineering Positions

Examinations for government engineering posts paying salaries from $1,020 to $2,600 a year will be conducted during the summer in sixty cities and towns in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, J. V. Swanson, district manager of the United States civil service commission, announced yesterday. The jobs range from chief engineering aid to that of minor engineering assistant. Applications may be obtained from any postoffice and must be filed before May 20.

BOY THIEF SEES THREE BURGLARS SENT TO PRISON

Timothy Driscoll, a boy thief, got an object lesson yesterday when he sat through a session of the Criminal court under terms of a sentence for thievery. He saw three burglars each sentenced to one year to life in prison. The three, who were sentenced by Judge William J. Lindsay, are Edward Jachimek, 17 years old; Bernard Dorgan, 21, and John Dode, 21.

After this demonstration that crime doesn't pay, Driscoll, who is 14 years old, told Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan: "I don't like this business. Those guys are going away for a long time. I don't want ever to have anything to do with something like that."

Driscoll, who was arrested for grabbing $15 from a gas station, was sentenced Thursday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley to sit through a session of the Criminal court every day for two weeks to see what happens to those who break the law. At the end of that time he will be sent to a school for wayward boys.

Restaurant Owner Fights Two Robbers; Saves $265

Samuel J. Nichols, 6642 Maryland avenue, battled two bandits near his home yesterday and saved $265. Instead of raising his hands as commanded he struck at the robbers and they fled, Nichols' money was found strewn on the lawn. He owns a restaurant at 9258 Cottage Grove avenue.

FREE ATTORNEY IN INSURANCE FRAUD THREATS

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court yesterday dismissed a contempt of court citation against Attorney Michael Obartuch, who was charged with threatening a witness in his unsuccessful suit to collect $20,000 insurance on the life of his father. Judge Sullivan ruled that he had no jurisdiction since the threats were alleged to have been made outside of court. He also entered findings bearing out his decision that the Security Mutual Life Insurance company should not be required to pay the $20,000 on the ground that the policies on the life of Frank Obartuch, Michael's father, were obtained fraudulently.

ADVENTURE INVENTS A FASHION (1)

By CALEB

HAVE you noticed the "South Seas note" so scenically and colorfully sounded in certain Field windows of late? Behind that note scintillates a story—

It is the story of a young American publicist, traveler and designer, adept with camera, pen and paint-brush, who journeyed, last year, to far-off Polynesia . . . and from his gay adventures among those islands of our American protectorate, lying midway between Hawaii and Tahiti, gleaned the exclusive new fashion vogue evidenced on several of our floors.

The purpose of Truman Bailey's foray to those palm-fringed Pacific isles was a pleasant combination of the romantic and the commercial. Romantic, in the weeks of sun-and-breeze-filled life spent among the brown-skinned natives of Pago Pago, Samoa, and adjacent islands. Commercial, in the expedition's sponsorship by a group of American business concerns, alert for fresh style-theme sources.

Both phases of the enterprise . . . told and pictured, incidentally, in Mr. Bailey's new book, Polynesian Venture, were successfully consummated. Upon his return to San Francisco in September, 1938, the essentials were complete for a fresh motif in apparel. To guide and validate selection of colors, artists were given sixty test-tubes of crushed South Seas earth, rock and lava; and to authenticate design, they were supplied with hundreds of sketches and photographs, as well as collections of curious tropic plants and shells.

You can well imagine the thrills attendant on working out, from such a varied array of novelty and beauty, the details of an unique summerwear program! With typical American thoroughness and alacrity, a New York merchandising counselor, and several manufacturers, devised patterns from scenes, tattoos, and native tapa designs—adapting colors of the same primitive brilliance found in Polynesian soils, flowers and fruits to a complete apparel series in cottons, spun rayon and lastex. The result . . . "Polynesian Hei Tiki" fashions . . . hei tiki being the native word for an amulet, or symbol, worn by Polynesian chieftains to indicate rank or superiority.

All a bit mystifying and amusing, of course, to the gay South Sea islanders themselves. But to thousands of customers eager for the different, dramatic and exotic in evening dresses, beach wear, bathing suits, sports fashions, jewelry and accessories—a fashion adventure de luxe.

NEW PROGRAM PLANNED TO CUT SCHOOL TRUANCY

Eight Teachers to Work in Special Area.

A new attempt to curb truancy and delinquency among Chicago's half million school children was announced yesterday by Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools. It is his hope that special treatment for pupils who show signs of delinquency will reduce juvenile crime.

Dr. Johnson found that there have been 77,355 absences from school, many because of illness, during the present school year. In 6,393 cases, however, pupils were found to be truants. The Juvenile court handled 1,530 cases of delinquent school children. The Parental school and the Chicago Home for Girls cared for 351 delinquent students.

Two Schools for Truants.

In addition to the Parental school and the Chicago Home for Girls, the school board has two schools—the Montefiore and Mosely—for truants, and several special vocational training centers for wayward pupils.

"In our new plan," said Dr. Johnson, "we have selected an area that shows the greatest proportion of truancy and delinquency. This is the four square miles bounded on the north by Madison street, on the south by Cermak road, on the east by Halsted street, and on the west by Western avenue.

8 Special Teachers to Do Work.

"Eight special teachers will be assigned to work in this area. Their job will be to take over the problem child when he first gives evidence of behavior difficulties, when he begins to be absent from school or when he gets into trouble outside school.

"It will be the job of these teachers not only to straighten out the problem child but also to work toward preventing delinquency. The teachers will coöperate with various social organizations in the district, such as the churches, civic clubs, and other groups to correct undesirable situations that lead to delinquency."

Dr. Johnson said efforts will be made to educate parents where the home life of delinquent students is not desirable.

BUDGET PRUNING TO BE CONTINUED, STELLE PLEDGES

Springfield, Ill., May 5.—[Special.]—Lieut. Gov. John Stelle denied today that his economy campaign has been stopped since the Democrats brought about the death of the legislative economy committee at midnight last Tuesday.

Lieut. Gov. Stelle.

Republican leaders charged yesterday that, with the committee dead, Stelle had lost interest in the savings program he has been directing at Gov. Horner's request. Meetings with constitutional officers and department heads have resulted in $2,500,000 being cut voluntarily from the proposed state budget appropriations.

From Indianapolis, where he is attending a meeting of the executive committee of the American Legion, Stelle sent word that he expects to call a meeting for Thursday to continue efforts toward reducing appropriation bills.

LOOP COMMITTEE SEEKS DETAILS ON SUBWAY HAZARDS

A committee of loop property owners conferred yesterday with Mayor Kelly and Philip Harrington, subway and traction commissioner, to find out what inconveniences will be caused by the construction of the subway. Mayor Kelly said that every effort would be made to minimize confusion and inconvenience for property owners during the construction. Studies will be made so that information can be given to property owners, he added. The committee was headed by Walter L. Gregory, former president of the State Street council.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Doctor Traces Drama Behind Story of Health

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"You're the Doctor," by Victor Heiser, M. D. [Norton, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Victor Heiser, author of "An American Doctor's Odyssey," has written another fascinating book for the layman. Erroneously, I think, the book's jacket declares it to be "Dr. Heiser's program for personal health." Although it does contain statements of the simple principles of health, it is by no means merely a "how to keep well" book.

Dr. Heiser.

Dr. Heiser says most people eat too much, drink too little water and milk, exercise too seldom, pick up germs, become nervous and crabbed, and generally fall to pieces long before they should. There wouldn't be any special excitement in reading that often told tale. However, Dr. Heiser vivifies the record by the injection of drama—the drama of modern research in what causes health and disease, the drama of wholesale life saving by disease prevention, the drama of the discovery of vitamins and drugs unknown a few years ago, the drama of the effect of green vegetables or a few drops of nicotine on a pellagra area.

He punctuates his record with an infinitude of casual detail tossed off in passing. He reminds us that salt was so highly esteemed by the ancients that the wages of Roman soldiers were sometimes paid in it—hence the term salarium, or salary. In describing bigger and better comforts he notes that "in a Chicago theater the ventilating system has reached such heights that when a bouquet of roses is thrown on the stage a charge of rose extract enables the entire audience to enjoy the fragrance."

Perhaps one reason Dr. Heiser's book is so fascinating is explained when he says, "I made a firm rule early in life to learn something every day that I did not know before." That is his excuse for reading in bed—and [if you need to have one] it might well be yours for reading "You're the Doctor."

New Faith Baldwin Novel

"Career by Proxy," by Faith Baldwin. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.] Published Monday.

Faith Baldwin is the most popular chronicler of the career girl in America. She gave the vocabulary of working girls two new phrases in the titles of two of her novels, "Office-Wife" and "Self-Made Woman." She manages to make utterly unconvincing happenings convincing by making the places they happen in as factual as a home made movie.

No matter how fantastic the idea of this heroine's career by proxy, there is no fantasy about the office where the career blooms. And although they may do unlikely things, there is nothing "by proxy" about the characters. They are human beings.

Joan Armstrong, as the book opens, is bored to death. She is the daughter of one of the richest men in the United States, but she envies every girl who has to get up by an alarm clock and earn her living by a time clock. How Joan managed to do what other [to her, more fortunate] girls did and how she found her real career fill 304 fast moving pages.

"Career by Proxy" was serialized in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE for 15 weeks, ending April 23.

Tale of a Madcap Heroine

"Katia," by Princess Marthe Bibesco. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Under the pseudonym of Lucile Decaux, Princess Marthe Bibesco, well known French author, wrote "Katia," which was published as a serial "in a Paris newspaper with an enormous sales output," as she declares in her foreword. She wrote it as the result of a luncheon table conversation at which one of the guests quoted Flaubert's opinion. "A true writer is one who can prove himself capable of writing a popular novel . . . to be read and understood by the greatest possible number of readers."

For her heroine she took Katia, the little "blue demon" who became the mistress and later the morganatic wife of Alexander II., emperor of all the Russias.

With the vividness and almost the sparseness of a movie scenario, the author tells the dramatic tale of Katia. The little girl, as a traditional enemy of the Romanoffs, destructively rode her pony into the flower bed laboriously made to bloom, "Long Live the Czar." Then, dripping from fording a river on that pony, she rode up the great steps and into the emperor's palace to berate him for arriving an hour earlier than expected. She scissored a piece of the emperor's coat as a souvenir. She defied all of Russia and its police force and gossip [equally deadly]. She went to live in the palace as the empress' lady-in-waiting and bore the emperor two children. She came within a week of being made empress of Russia, when a bomb changed her own and Russia's history.

Morley's Flights of Fancy

"Letters of Askance," by Christopher Morley. [Lippincott, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

"The most one can ask of any writing is that it be appropriate to the mood in which it is to be read," says Christopher Morley in one of the essays in this collection of thirty-six of his most characteristic flights of fancy. If your mood is one for new ideas about old books, about the same old four seasons, and about "ole Adam," touched with slight whimsy-whamsy of vocabulary, you will be one of those who will find here "the most one can ask of any writing."

Here you will find Mr. Morley playfully manufacturing words, like "bibliodisiacs," which he writes, "is a word born here in Old Loopy." ["Old Loopy," in case you are a trifle amazed, is one of Mr. Morley's handmade labels for Chicago.] Here you will find him an excellent reporter of things seen, heard, or conjured from his fertile imagination, but something of a Santa Claus. His long white beard is sometimes false, but the literary bowiful of jelly is real, for underneath the disguise of whimsy is a writer who finds life so good he must laugh about it and make others laugh.

Christopher Morley in these pages indiscriminately casts his pen upon everything. He tells with sincerity of "the silly nature-lover who simply forgets, from year to year, the details of his glamor, and has the joy of discovering all over again. He lets his imagination out for a good honest laugh in his tale of Otto Mundelein and his "Letters Home Service." But he lets his whimsy down him in "The Chevvy That Hung Her Head." He writes with deep and touching feeling about his friend, Don Marquis, and sometimes with no feeling at all about practically nothing.

Ironic Novel of Upheaval in Nazi Germany

"Swastika," by Oscar Schisgall. [Knopf, $2.] Published Monday.

Here's another novel designed to show how the Nazis are transforming Germany. When Eric Traub returns to Germany with his American wife he is amazed at the excesses to which the Nazi creed is forcing his former friends and neighbors. But before his three months' visit is over, he has succumbed to the fever of national glorification and he changes, before his wife's incredulous eyes, even more than the others. It may be pure coincidence, but a beautiful blonde Nazi lady helps along with the changing process.

Oscar Schisgall's neat little plot disregards most of the complicating features of Germany's problems, and his characters are done in black and white, with no shadings. The story works out into an ironic finale that should satisfy nearly everybody.

C. J. W.

A Section of the South

"Dossie Bell Is Dead," by Jack Boone. [Stokes, $2.50.]

It's too bad Dossie Bell had to die. If Dossie Bell had lived Mr. Boone wouldn't have had to write this realistic book. But now that it has been written it should be said that it is both instructive and absorbing. The gentle reader—if there is such a thing these days—will be jolted out of his complacency not once, but several times.

He should remember, however, that Mr. Boone is writing about a small section of a comparatively small region—not the entire south. What he says about some of the people of the Forked Deer river country in western Tennessee is entirely true. Take it from one who has been there and who left between suns.

Pleasant Autobiography

"Semi-Centennial," by Leonard Bacon. [Harper, $3.50.]

After a flood of reminiscence about the scholars who have graced Harvard Yard, Leonard Bacon's essay in autobiography comes with a meed of praise for the men who have made Yale great. And among them he has some small share, for the life which he sums up in its fiftieth year is full of brisk action, healthy animal spirits, and an ample share of great moments and men.

Mr. Bacon grew up in the precincts of the great chemical plant which helped to make his family well to do. His forbears belonged to the tight little aristocracy of New England, and his parents were distinguished in their own right. Yale and such men as William Lyon Phelps, Willard Gibbs, Albert S. Cook, and Henry Augustine Beers helped to put their stamp on him. A year abroad, then a magnificently chronicled expedition into the Nicaraguan jungles with his father, and intervals as a western rancher and a southern plantation boss went into the training for an English instructor at the University of California.

The war years broke in on teaching and poetry, which by this time had become the lights of Bacon's life. Poetry won, and as the nation staggered into prosperity, he gave up teaching to live abroad with his muse, which has won him, as he says, a small number of readers and a happy circle of friendship. It has been, he writes, "both my blessing and my curse." The Benets, Walter de la Mare and Robert Frost are his poetic circle; fishing is his enthusiasm, and modesty and a salty style [as befits a Bacon] are his virtues as an autobiographer.

First Four Volumes in Living Thoughts Library Published

The first four volumes of the Living Thoughts Library have been published. One outstanding philosopher is considered in each small volume, which contains a condensation of his works and a short essay outlining the general idea of the philosopher's thought.

Thomas Mann presents "The Living Thoughts of Schopenhauer." Andre Gide offers "The Living Thoughts of Montaigne." Theodore Dreiser writes of "The Living Thoughts of Thoreau." Stefan Zweig does "The Living Thoughts of Tolstoi." [Longmans, $1 each.]

Closeups on Bird Life

"The Watcher at the Nest," by Margaret Morse Nice. [Macmillan, $2.]

If you are a bird lover and are curious to know more about the habits of wild songsters, this painstakingly recorded account of the hour-by-hour life of the song sparrow and other birds will interest you greatly. Mrs. Nice kept a journal, used a stop watch, and spent weeks and months studying the ways of her feathered friends. Her home in Ohio was a bird sanctuary and she tells how the song sparrows divided the property among themselves, each pair staying within its own borders and ready to fight any encroachments.

She actually counted the number of times the parent birds flew with food for the little ones, the number of songs each sang in a day, and she describes every trait of personality, every little eccentricity. Later, in Oklahoma, she had an opportunity to observe denizens of the swamps and lonely forests, among them the heron. The text is attractively illustrated by drawings.

Spring Brings a New Crop of Mystery Tales

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Strawstack," by Dorothy Cameron Disney. [Random House, $2.]

"Death Elects a Mayor," by James G. Edwards. [Crime Club, $2.]

"Murder Is a Collector's Item," by Elizabeth Dean. [Crime Club, $2.]

"Judas Incorporated," by Kurt Steel. [Little Brown, $2.]

When Margaret Tillbury, spinster, inherited a fortune and moved from her Vermont home to a palatial estate in Maryland she assembled assorted members of her family about her, and then her troubles began. She contracted typhoid fever, her disagreeable nurse was murdered, and meek and mild Fred Brierly, Miss Tillbury's brother-in-law, was accused of the crime.

Two other people are killed before the snarl is unraveled. For a mystery story this tale has a quiet, leisurely pace that increases and mounts toward the end.

The action of this strange tale takes place in a city hospital, a public institution that has suffered grievously at the hands of a mayor who does not hesitate to cheat sick people for his own gain. This grafter, Pat McGuire, comes to the hospital, ostensibly as a patient, but actually to obtain the votes of its 900 employés and their families, as he is running for reelection.

The reader doesn't mind when Pat dies unexpectedly, but is curious to learn which one of his enemies beat the others to this deed of murder. "Death Elects a Mayor" is fast moving and exciting. Because its author is a doctor, all the hospital scenes have the ring of authenticity.

If you enjoy a mystery that is a good piece of writing as well as a thriller, and that is amusing as well as diverting, this one will be a delight. The locale is Boston, and the people involved run an antique shop. Their wealthiest customer, one Richard Norwitch, meets a violent death, and when nice Miss Marsh is jailed his nephew Hank, who likes her and the shop, tries to turn detective and solve the mystery.

When a second body is found there a funny little boy named Roger Corey IH. leads Hank to a taxicab driver who had disappeared, and who had been involved in the case, and Emma herself, her nimble wits darting back and forth across the strange series of events, does her share in helping.

The action of this realistic modern tale takes place in a factory town in Connecticut where a once powerful industrialist is found shot to death in his office. He had lost control of his plant during the depression and found taking orders from the new owners difficult, as they were undermining his work of a lifetime.

Hank Hyer, highly paid private detective of New York City, is engaged by the daughter, Madeleine Tower, to track down the real murderer. Hank soon realizes he is in for something bigger than the slaying of one man and that his own life is in jeopardy.

With the help of Orson Quick, a New York hotel employé, he uncovers a complicated plot, but not before more violence has been done. This mystery is well written and tinged with sardonic wit as well as suspense.

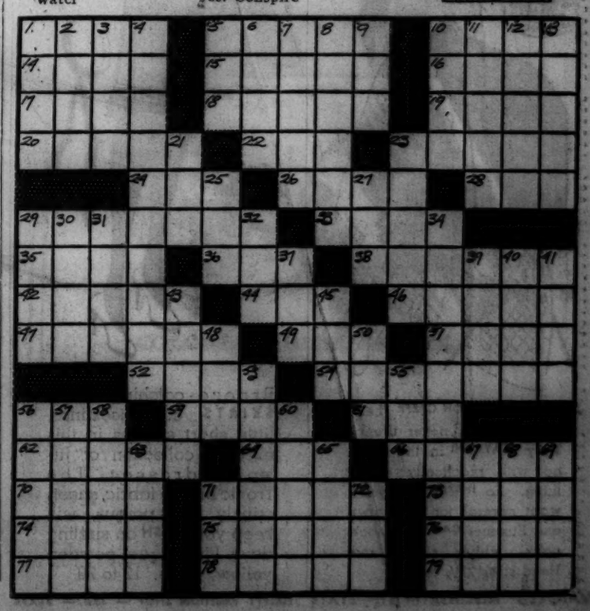
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



DOCTOR ASSAILS U. S. SOCIALIZED MEDICAL PLANS

Program Would Be Costly Error, Senators Told.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special.]—The New Deal's program to socialize medical, hospital and nursing service was assailed at a senate hearing today by a representative of the American Medical association, which includes 113,113 of the 173,879 licensed physicians in the nation.

Dr. A. W. Booth. [Acme photo.]

Dr. A. W. Booth, chairman of the association's board of trustees, told a senate education and labor subcommittee that the program for socialized medicine would prove a costly mistake, jeopardize the welfare of the people and seriously compromise the future development of the science and art of medicine.

The administration's collectivized health scheme, recommended by a committee appointed by President Roosevelt, is embodied in a bill introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.). It authorizes appropriations, beginning at $98,250,000, for the first fiscal year and increasing thereafter with the sky as the limit, for subsidy grants to states with federally approved health programs.

Payments to States.

Payments to the states would be made for maternal and child health services, for medical service for children, for public health work and investigations, for hospitals and health centers, and for general medical care, particularly in rural areas and "among individuals suffering from severe economic distress."

"If the federal and state taxes that will have to be imposed to carry this bill into effect must be imposed, then at least a substantial part of the proceeds had better be devoted to providing adequate food, clothing and shelter for the needy," said Dr. Booth. "So far as this bill is concerned, hunger, nakedness, cold and storm are to be left to wreak their damage, the bill proposing only to provide medical, hospital and nursing service to cure the damage for a while after it is done.'

Pushed by Appointees.

"No evidence has ever been offered to show that any of the projects embodied in the bill was devised by any of the people of the several states or that the enactment of this legislation is being promoted by them," said Dr. Booth. "On the contrary, it is understood that every project embodied in this bill was devised by appointive federal officials and employés, to be handed down to the people on a 'take it or leave it' basis."

Couple Robbed of Car and 75 Cents at Stoplight

A trafic delay at Wilson avenue and the outer drive early today cost Floyd Walker, 24 years old, 5910 Miami avenue, a clerk, his automobile and 75 cents. With him was Miss Helen Shimkus, 19, of 1341 North Ada street. As they stopped two bandits jumped into their car. They forced Walker to drive to Wabash avenue and Kinzie street, where they took his money and ejected him and Miss Shimkus from the car.

Mystery Recalled

Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, whose appearance in court as a spectator recalled the mysterious death of her husband, Edwin O. Schildhauer, six years ago.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. Maria Louise Birkenshaw and her estranged husband, George, parents of Mrs. Schildhauer and opponents in suit over apartment building.

An eviction suit opened before Judge Paul McWilliams of Litchfield in Superior court here yesterday recalled the unsolved slaying more than six years ago of Edwin O. Schildhauer, Austin High school bandmaster.

The suit involves the parents of Schildhauer's widow, Frances, who was in court as a spectator. Her mother, Mrs. Maria Louise Birkenshaw, is suing her estranged husband George over possession of a three story apartment building at 3435 Fulton street. Birkenshaw now lives there. He said that when he purchased the building he put the deed in his wife's name but that she signed a quit claim deed giving him title. This quit claim was not recorded but was placed in a safety deposit box they rented jointly. This paper has disappeared.

Two witnesses testified they had seen a deed such as described by Birkenshaw in its place in the box. One was Francis J. Donohue, investigator for the coroner's office, who examined the box in 1932 while seeking clews to the Schildhauer murder. Judge McWilliams continued the hearing until May 19.

FIGHT FOR LIVES OF 2 POLICEMEN SHOT BY BANDITS

Policemen Edwin McIntyre and Philip Kelly, who were shot and seriously wounded Tuesday night battling robbers in a saloon at 4623 North Western avenue, were said last night to have an even chance for recovery. They are in the Ravenswood hospital. McIntyre was shot in the head and Kelly in the abdomen.

The Michigan ex-convicts who shot them, Orville Watson and Edward Riley, alias Ryan, are under arrest in Detroit, Mich., where they went after the fight. Watson was reported recovering from a wound inflicted by one of the policemen's pistols.

Both have waived extradition to Chicago, but Watson's girl friend, Sue Smith, who fled with them, has engaged an attorney and demanded a hearing before Gov. Dickinson of Michigan. She and the men have been charged with the murder of Alex Ferguson, an undertaker who was shot in the tavern. Funeral services for Ferguson will be held in Queen of Angels church this morning.

4TH JUROR GETS ONE DAY IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

John Kostak, 37 years old, 5833 Navarre avenue, was sentenced to one day in the county jail for contempt of court yesterday by Judge E. I. Frankhauser. Kostak is the fourth to be sentenced of the members of a jury which returned a $35,000 verdict last October in a personal injury suit against the Yellow Cab company. The company charged that although the four jurors answered "No" when asked if they had ever been in an automobile accident, investigation showed all four had been involved in some sort of motor crash.

Kostak, it was shown, was riding in an automobile which killed a motorcycle policeman two years before the cab suit was tried. He said he had misunderstood the question. Mrs. Ruth G. Thrasher of Woodstock, McHenry county, was the plaintiff in the suit.

ST. CHARLES GRAD AND PAL SEIZED IN RAPE ATTEMPT

Two men, arrested with a young woman in an automobile at Oakley avenue and Superior street last night, were held at the West North avenue station on charges of attempted rape.

One of the prisoners, Frank Bono, 21 years old, 2103 Ohio street, formerly was an inmate of the St. Charles School for Boys, scene of thirty-nine escapes this year. Records at the bureau of indentification show that Bono was sent to St. Charles as a parole violator in July, 1936, but do not give the date of his release or the crime for which he was sentenced. His companion is John Conteduca, 24, of 2141 Erie street.

The young woman said the men offered to take her home from a tavern at Western avenue and Harrison street. She was struggling with them when a police squad arrived.

Robbers Pay Bill to Victim Out of Holdup Proceeds

Two young men ate banana splits yesterday in a drug store at 758 North Clark street, then called for cigarets. After a smoke they walked over to Clarence Shary, the clerk.

"That'll be 76 cents," said Shary.

"O. K., we'll leave you that much," announced one of the young men as he leveled a revolver at the clerk. "Give us the rest." They fled with $100.

THE NONPARTISAN SPIRIT IN JUDICIAL ELECTIONS.

Direct election of judges is comparatively new among our political institutions. A product of the Jacksonian democracy, it stems back in Illinois less than a hundred years, to the constitution of 1848. Before that the legislature designated judges to sit for life.

The elective process has been severely criticized. Criticism has tended to increase in recent decades, coinciding with and largely arising from the increased influence of political party organizations on electoral results. Out of this criticism have arisen numerous suggestions for changing the method of selecting the judiciary, starting with return to appointments for life, as under the federal court system, and ranging through a variety of schemes, some quite intricate, for selecting and retaining good men on the bench.

These schemes are interesting, but not germane to the immediate problem of Cook county citizens, which is the election of a full panel of Circuit judges and the filling of some other vacancies at the judicial election of June 5. It is noteworthy, however, that the primary purpose of nearly all of the schemes is to guard judicial selection against the corruption and incompetence on the bench that is held almost universally to come from the interference of the political machine.

The nonpartisan spirit in judicial elections is an old one in Illinois. It has ebbed and flowed, but in times of necessity has arisen more than once to save the courts from political domination. A half century and more ago there were instances of actually nonpartisan elections. In 1870 the Democratic party refused to nominate judicial candidates, holding that positions on the bench were not a proper subject for party action. The history of this nonpartisan spirit was effectively traced three years ago by Edward M. Martin in his work on the broader subject of the influence of the bar on judicial selection.

With the rise of party machinery nonpartisan nominations have become ineffective, but the nonpartisan spirit has persisted. When it has been successful, however, it has been necessary in recent years that it make use of the machinery of one or both of the major political parties to achieve its ends.

Thus, in 1906, the Municipal court was established, largely to rid the city of the corrupt influence of the old justice of the peace system. The Democratic party, however, included in its nominees for the new bench seven of the proprietors of the notorious old justice shops. The result was a victory for all but one of the Republican nominees. In form this was a party victory. In effect it was a manifestation of nonpartisan spirit protesting against a political judiciary.

In 1921 the corrupt Republican city hall machine sought to obtain control of the bench, refusing in the party convention to nominate several able and honest Republican incumbents on the Circuit bench. A political coalition placed the Democratic incumbents and most of the Republicans on the Democratic ticket. Five incumbents who stayed on the Republican ticket were defeated with their running mates. Again party machinery was used to win a nonpartisan victory.

Other recent coalitions, however, have been used not to foster nonpartisan selection of judges but to divide judicial office between the two political parties. There are on the bench today a number of unfit judges, products of these backroom nominations that foreclosed the voters from any effective choice.

But in spite of recent setbacks the nonpartisan spirit still contributes effectively to the standards of judicial personnel in the city. There are bad judges on the bench, but the bench on the whole is made up of men of higher standards of conduct than the average among executive and legislative officers, to whose selection by political machines public repugnance has not been so great.

This is particularly true in the Circuit and Superior courts. Courts whose judges are elected at general elections, when party spirit runs highest, have suffered much more than the two state courts whose election machinery was purposely insulated, so far as was possible, against machine influence.

Coalition moves failed in the nominations for the coming election. In consequence, the nonpartisan spirit has an opportunity to influence selection of capable and honest judges, and rejection of those sitting judges whose conduct has failed to meet such standards. Whether that spirit will manifest itself depends on whether independent voters go to the polls. They may be assured that the machine vote will turn out.

ANOTHER FORCED LANDING.

Now that the Russian flyers have been rescued after their forced landing it may be worth while to speculate about the purposes of their expedition. Perhaps they were advertising the Moscow-Washington axis which came into being when M. Litvinov, the late [in at least one sense] commissar for foreign affairs, visited the White House to win American recognition for his country from Mr. Roosevelt. Or perhaps the purpose was to show America how readily it can be bombed by the Russians. The recent removal of M. Litvinov and the reports that his dismissal is to be explained by the desire of M. Stalin to make friends with Herr Hitler give some support to this thesis.

Whatever the purpose may have been, the latest failure of the Russians to reach their goal confirms the impression left by previous failures that the Russians are inferior flyers. None of their expeditions to our shores has reached the objective assigned to it.

THE NEXT PLAY IS HITLER'S.

Poland's foreign minister, Col. Josef Beck, did not give Herr Hitler much excuse for jumping off to war, although he may not have persuaded Der Fuehrer that there was any profit or renown to be found in negotiations for a settlement of the Danzig and the corridor questions. Col. Beck said that Poland would not seek a peace of dishonor, that its interest in the corridor and the port was vital, that Germany's rights were recognized and protected, and that one-sided proposals to change conditions were not to be considered. "We in Poland," he said, "do not know the conception of peace at any price."

The attention of all the nations concerned now turns to Hitler and his counselors at Berchtesgaden, where the Nazi leader communes with his inner self and such advisers as may get his ear. In his own speech the week before he virtually committed himself to action. He made too particular a point of the Polish question and when he denounced and terminated the treaty he left himself no easy road of retreat from his position.

He said he had submitted to the Polish government a proposal that Danzig return into the framework of the German reich, that Germany receive a route through the corridor and a railway line at her own disposal, possessing for this right of way the same extraterritorial status as Poland has in the corridor.

"In return," he said, "Germany is prepared to recognize all Polish economic rights in Danzig, to insure for Poland a free harbor in Danzig of any size desired which would have completely free access to the sea, to accept at the same time the present boundaries between Germany and Poland, and to regard them as ultimate." Upon the acceptance of this proposal Hitler said he would be ready to negotiate a 25 year treaty. Poland, he said, had rejected that offer and was prepared only to negotiate concerning the question of a substitute for the commissioner of the league of nations and to consider facilities for the transit of trafic through the corridor.

"I have regretted dearly this incomprehensible attitude of the Polish government," Hitler said. But that alone, he added, was not the decisive fact. The worst one was that Poland was behaving just as Czecho-Slovakia did the year before, "under pressure of a lying international campaign."

Col. Beck did not retreat from the position taken by his government and known to Germany before Hitler made his speech of April 28. The Polish offer to negotiate is upon the Polish proposals and not the German. Hitler has made the significant comparison of the present Polish situation with the Czecho-Slovakian, and that would seem to present to him, if he is to preserve for the German people the legend of his unconquerability, the necessity of getting Danzig.

The conference at Berchtesgaden would seem to have a tough problem. Some way of eating the artichoke leaf by leaf may be found again, but Col. Beck has presented the entire vegetable. There is also the statement by Premier Daladier, made just before Beck's speech, that the security of France is at stake "and we are resolved to defend it," to which was added a communique declaring that France will be at the side of Poland under any circumstances in which the latter considers its vital interests at stake.

It may be a question whether Herr Hitler can long delay action or afford, as an all-powerful dictator, to accept negotiation on the basis of the Polish proposals. He has not yet been outbluffed in any encounter and he has not been stopped. He has asked for Danzig. If he does not get it he will have encountered his first major defeat. It has been in speculation that he might accept the petition of the city to be received within the German reich, accede to the wishes of the population, and declare that it had been welcomed into the German state. That could be done without an attack. Then if Poland refused to accept the accomplished fact and moved up an army, German troops could be sent to defend the city.

Danzig is 96 per cent German. Hitler could call it a defensive war. He is probably thinking fast. As a man of thunderbolts he may feel the need of throwing another.

CULTURE IN BLOOM.

The progress of the planned society in using the constitutional authority of government to promote the useful arts was revealed by witnesses before the house committee investigating certain projects of the WPA. Mr. Harry Hopkins, before he went into trade as head of the commerce department, was ushering in the Periclean age of America. In the warmth of the treasury sun the arts were spreading like a dandelion growth over the land.

Mr. Hopkins in the advancement of culture used the Theater project, the Writers' project, and the Arts project. The WPA revealed to the New York theater managers the inwards of a problem they never had been able to solve. It demonstrated how a production could be both a flop and a success. One show was in rehearsal eighteen months. The theaters used for the rehearsals were paid rentals running from $1,200 to $3,500 a month. The theatrical flops were the most profitable things of the season before they raised the curtain.

One failure cost $250,000, another $186,000, a third $137,000, but the rented theaters made money. Idle actors complained that they couldn't get employment in the Theater project. The WPA directors wanted persons who couldn't act for plays which couldn't be produced for rehearsals which never ended in theaters which otherwise would have been dark.

Likewise, as the witnesses before the house committee disclosed, the Writers' project preferred communists who couldn't write to writers who could. A managing editor of the project said 60 per cent of the supervisors were communists and that it was nothing more than a school for them. Dr. Tassilo Adams, supervisor for one of the writer projects, said the communists put their stuff into books intended for eighth grade school children.

The culture projects of the WPA have been its rose gardens, Red roses blooming in the pay dirt of the public treasury.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

REVENGE EAST AND WEST.

Would you like to hear about the American play that was written to dishonor the Dowager Empress of China, so that when she joined her ancestors their spirits would shrink from hers in contempt? It's an east and west revenge story that O. Henry would have turned into a minor masterpiece.

Around the turn of the century Al Woods was training himself for big time theatricals by staging cheap melodramas. Into his office one day came three dignified Chinese with a purse of gold to toss on the table. This, they stated, was an advance payment on a play with the Dowager Empress of their native country as the villainess. She was a most unworthy person who had put many of their friends and relatives to death by the thousand tortures. Would Mr. Woods cause such a play to be written and staged?

* * *

Mr. Woods would do anything in the way of show business that had the gleam of gold in it. He summoned his hack author, Edward Everett Rose, and told him to cook up something horrifying about the Dowager Empress. Mr. Rose was also capable of anything. Within a week he had concocted a hair raiser in which the Dowager Empress was depicted as the mother of all evil.

The play was staged hastily, with slipshod scenery and revamped posters. It lasted about a week, somewhere in the slums of New York. The three Chinese attended every performance, with members of their tong, and were very happy.

At the end of the week the revengeful backers came to Woods' office again, asked for a final accounting, put another purse of gold on the table, and departed. Woods never saw them again; their occupations and names were always a mystery to him.

* * *

The man who wrote this play, and told this story to us, died last month, aged 77, in New London, Wis. The historians who have to pick up the pieces of the old American theater will find the name of Edward E. Rose scattered all over the records, for he wrote or adapted 121 dramatic works. He was everybody's favorite hack during a large part of his long life.

"The Rosary" was his, and many famous novels went through his workshop. His record sounds like a catalog of best sellers; it contains adaptations of "David Harum," "Richard Carvel," "Janice Meredith," "Eben Holden," "Alice of Old Vincennes," "A Gentleman from Indiana," "Cappy Ricks," "Penrod," and "Tish."

WHO? WHO? MAYBE IT'S YOU!

Jimmy makes love à la Harvard,
And Bill with a western drawl;
Pete woos my heart with a northern twang,
And Bud with his "I loves y'all!"
But I really haven't a choice—
For my heart sings at only one voice!

Jimmy has arms like a cave man
And Bill has eyes like the sky;
Pete has a Packard and Bud has a yacht—
But for none of these men care I!
O, I can't blame the boys overmuch—
For my heart thrills to only one touch!

Jimmy has family and background;
Bill has a dignified crest;
Pete has a bank roll—Bud has a brain—
But none of these lads pass the test.
I'm afraid it's my heart that's to blame—
For my heart leaps at only one name!

Yes, all the best juveniles are doing it. Jake Irmiter's Son.

Stars of a Vanished Roof Garden.

Mention of the "Girl with the Auburn Hair" at the old Masonic Roof Garden [5-3-'39] stirred some old memories, and I looked up my old programs. Fay Templeton was on the bill of the week of July 30, 1899; Cissie Loftus, the week of Aug. 13, 1899; Houdini, the same week; Jessie Bartlett Davis, the week of Aug. 11, 1901; Blanche Ring, the week of Sept. 22, 1901. So you see they had some stars besides the auburn haired one. She was on the bill in September, 1900, and also in September, 1901. Earl Parcells.

TROUBLE WITH THE FINGERS.

THE garden variety of felon may develop in the terminal joint of any finger. As a rule some unnoticed injury has permitted the introduction of bacteria beneath the skin. The chances are that they have been smoldering along [growing] for several days. The initial accident may have been so trivial that the patient has forgotten all about it. Suddenly, however, he feels a sharp, stabbing pain which soon becomes throbbing and increases in severity. This means that pus is gathering with added pressure within the tissue layers. Able to withstand the agony for a while, he is obliged finally to leave his work or his bed, as the case may be, and pace the floor. Within a few hours the tip of the finger will become red and puffy.

The affected region is exceedingly tender to the touch—so much so that the victim will resist even a gauze dressing. Later—as the pus burrows and tissue destruction proceeds—the parts grow less sensitive. By this time the whole appearance of the structure changes from "as tight as a drumhead" to a soft, boggy mass, usually with pus exuding from one side of the nail.

At this stage so much damage may have been done that the tendon attachment to the last bone of the finger may have become loosened. If the patient presents himself to the physician before the organisms have begun to wander it may be possible to save the tendon and the end bone. But even in the softened phase it is well to evacuate the necrotic material and a fairly wide incision will be required. Early and prompt attention means safety. Allowed to run along, one of these felons may be responsible for the loss of the tip of one of the digits.

A most pernicious source of infection is the lowly hangnail. This is merely an overzealous fold of cuticle which has become partially detached, frequently tearing—thus rendering tiny capillaries accessible to microbes. It should be trimmed at once, washed with soap and water, and protected if necessary with a piece of gauze held in place with a narrow strip of adhesive. Usually these minute lesions will get well within twenty-four hours, whereupon the danger is over.

Another common and annoying malady involving a distal joint is known as paronychia or "run around." These outbreaks usually start with a hangnail. Sometimes dirty manicure tools will be at fault. Tiny abscesses may arise at the side of the nail and these, if observed and opened without delay, will be corrected quickly. There is, however, a mildly chronic type. The area will feel sore, appear swollen, and now and then on pressure a drop or two of pus may be expressed. In time the blemish may encircle the base of the nail, finally reaching the opposite side, so that within two or three weeks all of the adjacent tissue is inflamed—a hothouse for germs.

Now and then the nail is so loose that it can be lifted off its bed and—if the chronic discharge continues—this horny layer sloughs off of its own accord and is lost. This is the result of nothing but bad management and neglect, as such cases cannot be treated with poultices or salves. The remedy is heat—prolonged soaking in hot water—followed by drainage, thus stopping the progress of the infection.

Workers in special industries are likely to suffer chemical skin lesions, and for those who are prone to such attacks heavy leather or rubber gloves should be worn. In some instances it is well to oil the hands lightly with lanolin or cocoa butter before donning the protection.

It is so much easier to avoid these disturbances than it is to go through the expensive process of trying to heal them once they have obtained a head start. Every scratch, pin prick, or cut can be scrubbed thoroughly and then hidden away from bacteria with a proper dressing. We must recall that streptococci and staphylococci are lurking everywhere only too ready to pounce upon what is to them a comfortable habitation in the vicinity of a wound.

MONOXIDE POISONING.

F. D. writes: In carbon monoxide poisoning are there any warning symptoms?

REPLY.

A headache is usually the earliest sign and some patients never pass beyond this stage. With others, nausea and vomiting are present. As absorption increases there may be palpitation, muscular weakness, dizziness, difficulty with vision, drowsiness, followed by convulsions.

HAVE DOCTOR DO IT.

E. I. writes: How may a speck be removed from the eyeball?

REPLY.

This is a technical procedure and should be performed by a physician. It is advisable usually to employ a local anesthetic so that the eye will not move during the operation.

HEADACHE.

E. A. writes: I am depressed because of frequent headaches. What advice can you give me?

REPLY.

There are as many causes for headache as there are for about any condition you could mention. Try to find the source of your difficulty. A skilled physician can help you. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 27 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

THE REST OF THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Chicago, May 1.—"It does not comport with the policy of the United States to take any part in the politics or the wars of European powers in matters relating to themselves."

Who said that? That is the first clause in the doctrine issued by President Monroe in 1823! Better known is the second statement in the doctrine which we have named for Monroe: "The United States would regard as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition to itself the effort of any European power to interfere with the political system of the American continents or to acquire any new territory on these continents."

Diplomats have been busy reproclaiming the second clause, but too often they forget that the doctrine is voidable unless the first clause is also observed—and that first clause, quoted above, binds the United States to stand back from the political intrigues and wars of Europe. A contract is voidable unless all of its provisions are carried out. The Monroe Doctrine is voidable unless, as we promised, we stay out of Europe as we demand that Europe stay out of America. President Monroe knew it was useless to expect Europe to stay out of American affairs if America did not herself stay out of European affairs.

FERGUS MCKEEVER.

ANOTHER TICKET RACKET.

Chicago, May 1.—By virtue of being precinct captain my uncle is a county highway policeman. With no civil service to protect him, he finds himself utterly helpless to voice protest when Sheriff Thomas O'Brien, through Chief of Police Lester Laird, arbitrarily allots tickets to him. Laird has handed each highway policeman $25 worth of tickets for a May 24 dance. It is supposed to be for some welfare purpose, but this is part of the old army game.

The highway policemen are told to get rid of the tickets some way and this hint gives development to effort at pawning them off on some motorist who has violated some trafic rule.

We are informed the county scrub women, many of them with families, also come in for a share of the shakedown tickets. They well realize even a mumbled protest means discharge. In fairness I ask, is this not a form of peonage?

My uncle says Chief Laird should let the Skidmore - Johnson - Vogel gambling syndicate underwrite the whole dance, as the take from the slot machines each week is enormous. B. J. K.

INSURANCE.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had a four room cottage put up on my lot which is paid for. There is a garage on it also paid for. The cottage isn't finished inside, because we are going to do that ourselves. We pay the bank every month like rent, starting next month. The bank took out fire insurance and sent me the bill to pay for and they hold the policy. Now I want to get some insurance, too, and was told [1] that I could not collect any insurance if there was a fire, that only the bank can do that.

2. Can I take out fire insurance? The bank took out insurance for $1,000 and we owe them $845. There is at least $500 or $600 to be spent on the inside and I would like to protect that. H. S.

1. It seems probable that you have misunderstood them. What they doubtless told you was that both policies must be worded in the same way, namely, that any loss should be payable first to the mortgage holder as his interest may appear and that you would receive only the balance. You should recognize that paying off the mortgage is equivalent to a payment to you.

2. Yes. Take the matter up with an independent broker. The advisability of taking out further insurance depends on the value of the property. We are not in a position to pass upon this.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Hammond, Ind., April 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What is the legal limit on the collection of a debt secured by a mortgage on Indiana real estate?

2. In the event the estate is kept open indefinitly, how long will the debt be collectible? C. K.

1. Ten years, but the debt could be kept alive longer by interest payments.

2. What estate? If the debtor's estate is probated and no claims filed, then personal liability will be lost but the lien will continue. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COAL OPERATORS AND JOHN L. LEWIS.

Chicago, May 2.—The coal industry will not thank THE TRIBUNE for its editorial on the coal strike in today's issue. It is quite evident that THE TRIBUNE is, as ever, antagonistic to the best interests of the industry, which it does not support and, in fact, has fought on several occasions.

Experienced operators will tell THE TRIBUNE that they would much prefer to have one strong union, whether you call it closed shop or whatever name you give to it, than a half dozen unions which can promote strikes at each and every opportunity. Illinois operators have had experience of this dual unionism and are still living to regret it. Some Southern Appalachian operators feit that by holding out against the closed shop they might prevent unionism altogether. Since that in these days is impossible, they will agree to the closed shop using one strong union and, of course, the union will capitulate on the penalty issue.

LIONEL FARR.

PULASKI.

Chicago, May 2.—In THE TRIBUNE'S editorial, "Crawford Avenue," some one seemed to have overlooked an important fact, namely, that Casimir Pulaski, a Polish general, came over to this country and spent nearly his entire fortune in organizing the first American cavalry, and in the end he laid down his life that you and I could enjoy freedom in this wonderful country of ours we call America. BERNICE WATKA.

CHECKING THE SCORE.

Cincinnati, O., May 2.—Now that the two big guns of historical sophistry have for the moment let up in their trans-Atlantic barrage with the score of direct hits decidedly favoring the less erudite Big Bertha of surer fire and more logical aim, it may not be amiss for some of us innocent bystanders to check up the results accruing to us.

Was this barrage of the Big Berthas helpful in relieving millions of us of the threatened foreclosures on our homes?

Did it in any way tend to lessen the tax burdens that are breaking our backs?

Did it put one single one of our 11,000,000 unemployed back to work?

Did it do anything to keep open the doors of thousands of our small businesses that are just one step ahead of the sheriff?

Did it prove helpful to a single farmer of the entire country?

Did it offer anything constructive toward the solution of our grave railway problem?

Or was it just the popping off of a couple of egocentrics who would soon become mere pinwheels in their normal activities as paper hanger and vending machine promoter, respectively, did they not have access to billions of the people's money, the radio, and the headlines? O. C. T.

"THE COLORS."

Burlington, Wis., May 1.—We mothers owe you a debt of gratitude for publishing Mr. McCutcheon's drawing, "The Colors," in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. "It is the finest argument against another European war fought by American soldiers that I have ever seen," a Legionnaire told me.

We thought so, too, and have had it placed in the glass case for public notices that hangs near the entrance to our city hall. Here the fathers and mothers of our town who pass by may read its timely warning and decide whether their sons shall work in factories and the gold green fields of peace or lie forevermore in the cross-marked graves of some foreign shore. A WISCONSIN MOTHER.

ABE LINCOLN TODAY.

Wichita, Kas., May 2.—If that rugged individualist, Abraham Lincoln, had been a boy today the chances are that a kindly government would have furnished Lincoln's father with a good floor for his cabin, some civic club would have supplied the young man with a reading lamp while another would certainly furnish him with a set of good books. Federal officers would see to it that he did not go to work until he was 16 years of age and that then he must not break the law by accepting anything less than the established minimum wage, and furthermore that he must not work more than a maximum limit of hours. He would doubtless be regimented into some organization wherein any tendancy to rugged individualism would be smoothed off into conventional regularity. The youth movement would then be ready to take him in charge and would push him through college at government expense. In short, there would be no Abraham Lincoln.

NEW MOVIE NUISANCE.

Chicago, May 3.—I suppose it is futile for an ordinary fellow who tries to be considerate of other moviegoers to complain about loud gum chewers or dental tsk-takers. But now they're selling popcorn in the lobbies of our best movie houses! The lunching, munching, and crunching that goes on—the rattle of bags, the pungent smells, the passing back and forth! L. L. TRAFIC IN THE CORRIDOR.

Highland Park, Ill., May 2.—Here's how to prevent the next war. Just put a stop and go sign at the Polish corridor. When it's green the corridor will be German; when it's red the corridor will be Polish; anybody crossing against the lights will get shot, of course, but not as many are apt to die that way as in a war. WISCONSIN MILK PRICE FIXING HIT BY HOUSEWIVES

Dealers Also Suffer as Demand Drops.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 5.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner's milk investigators recorded in their notebooks today that dealers and their housewife customers are opposed to price fixing as practiced in Wisconsin and as proposed for Illinois in bills pending before the Springfield assembly. Both groups are hurt by the tendency of political control to inflate retail prices, they were told.

Mrs. Sylvia Shiras, chairman of a consumers' problems committee of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, said that public hearings on the milk control question failed to express the customers' viewpoint because women were not aware of what was going on. She also told Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, president of the Chicago Housewives league, one of the investigators, of increases in sales of evaporated and condensed milk while political regulation was causing high prices for bottled milk.

Must Arouse Illinois Women.

"In Illinois," commented Mrs. Fribley, "we also have the problem of informing housewives that the threatened legislation will increase their milk bills. Furthermore, even those who are aware of this danger have such a comparatively small financial interest that it is hardly worth their while to appear before the assembly personally to oppose the bills.

"A public hearing on the bills is scheduled for next Thursday before the house of representatives at Springfield. Because of the expense involved it's doubtful that many women will be able to attend."

Arthur R. Buehring of De Kalb, Ill., distributor representative in the delegation, learned here that it was the dealers and not the state milk administration that forced the Milwaukee cut from 12 to 10 cents a quart two months ago. He also found that consumption has increased since the price reduction.

Price Cut Up to Union.

The Milwaukee driver receives a wage of $34.50 a week plus commissions averaging $5.50. The Chicago driver receives $48 a week plus commissions of $3 or $4. The Chicago wage rate, contributing to the high cost of milk there, is under negotiation. If the union will accept a slash, a cut in retail prices seems likely.

The investigators, headed by Dr. H. A. Ruehe of the University of Illinois, will look into milk control in Indiana before making their report to Springfield next week. Arthur Hartman of Hampshire, Ill., is representing the Chicago milk producers council on the trip.

ALLMAN WARNS LIQUOR SELLERS TO CLOSE AT 1 A.M.

Strict enforcement of the 1 a. m. closing law governing Chicago taverns was ordered yesterday by Police Commissioner Allman. The order, it was said, applies to cabarets as well as saloons and package liquor stores. The cabarets may stay open and sell food, but no drinks, after 1.

A number of captains, among them Capt. Patrick Collins of Woodlawn, began quietly tightening the reins in their districts last Saturday. Capt. George O'Connor of the 1st district sent policemen to all taverns in the loop yesterday, to warn owners that the closing rule must be observed. Two hundred tavern owners in the Des Plaines street district were called into the station last evening and received a personal warning from Capt. Julian Bernacchi.

Hours when sale of liquor is prohibited are from 1 to 7 a. m. on weekdays and from 2 a. m. to noon on Sundays.

HEIL TO ADDRESS GERMAN GROUPS IN CITY TONIGHT

Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin will speak tonight in the Germania club, Clark street and Germania place, at a banquet celebrating the twenty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the German club of Chicago. Among the organizations participating in the celebration are the Germania club, the Germania Women's club, the auxiliary of the German club of Chicago, the German-American Citizens' league, the Chicago Schuetzen Verein, the Schiller Liedertafel Damen Verein, the German Day association, the Schwaben Verein, the Plattdeutsche Gilden, the Harugari Liedertafel, the German Aid society, and the Central Verein. The ceremony will open with presentation of colors by the police post of the American Legion. Capt. George H. Weidling is president of the German club.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Mary Potter Smith.

Mrs. Mary Potter Smith, widow of Frank McNary Smith, a pioneer south side real estate dealer, died yesterday in her home at 999 Lake Shore drive. She was 69 years old. Mrs. Smith, who had lived on the north side since her husband's death in 1921, was the daughter of Delano W. Potter, another real estate pioneer. She was an accomplished pianist, active in child welfare work, and a member of the Contemporary and Melodist clubs. Surviving are two sons, Potter Lewis Smith, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, and Calvin Stephens Smith, a patient in the United States Veterans hospital at Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Fourth Presbyterian church, Chestnut street and Michigan avenue, where Mrs. Smith was for many years a Sunday school teacher. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

Dr. Philip H. Holmes.

Tarpon Springs, Fla., May 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Philip H. Holmes, 69 years old, retired Chicago physician, died suddenly in his home here today. He had resided here since retiring from practice in Chicago eight years ago. Dr. Holmes was a noted numismatist, philatelist, and collector of firearms. He was born in Bloomington, Ill., was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Chicago, and for many years was a member of the staff of the Englewood hospital there. Funeral services will be held here Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. The body will be shipped to Bloomington for interment. Survivors are his widow, Idyl M. Holmes, and two sisters, Mrs. Russell Anderson, Wilmette, Ill., and Mrs. Leslie Melville, San Diego, Cal.

Mrs. Nellie Wheeler Bryan.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Wheeler Bryan, 89 years old, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in her residence at 1423 Touhy avenue. Mrs. Bryan, widow of Frederick W. Bryan, a pioneer Chicagoan, died Thursday. Her birthplace was Binghamton, N. Y., and she had been a resident of the Rogers Park district for thirty-four years. A daughter, Mrs. Henry Grant Steinson, survives.

C. Groverman Ellis.

Funeral services for C. Groverman Ellis, a partner in Stein, Brennan & Co., dealers in stocks, bonds, and grains, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the family home in Wayne, Du Page county. Mr. Ellis died Thursday in his home. He was 54 years old.

Englewood, N. J., May 5.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Elihu Calvin Simpson, 89 years old, oldest clergyman connected with the United Presbyterian church and oldest member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, died at his home here today.

Col. Thomas Ridgway.

San Diego, Cal., May 5.—(AP)—Col. Thomas Ridgway, 77 years old, U. S. A., retired, who in 1900 commanded the only American artillery battery of the Boxer relief expedition in China, died at the Naval hospital today.

Sir Harry Stoner.

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—Sir Harry Stoner, 79 years old, who had served in the royal household for 56 years, died tonight following several weeks' illness.

CUSTOMS AGENTS UNCOVER CAVIAR IN GARBAGE CART

New York, May 5.—(AP)—A cartload of garbage, drawn by two spavined horses today yielded a king's feast of canned caviar, a dozen kinds of sausage, pork, bacon, chickens, and turkeys.

Customs officers stopped the wagon as it was drawn off the liner Bremen's dock. They found the garbage was just a veneer, and underneath a layer of canvas they uncovered the cache of delicacies.

The officers deduced that the driver had some kind of working agreement with somebody in the liner's pantry and arrested him on a smuggling charge.

Noted Kentucky Estates Will Be Open for Tour

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOT all May visitors to Kentucky timed their trips so that they would be in Louisville for the Derby today. A garden tour that the Garden Club of Kentucky is sponsoring is attracting numerous people to that state next week-end. The tour of stock farms, old homes, and gardens around Lexington, Frankfort, Louisville, Bardstown, Paris, and Maysville, will be on May 12, 13, 14, and 15. The proceeds will be used to restore the garden of Liberty hall in Frankfort.

Liberty hall was built in 1796 by John Brown, first United States senator from Kentucky and in its garden was held the first Sunday school west of the Allegheny mountains. The women of the Kentucky Garden club are anxious to preserve the old roses, box hedges, and wild flowers that for many years have struggled to survive. The Georgian house was designed by Thomas Jefferson and contains many fine examples of early American furniture, china, glass, and silver.

Historic, Modern Estates to Be Opened.

Among the sixty places that will be open to the tourists are Federal hill, popularly known as "My Old Kentucky Home" because it was the inspiration for Stephen Foster's song of that title; Ashland, the home of Henry Clay, who moved to Kentucky from Virginia in 1797; Elmendorf, Joseph E. Widener's famous race horse farm; Faraway farm, home of Man o' War, Samuel D. Riddle's famous horse; Idle Hour, Col. E. R. Bradley's place, where several Derby winners have been born; Hurstbourne, Mrs. A. T. Hert's extensive farm; Oxmoor, which has been in the same family since 1786 and now is owned by the Marshall Bullitts; and Edgecomb, which belongs to Frederick M. Sackett, former ambassador to Germany, and Mrs. Sackett.

Some who go to the Derby at Churchill Downs today undoubtedly will stay on for the garden tour. They will need next week in which to rest, no doubt, if they take part in all the Derby festivities, for there will be no sleep for the thousands who are in Louisville today and tomorrow. By air, highway, and rail the visitors have been thronging into the Kentucky city for several days, all with one idea—to pick the winner and to see the seventh race at Churchill Downs this afternoon.

There will be some, of course, who won't see the start [4:30 Louisville time, 5:30 our time] of the classic race, for the breakfast parties that commence the day's celebration sometimes last well into the night.

Famous Breakfast at Pendennis Club.

One of the largest and best known breakfasts is given at the Pendennis club, where annually there is a feud as to which is the proper mint julep—one made according to the Kentucky recipe or one concocted from a recipe used by the Maryland club in Baltimore. Kentuckians and their Derby visitors are the judges. The chief points of difference are whether the mint should be bruised and whether straws should be used.

Martin, the Pendennis club's chief bartender, belongs to the school that bruises the mint although his recipe instructs one to "bruise the few sprigs of mint in the bottom of a silver julep cup slightly." He puts one teaspoon of sugar and just enough water to dissolve it in the bottom of the julep cup, then the mint. Then he fills the cup with crushed ice, adds two ounces of Kentucky Bourbon whisky, spoons it well, adds more cracked ice, spoons it slightly, sticks in a full bunch of mint so that it spreads carelessly over the top, and serves the frosted cup with a linen doily.

The Maryland recipe calls for Maryland straight rye whisky. It is served at the Pendennis, too, today and tomorrow, by veterans from the Maryland club.

The John Colemans, the Vincent Healys, the William Popes, Stuyvesant Peabody, and the young "Stuyvie" Peabodys, the Farwell Winstons,

Actress "Best Girl" for Dartmouth Party

"Take mine" Henry S. Embree, Donald McPhail, John C. Weisert, H. Andrew Dudley, and Robert S. Critchell (left to right) cried in a chorus to Miss Gertrude Lawrence as all five tried to hand her invitations to the Springtime Carnival the Dartmouth Alumni association will give next Saturday at the Drake hotel. Miss Lawrence will be the guest of honor at the party, which will be preceded by numerous cocktail and dinner parties.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

It Ain't Necessarily So.

Hollywood, Cal., May 5.—Some characters become so identified with particular movie rôles that you can pardon the public for regarding them in that light. Take, for instance, my good friend and excellent "menace," Brian Donlevy. Brian has played so many parts as a gambling house proprietor that when you meet him on the street, you expect to see him picking his teeth with a pair of dice. If ever a player has been typed, it is Donlevy. You have seen him in a checkered suit in most of the best saloons built by Hollywood carpenters. Unless he is in the saloon, it doesn't seem believable, and inevitably there is a gambling layout connected with the place. Donlevy, in real life, doesn't drink and he doesn't gamble, and he doesn't own a checkered suit. Typically American, he was born in Ireland.

Jim Cagney—on the screen—is a quiet, poisonous tough guy, always spoiling for a fight and quite a capable chappie when it comes to handling himself in a free-for-all. Cagney—in private life—is a mannerly little fellow, with a very liberal attitude toward life and the people who live it. In all of the Hollywood night club brawls there is one name you never read as a participant—the name of Jim Cagney.

Tough guy and "killer" on the screen, Edward G. Robinson off the screen spends all of his money buying beautiful paintings. Funny Man Edward Everett Horton devotes his life to taking care of his mother, and he has built her the most amazing place in this colony. . . . Myrna Loy, the screen's most perfect wife, parallels that rôle off screen as Mrs. Arthur Hornblow. She works for M-G-M, he is a producer at Paramount.

Bette Davis, cold and heartless on the screen, is a good natured girl who would shrink from insulting a person. . . . Even she can't explain how she learned to be so biting on movie sets. . . . May Robson, who in "Kid from Kokomo" plays a vixenish old drunk, never had a drink in her life.

Clark Gable, who has played more aviators than most actors, prefers to travel by train. . . . Villainous Bruce Cabot, off screen spends all of his time playing golf. . . . Pat O'Brien, often cast as a priest, most often is to be found at Santa Anita or Hollywood Park, trying to dope the races.

Basil Rathbone, who has killed more people in cold blood than any British actor, is the soul of geniality. . . . Boris Karloff raises rare roses and is an expert on flora and fauna. . . . George O'Brien, western hero, is the son of a former police chief of San Francisco. . . . Western Hero Dick Foran is the son of Col. Foran of New Jersey and never got closer to the prairie than the campus of Princeton university. . . . So when you go to movies don't express wonderment that the movie players and directors occasionally make "boners." Express amazement that they do things so very well and accurately, because the screen bankers, brokers, doctors, tough guys, newspaper men, lawyers, et cetera, never have had any experience in real life at those rôles. They're really make-believing.

Day Nursery Party.

St. Columbkille's Day Nursery auxiliary will hold its annual spring luncheon today at the nursery, 527 North Paulina street. Mrs. Catherine Garvery Meyers will be hostess.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If we aren't well versed as to what went on in our fair country when it was a pup, that's not going to be the fault of the movie producers.

All in one breath, so to speak, we've had "Stand Up and Fight," "Let Freedom Ring," "Jesse James," "The Oklahoma Kid," "Dodge City" . . . Now comes "Union Pacific," produced in Cecil De Mille's usual expansive fashion, to give us a cinematic taste of what our pioneering forefathers went through in order to lay a railroad which should unite the two oceans. It is the veteran producer's sixty-fifth production.

Magnificent scenery, superbly photographed, has this movie and, as the stern business of building a railroad proceeds—an accomplishment achieved entirely by the Irish if one is to judge by brogue . . . you sit in on enough excitement of assorted kinds to outfit a baker's dozen of ordinary photoplays. . . . There are gun fights, saloon brawls, train wrecks, and robberies, intrigue in high and low places, and romance with a capital "R" . . . For the road postmistress—daughter of the doughty engineer is loved by two rarin' tearin' he men—Capt. Jeff Butler, "trouble shooter" for the road, and Dick Allen, one time army buddy of Jeff's who, at present, is trouble maker.

Allen and his partner, Sid Campeau, have been hired by a rival railroad for the purpose of stirring up dissension among the U. P. employés, dissension and dissatisfaction which shall prevent the track's reaching Promontory Point on time and so further the interests of dastardly politicians.

Hell breaks loose a-plenty. But, as you know, there was no such word as "failure" in our American pioneering lexicon. . . .

Mr. De Mille has, in popular jargon, given to "Union Pacific" everything he's got. The result is—another De Mille spectacle.

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea carry off the romantic honors with zest and grace. Robert Preston, with his flashing, reckless smile, makes a fascinating villain. Brian Donlevy manages to be properly sinister as Campeau. . . . But the folks I liked best were Lynne Overman and Akim Tamiroff as Jeff's body guards. They insert some real acting and humor into the production.

The picture is over two hours long.

See you tomorrow.

Renoirs in Chicago.

The tall, distinguished looking man with a white goatee looking at the Renoirs at the Art institute the other day was Lionel Venturi, expert on Italian painting and author of books on Italian primitives, Venetian painting, and a general history of Italian art. He now is at work on a complete Renoir catalog, for which he is taking notes on the twenty-one Renoirs in the Chicago Art institute. The Chicago collection probably is the second greatest in America. Dr. Barnes in Philadelphia has the largest.

* * *

The late Mrs. Potter Palmer was the first Renoir owner in Chicago. She purchased one in April, 1892, and three more that same year, and was severely criticized by fellow citizens for throwing her money away on such bad modern paintings. She gave ten Renoirs to the Art institute. They have increased in value ten times since she purchased them, and one of them forty times.

Mrs. Palmer had great flair and vision in art. As early as the '80s she had evinced her interest in the French impressionist painters. The present Mrs. Potter Palmer, her exquisite, quiet-voiced daughter-in-law, has a similar flair, and has accumulated a fine collection of modern paintings.

Your Chicago and Mine Notes.

The philosophical barber on Division street near Dearborn, who puts quotations from Plato and Seneca in the window, copied in a fine, even hand. Last week it was Chinese proverbs. . . . Young women playing ball during lunch hour at Quincy near La Salle. . . . Ice cream man at Wilson and Ashland who plays a guitar and sings at his post.

* * *

Jimmy Dykes, manager of the White Sox, and Bill Dietrich, star pitcher of the Sox, at the Blackhawk. . . . Tin pan alley boys or, formally, the Professional Music Men, Inc., also Ted Weems, Eddie Duchin, Russ Morgan, and the Yacht club boys talking over the popularity of their new songs at 4 a. m. at Rickett's. . . . And walking over to the lake to see the day break. . . . Eugene P. Thomas of New York, president of the Foreign Trade council, with Clyde Parsley. . . . Lovely Mrs. Walter Huston (Nan Sunderland) here to join her husband for the rest of the run of Knickerbocker Holiday. Pedestrians stopping to gape at a five foot diamond back rattler in a cheese shop window on Lake street. . . . And at three little fish in a music store window, advertising a recording of the song.

Relativity Note.

Deering Davis went to see The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle at the movies and the next day, as he walked into his office in Cedar Rapids, said to his young secretary:

"Be sure to go to see the movie about the Castles."

"I don't like historical pictures," she answered.

Current Gag.

A young business executive listened with interest and indignation to a story his secretary told.

As she got out her dime to pass it into the window on her way home on the "L" she dropped it, she said, and a woman in front of her with her arms full of bundles put her foot over the coin. When she expostulated the woman snapped, "Finders keepers!" The secretary produced another dime rather than make a scene. Squeezing inside the car she found a seat right beside the woman who had appropriated her dime. The woman got off several stations before the secretary and left one of her bundles on the seat.

"I hope you kept it and took it home with you," said the indignant boss, and when the secretary nodded he said, "What was in it?"

"Baloney—like the rest of the story," she retorted.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The sun brings out more than freckles and flowers. It brings out every latent ache and creak in the foot. If you're one of the lucky ones [and sensible enough to wear sensible shoes, perhaps] you might not know about this from first foot experience but you can see signs of it on the street. Women are limping along, with anguish written all over their faces.

Correcting foot troubles is the answer to the problem of feet that hurt in hot weather. Proper shoes and the necessary chiropody are the prescription. But there are some external aids to comfort that shouldn't be overlooked by the woman with not-too-good feet who must trot briskly all day long.

One of our favorites is a cooling foot lotion. It's a friend in need in hot weather, not only to ease foot discomfort but actually to lessen general fatigue. It's one of the best pick-ups we know of for those days when you feel too tired to live.

This lotion is made by a very fine house and is as good as they can contrive. The fragrance baffles us a little. It feels cool as snow against the skin but there's no heavy scent of menthol. It's very simple to use. Just sprinkle a few drops over the tired, aching feet and ankles and massage freely. A five minute treatment will do wonders for you.

The skin will feel cool and smooth and immensely refreshed. Every woman who walks a great deal should have some of this on her dressing table. And all those who're going off to the fairs which seem to surround us these days should arm themselves with it. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Pin Dot Fabric Styles Smart Career Suits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Saturday specials for career girls! The newest two piece winner of the week is a duet of subtle contrast and unusual pattern. The material is novelty weave rib stuff printed with hundreds of tiny stars. A flared skirt is of either navy blue or black, the black with white stars pin point size; the navy sprinkled with dusty pink. The sleekly tailored tops have short sleeves, a brace of chest pockets, a deep oblong cut neckline, and goes under the skirt at the waist.

The tops have either a white or a dusty pink background, with the black stars on the white, navy stars against the blue. The belt for the black and white is of lipstick red patent leather about a half inch wide . . . belt for the navy is of dusty pink. Priced around $12, these are a find of the week.

Fish net wrap around turbans are especially attractive both in price and the speed with which they can be wrapped around a coiffure. They are good enough to wear in town or country and the colors are practically unlimited. Finished with decorative balls covered with the net, they rate all the shopping excitement they're causing. To keep them in place and to try something very new, see the long hairpins that come in pairs. Gold metal affairs about five inches long, and they look like huge hardware staples.

The colors are just as attractive in the meshes of the snoods as are the gleaming silver or gold metal numbers. You stick them into the snood with a double back twist and they stay in through a gale, keeping your hair as well as hat in the original position. One of the best inexpensive gadgets yet presented, a good gift for a bridal shower or for the bride to give her bridesmaids.

Parent Selfish Trying to Keep Girl Single

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Paulina's problem is unusual in our annals.

She has a boy friend of whom her mother disapproves, not for any particular reason but because Paulina is mamma's sole companion.

Paulina's solution is a good idea if it works. She would like to get her mother married off. Mamma has been a widow for seven years, and Paulina thinks this would be the ideal disposition of her parent. But mamma says she does not want to marry again. She has enough money to see her through and she'd rather have her Paulina with her than the best man on earth.

Her mamma is attractive, Paulina tells. Better looking than her daughter, the girl says. And clever in lots of ways. Is a perfect housekeeper, cook, knits and sews beautifully, and would be a desirable mate for any man, Paulina argues.

It's a great idea, Paulina, but it does need mamma's coöperation. You might produce the grandest catch in the world, but if mamma won't be persuaded, she won't.

We would suggest, however, that you serve notice on mamma that you are going to have your own home; that you are not going to sacrifice your marriage chances for her. It might set her to thinking about this other way out for her. As long as she can work on your sympathies, she will.

If she is well placed financially, you don't even want to consider taking her into your home, as she probably would like. She had her fling at marriage. Now it's your turn.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Have You Morris Chair to Give?

Mr. D. is endeavoring to support his family by WPA work. There are four in the family, and his salary is barely enough for necessities. He is further handicapped by a back ailment, and is much in need of a surgical belt, the type used for sacroiliac disorders, size 36. Because of his ailment it is frequently impossible for him to lie in bed, and he would appreciate a Morris chair with an adjustable back. The address is on the northwest side.

Well Ordered Dressing Table Is Important

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A well appointed dressing table is every woman's right and privilege. It is an absolute essential to her beauty care. If she goes to business and cannot spend time in the morning before its mirror there must be some time during the twenty-four hours that is given over to its salvaging creams and lotions if one is to keep face before the world.

If, through lack of space, or for some other reason, one does not have the dressing table at which to spend time on beauty care, its equivalent should be manufactured to suit individual needs.

In the case of Dorothy Quick, well known writer, who has been troubled many years with a heart ailment, doctor's orders compel her to spend mornings in bed if she is safely and comfortably to go through the luncheon appointments, the radio and speaking engagements that are the order of her day.

All her writing is done in bed in the morning, and she has found that by doing her beauty care there also, she has more energy for other things. To accomplish this Miss Quick has fitted up her own bedside dressing table.

A good sized makeup box in green quilted satin looks attractive on the lower section of her night table and is a marvel of utility. It opens on the lap, the mirror inside its top being large enough to reflect the most upswept coiffure. There are three spacious compartments in which Miss Quick, with deft management, is able to keep all those very important beauty aids which most women spread over an entire dressing table and the bathroom shelves as well.

In one compartment are all the things to do with the care of the hair. A comb, a good stiff brush, bobby pins, hair curlers, hair ribbons, and net to keep the hair in place at night are all important to have at hand.

Another compartment holds all the things to do with the care of the skin as well as the makeup cleansing cream, night cream, skin lotion, powder base, powder, rouge, lipstick, eyeshadow, eyelash comb, mascara, and tweezers.

In the third compartment is a complete set of manicure accessories, together with a pair of toenail scissors. So expertly does Miss Quick pack her makeup box that in this third compartment she also has room for some of her favorite costume jewelry, so that may also be adjusted in perfect comfort.

The Housewife

Hunting for a good looking yet inexpensive gift for a man? We came across a number of cork stoppers for liquor bottles. The stoppers have ornamental tops of silver metal. These cost very little. For the man who likes the sea there is a stopper with a sailor's head, or one with a sailing boat. Another has a silver fish on it, and still another has a horse's head, beautifully done.

Bottle openers with decorative handles, to match these stoppers, are also available.

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home, where he meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. In a surprise encounter with Banderas, who has been routed from Mexico, Jeff disarms the bandit and his men. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas joins Lane. Jeff counsels diplomacy. He offers to be an envoy of good will among the better element, and with Jim Williams, starts for the ranch of Carl Nielsen. In town they hear of the death of Bob Sutter, who'd been wounded by a Raleigh man.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

FLYING BULLETS.

"Or else?" Jeff asked quietly.

Robbins flung out a hand in excited gesture. "I'm not making any threats. Haven't you any sense, man? Pancho Banderas is out to get you."

Old Jim cut in. "So it's Pancho you're expecting, Bob?"

The cattle man turned his harried face on Williams. "I'm not expecting any one."

The keen eyes of the cowpuncher narrowed. "The hell you're not. Take us for a pair of fools? You're lookin' for Pancho and his gang to ride over that hill." He added, in an accusing high falsetto, wagging a lean forefinger at the rancher: "Maybe yore job is to hold us here till they come."

"That's a lie," Robbins cried. "What do you expect, you old lunkhead? This fellow here goes out of his way to rile Pancho up after he is already killing mad at him. Then you ride into Trail End and let everybody see you take the road here. Is it your idea Pancho is going to sit down and take it like a whipped cur? Not on your life. Sure I heard talk today in town. Plenty of it. Bob Sutter died this morning. And I heard Pancho was starting out on the war path. It hasn't a thing to do with me—not a thing."

"But you don't want us shot down on your ranch," Jeff suggested, a thin smile creasing his face.

"All right, I don't," Robbins snapped. "I got troubles enough already. I'll show you the trail to the Rex R ranch from here. It runs over the hills. You won't be able to take the car all the way, but you can hoof the rest of it."

"Good of you to take so much trouble for us," Jeff said, an edge of derision in his voice. "But we're not going to the Rex. R. Not just yet. Is there a shortcut to Carl Nielsen's ranch over the hills?"

"No. You'll have to go back to the county road. But I wouldn't do that. You'd run into trouble. Play it safe and cut across to the Rex R."

Old Jim bristled up. "Who gave you the idea that Pancho could wave us off the road whenever he has a mind to do it?"

"He's a bad hombre," Robbins warned. "I've heard a lot of stories of the terrible things he has done."

"Mostly shooting down unarmed men," Jeff said. "Do you know how big his bunch is?"

"From the talk I heard I'd say half a dozen."

Jim looked at his companion. "Let's go," he said, and walked to the car. He turned it and drove up the hill.

Before they reached the county road Jim Williams asked a question.

"Are you aimin' to just drift along and make a nice target for Pancho?" he drawled.

Jeff stopped the car. "Doesn't sound reasonable, does it? Got any ideas?"

"I sure enough have got one idea," the cowboy said dryly. "I'd hate to make duck soup for that greaser. Too bad we're not in the saddle. Then we could take to the hills, cut some wire fences, and reach Nielsen's ranch okay."

"But since we're in a car?"

"Well, we might cross the road to Fidler's place. There's an old wagon road from there to Nielsen's. Or there used to be. Maybe we could make out to get over it with the car."

"All right," Hunter agreed. "Whatever we do is as likely to be right as wrong."

Williams looked curiously at his companion. The engineer was a cool customer. He was another one himself, and he liked the company.

"Lemme get that Winchester out before we start."

They crossed the county road and ran up a narrow tortuous one that led to the Fidler ranch. On one side of the lane was a field, not now in cultivation, filled with last year's cotton stalks.

"Maybe we better cut through this field and miss the house," Jim said. "No tellin' what company Fidler is entertainin'."

With wire clippers the cowboy cut the strands. Jeff drove into the field. As he stopped for his companion Williams jerked to sudden rigidity. "Listen," he said.

To them there drifted the sound of a car moving along the road. Jim jumped into the coupe. "On yore way, fellow," he urged. "Make the gravel fly."

Jeff bumped across the field fast as he could, tearing down the dried stalks as he went. His attention was wholly on a bit of difficult driving. He left Williams to look back and take stock of the enemy.

"They're gettin' outa the auto," the River Bend rider informed the driver. "Now they're at the fence and one of 'em is pointin' us out . . . They're pilin' back into the machine. Three . . . four . . . five . . . of 'em. They are comin' through after us hell bent for election."

A gun roared and they could hear the smack of a bullet against a fence post just ahead of them. Before the coupe stopped the cowboy was out snipping at the wires.

"Let 'er go," he yelled shrilly while he dragged the wires back. As the car passed he leaped in beside Jeff and picked up the rifle.

A bullet struck the back of their rear axle.

"Better shoot over them as a warning," Jeff said. "Maybe they'll pull up when they know we have a rifle."

"Yep. But I don't reckon they will." Jim pushed the end of the barrel through the rear window. The roar of the Winchester filled their ears. But the shot did not stop the pursuers.

"Swing to the right," Jim ordered. "Got to hit the road over thataway."

Hunter put his car at the rocky slope rising from the back of the cotton field. It went over the stony ridges like a roller coaster. A bullet from one of those in the rear struck a tire and the automobile swayed drunkenly. One of the wheels caromed against a boulder and turned over the coupe.

For an instant that could have been only a flash of time Jeff lay stunned, crowded against his seat mate who was below him. The crack of a gun brought him back to earth.

"You all right, Jim?" he asked.

"Would be if you'd quit jammin' yore knees in my belly," the old timer answered.

Hunter worked his way through a window. A bullet whiffed his hat off as he jumped to the ground. From the ranch rider he took the rifle.

"Better stay right there till I scatter them some," he advised.

The pursuers had stopped sixty or seventy yards away and were piling out of their machine. Jeff drew a bead on one and shot him in the lower leg. The fellow lurched over and gave a howl.

A bolt of lightning could not have scattered the group more swiftly than that shot. Like a covey of quails they went to cover.

As they turned to run Jeff said, "Now," and Williams wriggled out through the window.

"We can't hold them off here," the younger man said. "They'll crawl through the brush and pick us off. We'll make a try for the hill top."

Shielded by the overturned car they were a third of the way to the summit before they were seen. Jeff ran as a half back returns a punt through a broken field, ducking, dodging, and twisting to make a more difficult target. Old Jim took the shortest distance between two points in the least possible time. A thin scatter of lead spattered around them, but when they dropped down in the brush skirting the edge of the rockrim neither of them had been hit.

Williams lay on the ground panting.

Carr, the Warren Wrights, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noyes, the Bowen Schumachers, and the Henry C. Bartholomays are some of the many Chicagoans in Louisville today for the race. The John Kohlers of Kohler, Wis., went to Louisville with the Popes to be the members of Charles Gary's house party.

Lawson-Earle Wedding June 9.

The S. Edwin Earles' daughter, Miss Elsie Earle, is not to be a June 10th bride after all, for she and Dr. Robert Barrett Lawson of Rochester, N. Y., have decided to be married a day earlier, on Friday, June 9. The wedding will be a small one in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church with the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Harkness, officiating.

Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick is planning to leave about May 23 to spend the summer in France. Yesterday and today Miss McCormick is having a preview of the sale of her Venetian 17th and 18th century furniture and furnishings that will be put on sale at Grant's Art galleries on Monday.

Miss McCormick collected these particular things to use in a house she intended having in Lake Forest, but the furnishings have been in storage for twenty years and she still lives in an apartment in town, so she has decided to dispose of them.

Robert Arnolds Parents of Son.

From Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of Glencoe yesterday wired the news of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arnold [Muriel Picher]. The baby, the Arnolds' first child, has been named Robert Picher Arnold.

Mrs. Ricardo S. de Soriano [Italia Blair] will spend Monday in Chicago on her way from California to her home in Biarritz, France. She will spend the day with Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and Miss Valeria Harris are expected at home today from a four months' trip to Africa.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley has returned to Chicago and will be in her Lake Shore drive apartment until her younger daughter, Barbara McClurg, finishes the school term at the Girls' Latin. Shortly after that Mrs. Hinckley and Barbara will join Mr. Hinckley at their summer home at Prout's Neck, Me. Miss Eleanor McClurg, who is at Smith, will join her family for the summer.

The John F. Jelkes are back in their Lake Forest home after six weeks in their Palm Beach house. They stopped on the way north to attend the Maryland Hunt cup race.

Methodists Speed Up Conference as Cash in Treasury Runs Low

Kansas City, Mo., May 5.—(AP)—Methodist delegates decided today to hold twice daily business sessions as a depleted treasury brought plans for an early adjournment of their uniting conference.

The meeting, which previously had set no adjournment date but had outlined programs through Sunday, May 14, and planned to remain in session longer, voted today to wind up business Wednesday, May 10.

A "declaration of union" service proclaiming formally the merger of the Methodist Episcopal church, Methodist Protestant church, and Methodist Episcopal church, South, was set for the night of adjournment.

Rushing through the formulation of a single church government delegates approved today a plan for a single board of publications.

Publishing houses previously maintained by the northern church at Cincinnati, New York, and Chicago will be continued.

However, the board was authorized to reduce the number of units later, with the provision that one publishing house must remain at Nashville.

700,000 Tulips Will Bloom in City Parks; Sets a New Record

Seven hundred thousand tulips—enough to make a Hollander leave home—will blossom in the next few days in the Chicago park district's greatest display. Seven hundred thousand blooms of 109 varieties, and not one of them will be a pure blue.

The reason, said August Koch, chief horticulturist of the district, is that growers can't seem to develop a blue tulip. When they do Chicago will have some.

This year's planting exceeded by 250,000 bulbs any previous show. Grant park is among the several to have tulip beds for the first time.

Superintendent of Night Schools to Retire in June

The board of education was notified yesterday that the retirement of Robert I. White, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of night schools, will become effective June 22 under the compulsory retirement law. Thirteen other teachers also will be retired in June. The board promoted three teachers to elementary school principals to fill vacancies. They are: Robert L. Grimes, to Hale school; Mildred Minogue, Armour school, and Julia H. Gliatto, Cooper school.

Children, Like Plants, Need Skill and Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

His salary had been cut three times. The prerogatives that had been his as an older member of the organization were taken away and all the young new executives were bearing down pretty hard on the senior men, who should themselves have been in the positions of authority. In a word the office was a strain, with apprehension of dismissal hanging like a cloud over his head.

When he got home at night he was not able to have the quiet that he needed. Their small apartment was just across from and below two families who made a specialty of wild and late parties. No relief at either end. The man got the jitters. Even a lovely wife attempting to calm and divert him had no effect. He seemed almost at he breaking point.

And then, they moved to the country for the summer. In a short time the man was a changed being. The peace and hours outdoors and long sleep at night made him able to cope with his business troubles and his anxiety over the future. You can't have too many things against you and stay normal and keep your poise. There must be enough that is favorable in your environment to enable you to carry on with a measure of happiness and efficiency.

If this is necessary for adults, it is much more necessary for children. They have not the resistance and mental stamina that come with maturity. They are tender, unformed, and easily hurt or twisted in their personalities by unfavorable conditions. Of course, we who are parents cannot make their environment perfect, but unless it is in most particulars right for them we cannot expect the best results.

The baby and small child, and the growing boy and girl, too, are like young plants—they need nurturing amid the right surroundings until they reach maturity, when a certain hardihood enables them to thrive even if all is not exactly right around them.

The aims of intelligent parents are contained in "A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany." Send postage only with your name and address for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

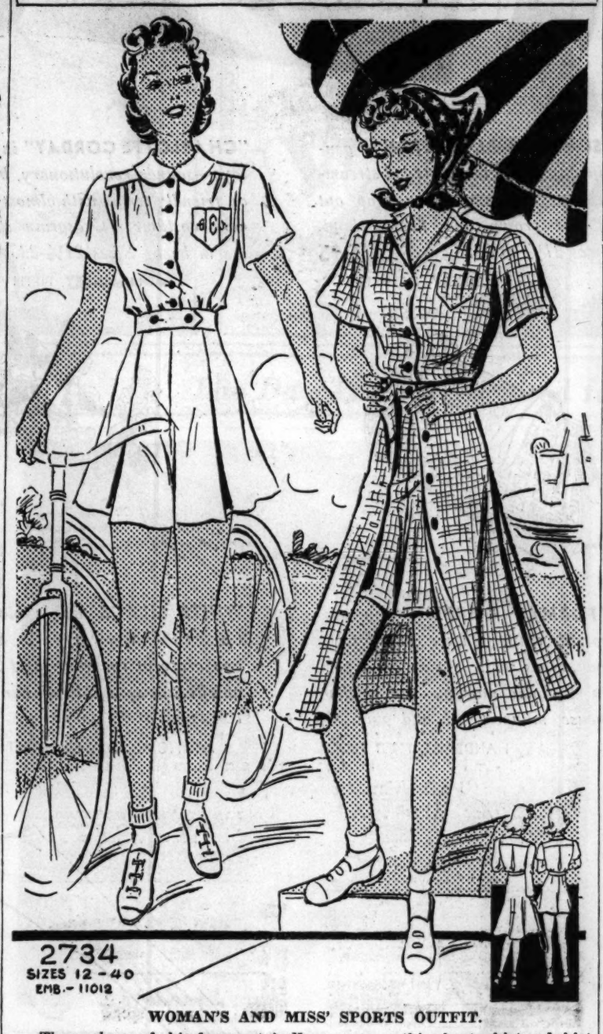
Catholic League.

The Catholic Woman's league will hold its annual luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel.

Three Pieces for Sports



WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPORTS OUTFIT.

Three pieces of chic for sports! You can wear this shorts-shirt-and-skirt costume for tennis, golf, cycling, hiking, and the beach. It makes up as well in washable sports silks as it does in cottons and linen, and it isn't partial to any particular color. Spanking clean white is, perhaps, the most appealing possibility, but pastels and checks are high in favor, too.

The blouse, a tuck-in model, has a shirtwaist collar that may be opened out, as shown in the sketch at the right. Buttons in any grouping you like may be used down the front. There is plentiful shirring under the shoulder yoke to make the blouse soft and feminine. On the novel pocket may be your monogram, achieved by means of embroidery pattern No. E-11012, available for 10 cents extra.

The shorts are plaited for both trimness and necessary fullness. They have a snug waistband finished with buttons to match those on the blouse. The skirt likewise is buttoned and may be wrapped around you or removed at will, depending upon whether you are cycling, golfing, or playing tennis.

Style No. 2734 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

Clotilde patterns are 10 cents each. Address orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Soy beans have been human food in the orient for thousands of years, but they're new in the American diet. Fresh soy beans are now being canned, and they are very good. I don't believe that it will be a long time until we'll find canned green soy beans in every grocery, but as yet the distribution is very limited.

At Iowa State college, where chemical engineers have long been at work on soy bean products, an all-soy bean dinner was held recently. The menu: soy bean cream soup with wafers made from soy beans, soy bean sprout salad with soy bean mayonnaise, "soyburgers," soy bean noodles, baked soy beans, soy bran muffins, soy bean butter and soy bean coffee, with soy bean sherbet and cake made from soy flour for dessert. Table decorations were soy bean plants. Roasted soy beans [you can buy them salted like peanuts at several places in Chicago] were the nut course, and there were favors of ash trays, gear shift handles, and other such oddments made from the beans.

SCRAPS ABOUT FOOD: "Young Hyson," the name given to a green tea, the leaves of which come tightly rolled, is said to be a corruption of "yuhe-tsien," meaning "early spring," the time when the leaves are picked.

Coffee powders are made from concentrated liquid coffee from which the water has been evaporated. . . . One may buy liquid coffee in concentrated form. A teaspoonful makes a cup of coffee, hot water added.

The color of an egg shell and the color of the egg yolk have no influence upon quality. Shells vary in color according to the kind of hens that lay the eggs, and yolks change with the foods which the chickens eat.

Good quality green and red grapes, honeydews and red bananas are coming to market. Red bananas are pinky-yellow fleshed, stronger in flavor, and plumper of size than the yellow ones. They are hard to ship, so we seldom see them in the stores.

We'd much rather smell and admire lovely flowers than eat them, but nevertheless many of our fairest flowers are edible and were favorite dishes of Europeans at one time or another. Among these are violets, still used to make jelly in England, and occasionally blended in fancy salads today; roses, the petals of which were used to flavor and perfume many a dish, and even now are sometimes candied; large orange nasturtiums which, of all things, have been served stuffed with a tuna fish mixture as an appetizer.

Gloria Swanson's Daughter Plans Summer Wedding

Palo Alto, Cal., May 5.—[Special.]—Gloria Somborn, Gloria Swanson's daughter and a student at Stanford university, is making plans for her wedding this summer to Robert Anderson of Bel-Air. Their engagement was announced a month ago. Miss Somborn's mother, formerly a motion picture star, now is in New York.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: A hand came up in the knockout finals of the team-of-four event in the 'Dixieland tournament' which I think is interesting.

"South, dealer.

"Neither side vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ J 8 3 ♥ 8 4 ♦ A J 9 6 5 ♣ K J 3
WEST ♠ K 9 5 4 ♥ 7 5 ♦ 8 4 ♣ A Q 8 6 5		EAST ♠ A Q 6 ♥ J 10 9 6 ♦ K 2 ♣ 10 7 4 2
	SOUTH ♠ 10 7 2 ♥ A K Q 3 2 ♦ Q 10 7 3 ♣ 9

"At the other table, at which our teammates were playing East-West, the opponents bid five diamonds on the North-South hands, were doubled, and were set 500. At our table my partner and I were South and North, respectively, and the bidding went as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	2 clubs	Double	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

"As you realize, one's bidding in these team-of-four matches is tremendously influenced by the previous boards. When this hand came up I thought [erroneously] that we were behind at that stage, and this had an appreciable effect on my bidding and play. But normally, should South, with neither side vulnerable, take out the double of two clubs and, if so, should he rebid his hearts or should he bid the diamond suit? In case the diamond bid was correct, what was North's next proper action?

"In the play of the hand East opened his fourth highest club. West played the ace and came back with what was obviously her own fourth highest. The main question is, what should North play—the club jack or the king? Attention is called to the fact that East, the doubler, was in front of the diamond bid, hence the diamond king would, from his point of view, be no great value to influence a double and therefore there was no particular reason to feel that he had that card. The spade suit was wide open and the success of the contract apparently depended on the diamond finesse. If the club jack were played, and the doubler held three or four to the queen, he would certainly shift to spades, as he would be able to read North's club holding at that point. However, that factor has to be considered. On the other hand, if both the club finesse and the diamond finesse work, I would make an overtrick. Also there was a possibility that if the opening lead was from three to the queen and I went up with the king at the second trick, East might throw the queen to unblock the suit. Then there were several other factors, especially the result, to be considered.

"Actually I played the club king, led a heart to the dummy, and finessed against the diamond king—and went down 900 points. As it happened, we won the match anyway, but I cannot help thinking what would have been said if we had lost!

"E. A. K., Mississippi."

This was, indeed, a ticklish hand. As to the bidding, I think all bids were in order, except that, holding South's hand, I would take out the two club double to two hearts, rather than to two diamonds.

I sympathize fully with my correspondent because of his dilemma in the play. I agree with most of his analyses as to the various possibilities and dangers involved, but I disagree in one important particular. I think that if he had played the club jack, and had unfortunately found East with the queen, that East would not have shifted to spades, but would have continued with clubs to clear the suit, hoping that his partner, West, had a sure entry. Thus, since the success of the diamond finesse was in doubt, I think it would have been a semi-safety play to have played the club jack rather than the king at the second trick. The fact that this would have resulted in holding the set to two tricks instead of five really has no influence on my judgment.

Knitted Sweater Is Fashionable with Two Tones

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Square necked knitted sweaters in two tones are making their bow to the fashion conscious world and are meeting with overwhelming success. The new nubby cottons with a chalk-like finish possess a definite coolness for summer, and require little time to knit. The bottom of these two toned sweaters may be knitted to match a skirt or slacks, with the body of contrasting or harmonizing colors.

For the instructions in knitting the two toned sweater, No. X-255, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 8th avenue, New York City.

Barbara Soper Will Be Bride This Afternoon

The marriage of Miss Barbara Soper, daughter of the junior James P. Sopers of Lake Forest, to William B. Westcott Jr., son of the William B. Westcotts of Utica, N. Y., will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Lake Forest Presbyterian church with a small reception following at the Soper home.

The bride's grandmother, the senior Mrs. Soper; an aunt, Mrs. Franklin Ely, and the Westcotts arrived from Utica in time for the bridal dinner Mr. and Mrs. Soper gave last night at the Shoreacres club. Preceding the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Julian Armstrong entertained at cocktails. Their daughter, Mrs. Garrett B. Le Van of Sharon, Pa., is to be the matron of honor.

Dr. and Mrs. Anson Cameron gave a luncheon yesterday at the Onwentsia for their niece and Mr. Westcott, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stevens are giving a luncheon today at the Deerpath inn for the out of town guests.

Miss Soper's bridesmaids include the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Robert A. Cooley of Buffalo; Miss Ann Ford of New York, and Mrs. William D. Truesdale Jr., a cousin. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens' daughter, Katherine, will be her cousin's flower girl.

John V. Owens of Utica will be the best man. Ushering will be James R. Soper III., Mr. Cooley, James F. Ely of Buffalo, and Franklin J. Ely of Utica, cousins of the bride; and Andrew J. Scobie. Following a three weeks' wedding trip, Mr. Westcott and his bride will be at home in Utica.

Saxton Williams Barrett, son of the Arthur M. Barretts of Winnetka, will take Miss Virginia Robinson of Rockford as his bride today in a ceremony in the Old Stone church in Rockton. Only relatives and old family friends will hear the Rev. John Gordon read the service at 4 o'clock. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Robinson, in Rockford.

Mrs. Walter J. Miller Jr. of Chicago will be her sister's only attendant. Arthur M. Barrett Jr. will be the best man.

Her many Chicago friends will be interested in the marriage yesterday in New York of Mrs. Gerald A. Bate of Ottawa, Ont., to Thomas Alexander Gazowski Moore of Montreal. Mrs. Bate is the former Miss Virginia Parker of Janesville, Wis., daughter of the late George S. Parker, founder of the Parker Pen company, and Mrs. Parker. Mr. Bate died several years ago.

The wedding was a quiet one in the St. Regis hotel. The bride's mother, who landed Thursday from a Mediterranean cruise, was at the ceremony, and so was her brother, Kenneth S. Parker of Janesville, and his wife, the former Mildred Gapen Bowen of Chicago. Mr. Moore is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Moore of Bombay, India.

The marriage of Miss Mary Gage to Pierre Marot Purves, son of Mrs. Austin M. Purves of Philadelphia, will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Graham Taylor chapel, with the Rev. Norris L. Tibbetts officiating. Miss Gage, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Gage of Wilmette, will have Miss Nancy Stone of Ithaca, N. Y., as maid of honor. Her bridesmaid will be Miss Portia Mary Lee of Evanston. Dale Purves of Philadelphia, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man.

Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the Shoreland hotel.

Her Chicago friends have received announcements stating that "The Rev. George De Haven Franklin and Mrs. Albert Thomas Evans announce their marriage on Wednesday, May 3." The wedding took place in Washington, D. C., and the couple are on a motor trip. When they return to Chicago in two or three weeks they will be at home in her apartment at 1420 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Evans and the young Episcopal clergyman from Fort Wayne, Ind., met while on a world cruise.

On the House

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Seen in a new home recently . . . kitchen drawers lined with linoleum in the same tone as the walls. A very quiet drawer, this, easily cleaned, and bound to last for a long, long time.

Seen in a modernized basement recreation room . . . a fireplace which you might term geographically inspired, since the owners spent a number of months last summer and fall collecting rocks from various states. The fireplace reaches from floor to ceiling. It is a happy reminder of trips in the family bus.

It is not too early to plan for ways and means of lighting your garden this summer. Moonlight can now come at the press of a button. You must have wiring heavily waterproofed with rubber. This isn't expensive and can be run to your flower beds or pool or shrubbery from some outlet on the back porch or the garage. You can buy equipment or make your own. A tiny bird house can conceal a spotlight, a path can be softly lighted by a reflector spiked into a border.

Engagements Announced

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Rosalie Thorne of Darien, Conn., and Washington, to John B. Hulburd, son of David W. Hulburd of Philadelphia and the late Mrs. Kathryn Bechtel Hulburd. Miss Thorne is a junior at Vassar college. Mr. Hulburd was graduated from the William Penn charter school and from the University of Pennsylvania and is attached to the U. S. S. Phoenix as naval aviator.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lyon Douglass of 1547 Sherwin avenue announce the engagement of their sister Miss Gladys Klingenberg to David Campbell Hannah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Hannah of 5741 Kenmore avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Margaret Rothacker of Manhasset, N. Y., formerly of Evanston, announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy Douglas, to Ensign Hugh Raynor Rimmer, U. S. N. Miss Rothacker, whose father is Douglas D. Rothacker of Great Neck, N. Y., attended the University of Michigan. Ensign Rimmer, the son of Maj. and Mrs. Hugh M. Rimmer of San Francisco, was graduated from the United States Naval academy and is now attached to the U. S. S. California.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Arthur Ely of Milwaukee have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Van Dyne, to John Wilson Burton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Burton of Stratford place. Miss Ely attended Wheaton college in Norton, Mass. Mr. Burton prepared at the Chicago Latin school and Solebury in New Hope, Pa., and attended Brown university in Providence, R. I. The wedding will take place in early fall.

The engagement of Miss Eve Baille Cohen to Henry David Lindauer, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Max Lindauer of Chicago, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Samuel Philip Cohen of Brookline and Taunton, Mass. Miss Cohen is a graduate of Emerson college. Mr. Lindauer was graduated from Northwestern university and Northwestern law school.

KENTUCKY DERBY TODAY; TEN NAMED TO RUN

EUROPE'S GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS SPEED UP DRILL

THEY PREDICT VICTORY OVER CHICAGO FRIDAY

Musina Sets Pace in Long Workout.

BY STEWART OWEN.

Luigi Musina, the light heavyweight amateur boxing champion of Europe, was eating lunch in the Medinah Athletic club at noon yesterday when Steve Klaus, trainer of the European Golden Gloves squad, began canvassing the prospects for a victory over the Chicago champions in the Stadium next Friday night.

Klaus was told that Jimmy Reeves most likely would be Musina's opponent.

"Who is this Reeves?" Luigi asked, as he performed prodigious feats with his knife and fork.

"He's a colored boy from Cleveland," Musina was informed.

"Hmmm," said Luigi, going back to his eating. It was a self satisfied "hmmm."

Klaus Isn't So Sure.

"Hmmm," said Klaus. It was much less satisfied, a slightly worried "hmmm." Klaus was thinking of the last time an Italian light heavyweight had met a colored boy in an International Golden Gloves contest. That was in 1935 when Chicago whipped an all-Italian team, five bouts to three. Mario Annaibali was the Italian light heavyweight champion that year and in many ways Annabali resembled Musina. He was tall, dark, and handsome; so is Luigi. He was temperamental, the prima donna of the Italian team. Luigi is temperamental, too, the prima donna of the 1939 All-European team. Mario had many feminine admirers wherever he went; so has Luigi.

When Annabali stepped into the ring against Clinton Bridges, Chicago's colored light heavyweight, he delivered one blow to the stomach before Bridges jabbed to the mouth, sent a right to the ear, and then knocked Annabali out with a left to the mouth. It took a minute or two to revive the Italian. When he came to he pushed aside his seconds and dashed at Bridges once more. Bridges knocked him out again with a right to the jaw.

Luigi Admits He's Handsome.

Klaus told Musina all this yesterday, stressing the analogy of a handsome Italian light heavyweight and a colored opponent in 1935 and a handsome Italian light heavyweight and a colored opponent in 1939. The only part of it all which impressed Luigi was the reference to a handsome Italian. He agreed with Klaus on that point.

"I do not care if Reeves is a colored boy," he said. "I have fought five times with colored boys. Colored boys are good luck for me. Each time I have won. I do not care for this Reeves. Do not let him worry you."

Just to show that he could take a bout seriously if it was necessary and to reassure his trainer, Musina put on a sparkling exhibition of boxing in his first sparring session in the Medinah club gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

They're a Determined Lot.

The other seven members went into the ring with the same determination as Musina. Anton Raadik, the Estonian middleweight, Paddy Dowdall, the Irish featherweight, and Eric Ågren, the Swedish welterweight, who are natural fighters, took to the ring like a wandering trout returning to his native pool after a couple of week's sojourn in a desert. Nemesio Lazzari, the big Italian heavyweight, whaled away with both fists as though he were tackling an especially difficult piece of blacksmithing in his smithy in his native village of Terracina.

Egisto Peire, Italian lightweight champion, boxed two very fast rounds with Verne Patterson, 1937 Golden Gloves champion, who is now a professional. Peire mixed it freely with Patterson and boxed his more experienced opponent on even terms. Olli Lehtinen, the Finnish flyweight champion, went only one

ROSENTHAL HITS HOMER; SOX BEAT SENATORS, 2 TO 1

Score Ninth Victory in Last Eleven Games.

The Cubs, held to seven hits by Whitlow Wyatt, former American league pitcher, were beaten, 6 to 3, by the Dodgers in Brooklyn yesterday. It was their fourth defeat in four games since they left home. Story on page 21.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those sprightly White Sox took another warmup yesterday in preparation for their impending dispute with the world champion Yankees over first place tenancy. The warmup was a snappy struggle in which Washington's Senators were the victims of the ninth victory in the last eleven battles waged by the James J. Dykes' baseball brigade. The score was 2 to 1, the lone legitimate run of this batch being a homer with which Larry Rosenthal plucked off the decision.

Coupled with Rosenthal's feat—a resounding smack that landed more than four hundred feet from its starting point—was some southpawing by Thornton Lee, who less than a week ago feared his arm had exploded. The ex-Indian was after his third triumph of the infant season and attained it with consummate ease, although he complicated his own task, committing an error just after Eric McNair had blundered. Thanks to the errors, the Senators, supposedly bolstered by strategy which added three right handed hitters to their attack, were able to score.

Getting a Run Easily.

The Sox collected their first run in much the same fashion the Senators had employed to go in front for a brief spell. John Welaj, one of the fellows sent into the lineup because of the old theory that right handed hitters go better than left swingers against southpaw pitching, was kind enough to commit a two base error on an everyday fly ball off Kuhel's bat. The beneficiary of the miscue was promptly knocked home with the tying run by Gerald Walker, who was seething at the moment because in his previous appearance he had been struck out by a southpaw named Joe Krakauskas.

Krakauskas himself was not a bad pitcher, considering that the Sox usually don't delay about mauling such workers. He yielded only eight hits and one of them went to Luke Appling because his grounder nicked a base runner. But Mr. Krakauskas will have a difficult time explaining to his manager just why Rosenthal, a left hand hitter who admits he detests southpaws, was able to slash a drive for the distance mentioned above.

Sox Keep Trying.

The Sox made gestures in both the third and fourth. In the former Kuhel singled with one out, but

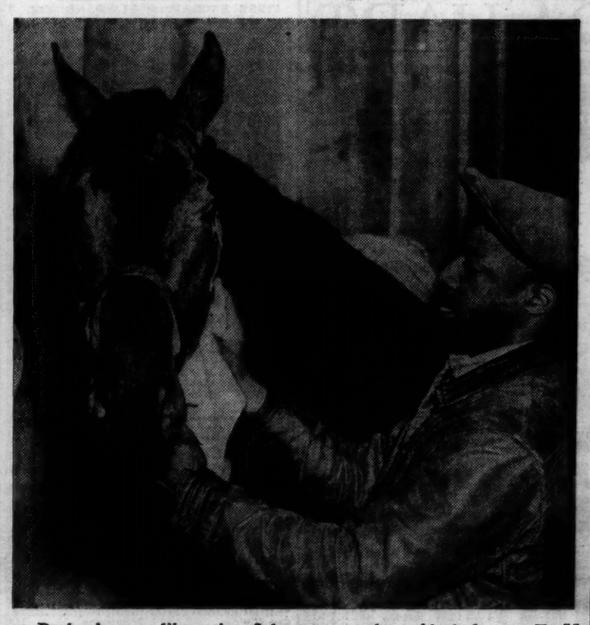
The Day They've Awaited for Three Years---Derby Day

Johnstown, favorite in today's sixty-fifth running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, leaves his stable yesterday for his final workout before the call to the barrier at 5:30 o'clock (Chicago time) this afternoon. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



Derby horses, like prize fighters, must be rubbed down. T. M. Dorsett is receiving the treatment at the hands of a stable boy, following a workout over the Derby course. T. M. Dorsett is at 40 to 1 in the betting.

Challedon, second choice to the William Woodward entry of Johnstown and Challenge in the advance Derby wagering, accepts a carrot from a handler, Jim Daniels.

The Curse of Cain.

Our bravest boys were slain on foreign soils,
Not for the holy cause of liberty,
But that intriguing states might reap the spoils
Of an inglorious conspiracy;
These nations spurned us when they gained their goal,
Nor would they pay their honorable debts,
But laughed to see our millions on the dole
While they were free from the invader's threats.

Today with a soft smile these brigand bands
Ask us once more to sacrifice our youth
That they may hold secure the far-flung lands
Which have been pilfered in the name of truth—
If we send boys to foreign fields again
We shall be branded with the curse of Cain.

—T. E. B.

XALAPA CLOWN MAY RUN TO SAVE THE FAMILY HOME

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—(AP)—Xalapa Clown may be running to save the old homestead in the Kentucky Derby tomorrow.

It's like this:

W. E. Simms of Woodford county, Ky., has filed a petition in Circuit court asking that Xalapa farm, part of the estate of the late E. F. Simms, be applied on the latter's debts, estimated at $100,000.

Mrs. Bessie Franzheim, Houston, Tex., owner of Xalapa Clown, is one of the defendants in the suit. She is a daughter of E. F. Simms.

Xalapa farm, on which the Clown was foaled, is in the bluegrass country near Lexington.

So the Clown may be running for more than the gold cup and some $40,000, the winner's share in tomorrow's race.

LEWIS, HARVEY FIGHT CANCELED BY BOXING BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, May 5.—John Henry Lewis, recognized as world's light heavyweight boxing champion by the National Boxing Association of America, will not fight in England. The British board of boxing control today refused to give the colored title holder permission to fight Len Harvey following a physical examination.

It was revealed that Lewis has been troubled by failing eyesight for several months. He failed to obtain permission last March in Michigan to oppose Dave Clark in Detroit.

RECORD CHICAGO DELEGATION TO WITNESS DERBY

Season's Delay Sends Fans to Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., May 5.—[Special.]—The vanguard of what is expected to be a record Chicago contingent at the sixty-fifth running of the Kentucky Derby was at Churchill Downs today. The delayed opening of the Chicago season is one of the main reasons for the big Chicago influx.

Among the Chicagoans in the clubhouse section today were Stuyvesant [Jack] Peabody, member of the board of the American Turf association; Charley Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, and actively connected with Hawthorne, Washington Park, Sportsman's Park, and other Chicago tracks; Mrs. Ethel V. Mars and John Marsh.

Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, and Al Horan, chief baliff of the Municipal court, headed the early arrivals among the politicians.

Yale o' Nine's disappointing race in the Derby trial last Tuesday was attributed to a misprint by Owner Tom Taggart. The day of the stake Taggart's name appeared on the program as "McTaggart." Tom promptly blamed Yale o' Nine's bad run on the misnomer.

Willie Fronk, who piloted Reveille Boy to that big upset a few years ago in the American Derby, had a novel experience yesterday. A frightened wild rabbit dashed through the crowd on the back clubhouse lawn. Willie, walking along with his face buried in his program, stumbled over the scurrying bunny.

Earl Sande, whose Stagehand was withdrawn from the 1938 Kentucky Derby field, feels sure that Heather Broom will give a good account of himself. "Heather Broom is in fine shape," he said.

Dwight Green, recently defeated by Mayor Kelly in the Chicago mayoralty race, paid a hurried visit to the track yesterday, but will not see the Derby. Business has forced him to return home.

The old argument about the proper pronunciation of Derby has sprung up again. Since the visit of the earl of Derby [prounced Darby] a few years ago, the English pronounciation has cropped up. A local radio station announced that the event will be pronounced as is the hat of the same spelling in all broadcasts.

Chicago's crews of track attendants moved into Louisville en masse today, with Andy Frain's blue coated ushers and Frank Fischer's parking guides leading the parade. Frank Ashley, announcer at the Chicago tracks, was at the Churchill Downs mike.

Webb Everett, formerly connected with Hawthorne and steward at Arlington park last year, was an arrival today. Everett, who will serve as an official at the Hollywood, Cal., track this year, was accompanied by Jack Mackenzie, general manager of the west coast course. While official announcement has not been made as to Everett's successor in the Arlington stewards stand, it is rumored that Maj. L. A. Beard, manager of the Whitney racing enterprises, will be given the job. Maj. Beard served as honorary steward at Arlington last year.

JOHNSTOWN IS 7-10 FAVORITE; EXPECT 70,000

Rain Before Night Is Feared.

Derby Facts

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—[Special.]—Facts about the sixty-fifth running of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow follow:

Distance—1¼ miles.
Purse—$50,000 added.
Field—Ten 3 year old colts.
Post time—5:30 p. m., Chicago time.
Favorite—William Woodward's bay colt, Johnstown, 7 to 10.
Last year's winner—Lawrin.
Record holder—Twenty Grand, 2:01 4-5 in 1931.
Weather forecast—Probably showers in afternoon or night.
Attendance—70,000.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 5.—The mighty Johnstown will race tomorrow against nine rivals and a predicted storm while the 7 to 10 betting support of a crowd of 70,000 follows his flying heels. That is the setup on the eve of the sixty-fifth Kentucky Derby, which will be run at about 5:30 o'clock [Chicago time] tomorrow afternoon on the Churchill Downs course.

The weather reports began hedging today after last night's unequivocal prediction of rain Saturday. The most recent forecast read: "Fair and warmer tonight; local showers Saturday afternoon or night."

Those last two words, "or night" gave Johnstown's handlers the hope that their speed horse might beat the rain home. The Derby visitors who attended this afternoon's program watched the races under cloudless skies while a mild southwest breeze fluttered the flags.

Weather Prophets Pessimistic.

Old Kentucky weather prophets turned their faces dubiously toward the wind and recalled ominously that much of their spring rain is blown up from the southwest.

If the clear weather of the last week holds for another day, Johnstown is expected to go to the post as the shortest priced favorite of recent times. The last odds-on choice to win the Derby was Twenty Grand, who paid $3.76 for $2 in 1931.

If the predicted storm should break before post time, Johnstown's most prominent rival, Challedon, would get considerable backing, but would not be likely to depose the Woodward entry of Johnstown and Challenge. On a dry track, Challedon is expected to be held at about 3 to 1, with Technician the third choice at about 6 to 1.

Field May Be Smallest Since 1918.

The others named in the overnight entries were El Chico, Heather Broom, Viscounty, Xalapa Clown, T. M. Dorsett, and On Location. If any is withdrawn the field will be the smallest since Exterminator led home seven rivals in 1918. Ten ran last year.

The outcome of the draw for post position seemed to work no hardship on any entry. Challedon, the horse which likes to settle leisurely into stride, lay off the pace and come from behind in the stretch, drew ninth place, with only T. M. Dorsett outside him. There he will be safe from the early crowding for position.

Johnstown, who likes to run with the leaders or set his own pace, will be at about the center of the field, having drawn sixth place. Technician whose tactics are more like Challedon's than Johnstown's got eighth.

El Chico at Rail.

El Chico, who was one of the fastest breakers on the track during his 2 year old campaign, will be close to the rail, having drawn No. 2. Trainer Matt Brady was none too well satisfied with the way El Chico broke in his two races this season, in which he incurred the first defeats of his career. He expects the horse to get away with his old time snap tomorrow.

A typical Derby eve crowd is moving gayly through the streets of Louisville tonight. Above the sounds of trafic rise the thumping and strumming of the Negro jug bands and the clatter of colored boys' iron tipped shoes as they tap dance on the sidewalks. The bars are serving 75 cent mint juleps to customers who came back from this afternoon's races at the cost of $1 a person in taxicabs which charged 25 cents a person yesterday. The best hotels will put up visitors for $20 a night. Money, music, and hilarity are plentiful in Louisville on Derby eve.

Visitors have been pouring in all day from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Louis. Many others have come from the east coast. All strata of society will mingle tomorrow in the jam between the center of town and the track, but when they reach the gates of Churchill Downs they will separate into the various channels—which will lead some to "Room 20," an exquisite suite fitted out for millionaire owners, and others to the newly constructed general admission section where tickets sell for fifty cents and bets may be made for a dollar.

Roman Wins by 4 Lengths.

Many headed for the track this afternoon immediately after their arrival. They made up one of the biggest pre-Derby day crowds in the track's history. They saw Joseph E. Widener's fine 2 year old, Roman, win the Bashford Manor Stakes, a race that has focused attention on many good horses of the past. He won easily as he was accustomed to win at Keeneland, breaking fast, drawing into a clear lead, and galloping easily at the finish. He was four lengths ahead of Black Brummel as they crossed the line.

Larry Bogenschutz, entry clerk and placing judge, was on the job at 7:15 this morning ready to receive entries for tomorrow's races. The outer room of the office soon filled up with an assortment of trainers and stable agents, who went ahead with the routine business of the morning, filing the entry of Tra-la-la in the second or Golden Shoe in the eighth as though this were just an ordinary day.

Derby Entries Are Filed.

This went on for half an hour. Then the whole tone of the proceedings changed. Roy Waldrom, trainer for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way stable, came in to make the entry of the first Derby horse—On Location. By 8:15 three more were in—T. M. Dorsett, Heather Broom, and Viscounty. A few minutes later Matt Brady made his appearance to file El Chico's entry.

"How's the horse today?" some one asked.

"He opened up this morning," Brady replied, referring to El Chico's workout of three-eighths in 34 4-5 seconds.

In quick succession the entries of Challedon, Johnstown, Challenge, and Technician were dropped in the box.

"Are you hoping for rain?" Lou Schaefer was asked.

Challedon's trainer smiled and shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't care," he replied. "Challedon can run on any track."

At 9:40 Xalapa Clown was in and the field was complete.

Open Fight for Golden Gloves Team Places

"Chicago has none the better of it. I'm not trying to seem pessimistic, but I'd settle for a tie right now."

Thus did Head Coach Johnny Behr explain the Chicago Golden Gloves team's chances against the champions of Europe in the annual international bouts in Chicago Stdium next Friday.

In case Behr's forebodings are correct and Chicago does lose this series it will mark the first defeat the city's boxers has suffered in eight matches against European competition. Chicago has scored five victories and two draws, the ties being with Germany in 1932 and with an all-European squad in 1937.

Behr made his sober statement while supervising the Chicago squad's fifth straight day of sparring sessions in the Illinois Athletic club yesterday.

Fifteen of the boys each went two rounds of three minutes. Only two members failed to box, Johnny Pleasant, lightweight, because of a case of indigestion, and Pete Hantz, middleweight, due to a sore thumb.

After prescribing for him, Dr. William Rothman, team physician, expressed the opinion both will be able to return to the ring today.

Pleasant and Hantz received the news with a smile, because this is the biggest day of the training grind, the day Coach Behr and his assistants, Freddy Caserio and Paddy Kane, choose a tentative lineup for the impending matches against Europe's best fighters.

The selections will be based on the showings of the boys in bouts of four three-minute rounds. To safeguard against possible mistakes in judgement the coaches will give the boxers a second test on Monday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 5.—The Cubs lost today as usual—the Dodgers beat them, 6 to 3--but somehow the ordeal didn't seem as dismal as usual.

For instance, Glen Russell made his National league debut at first base for the Cubs, Phil Cavarretta having been benched because he didn't drive in a run in the Cubs' first thirteen games. Russell made two of the Cubs' first four hits and drove in the first Chicago run in the seventh.

Then too there was the pitching of Kirby Higbe, who made a good showing in relief of Dizzy Dean in the Stratton game against the White Sox. Higbe today pitched two and two-thirds innings in relief of Gene Lillard, losing pitcher, and held the Dodgers to an infield single.

Hartnett Plays Today.

Steve Mesner played at shortstop and revealed himself as good, at much cheaper tarif, than the high salaried and ailing Dick Bartell.

All this gurgling optimism having been set down, however, there remain certain facts not to be ignored. For instance, the champs plunged to a point a half game out of the National league cellar, with the cellar tenants, the Pittsburgh Pirates, up and coming in a rising market.

It was the fourth defeat in four games in the current eastern trip, with one more game remaining with the rampant Dodgers, after which the Cubs must face the Giants in three and the league leading Boston Bees in two games.

The Cubs won five of their first six games. Since then they have won one and lost seven.

Manager Hartnett announced after the game he would return to the lineup tomorrow and remain regardless of the size of his batting average. Apparently indignant because the Dodgers' winning rally started with Gus Mancuso tipping Blimp Phelps' bat for his third error of the series, Hartnett said he'd go in in an effort to "hold the team together."

Lazzeri Blasts One.

Lazzeri's homer, at the start of the third inning, was the first hit of the game. Koy launched the home fourth with a double and scored on Camilli's single to right. Phelps struck out, but the Dodgers then loaded the bases. A double play erased them.

A double play got the Cubs out of another jam in the fifth inning. But, after Camilli had been called out on strikes, to start the sixth, Phelps was waved to first when Mancuso tipped his bat for an error. Moore doubled to right, Phelps stopping at third. Lazzeri was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Hockett batted for Durocher and walked, forcing Phelps across the plate. Wyatt singled to deep left center, scoring Moore and Lazzeri and putting Hockett on third. Higbe replaced Lillard. Rosen's sacrifice fly to Leiber scored Hockett. Lavagetto walked, but Koy popped to Hack.

Galan Gets Double.

Galan, lead off man in the Cub seventh, doubled off the screen in right, a shot which would have been a homer under last year's Brooklyn ground rules. Lyn Lary, who had made his National league début when he replaced Manager Durocher at the start of the inning, threw out Leiber. Rosen went up the center field fence, 410 feet from the plate, to pull down Marty's drive. Galan reached third after the catch and got home on G. Russell's single. Lazzeri tossed out Mancuso.

With two out in the eighth, Hack beat out a bouncer to Lazzeri and Herman was safe on Lazzeri's fumble. Galan then doubled, Hack scoring and Herman stopping at third. Leiber flied to Koy.

Marty walked at the start of the ninth after which G. Russell and Pinch Batter Gleeson furnished outs. Mesner doubled to right, scoring Marty. Cavarretta batted for Higbe and flied to Rosen.

RedSox Rookie Pitcher Beats Detroit, 4 to 1

Detroit, Mich., May 5.—(AP)—Three hit pitching by Rookie Woodrow Rich sent the Boston Red Sox into the American league lead today with a 4 to 1 victory over Detroit's Tigers as the New York Yankees lost to Cleveland. Rich fanned one and walked three.

Schoolboy Rowe, pitching for Detroit, scattered nine Boston hits, but home runs by Manager Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx gave the Sox their winning margin. Rowe batted in the Detroit run with a single in the fifth inning. He struck out Ted Williams, Boston outfielder who hit two successive home runs yesterday, three times.

INDIANS, 2; YANKEES, 1.

Cleveland, O., May 5.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians defeated the New York Yankees, 2 to 1, in eleven innings today to drop the world champions into second place in the American league.

Hal Trosky, veteran Cleveland first baseman, wrecked a well pitched six hit game by Lefty Gomez when he doubled home his own pitcher, Southpaw Al Milnar, in the second extra inning. Milnar walked to open the inning and advanced to second when Rollie Hemseley also drew a pass. Milnar was touched for eleven hits and issued four bases on ball, but tightened in every pinch and left 15 Yankees stranded. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., May 5.—(AP)—Sam Chapman hit for the cycle today—singe, double, triple, and home run—as the Philadephia Athletics pounded out 17 hits to rout the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 5. Bob Johnson also hit a homer for the A's and Joe Glenn got one for the Browns.

Dario Lodigiani, Philadelphia third baseman, was hit on the head by one of Harry Kimberlin's pitches in the seventh inning and suffered a slight concussion. He returned to the Athletics' hotel after an X-ray examination at a hospital.

Sox Use Home Run to Beat Senators, 2 to 1

Walker fanned and Appling lined into Welaj's hands. Welaj singled and stole with two out in the Senators' fourth and as soon as this incident had been cleaned up satisfactorily to the home clients, McNair stepped forth and opened the Sox half with a drooping single into center. Rosenthal's bunt sent him to second, but he was unable to make progress on three strikes hung on Kreevich or Silvestri's foul to Ferrell.

Washington's run in the fifth came after two were gone, Travis lining to Owen and Wasdell being erased in a steal after he had beaten out a bunt. Ferrell then singled to center. Krakauskas rolled to McNair, who, by picking up the ball could have ended the inning, either by throwing to first or stepping on second. He failed to pick it up. The next offense was Lee's throw intended to pick Krakauskas off first. The throw went wild, Ferrell scoring and Krakauskas taking third. Case walked and stole second, but Rosenthal captured Bluege's fly.

Senators Hand One Back.

Two were retired in the Sox fifth before the Senators decided to soften up and hand back the run that had been presented them a few minutes earlier. Kuhel lifted a fly above short right and instead of being the anticipated third out it became a two base error. Welaj got his hands on the ball but couldn't hold it. Walker took charge of Krakauskas' first pitch and poured it into right for a single, Kuhel scoring the tying run. Then Rosenthal came along after one was out in the sixth and lined his homer into the right field pavilion to put the Sox in front, 2 to 1.

The Senators overlooked a bet in the seventh. Giuliani, who had replaced Ferrell as the man in the mask and protector, tripled to right center with one out. The Sox expected to see a pinch hitter mustered into service for Krakauskas, but weren't displeased when the pitcher appeared in his own behalf. He tapped to Owen who, before making the throw to Kuhel, made sure Giuliani was anchored on third. Lee then fanned Case. In the ninth Wasdell beat out another bunt with one out, but a double play, started by Owen, quickly ended everything.

M'GEEVER PUTS LYONS DOWN FOR COUNT IN FIRST

Eddie McGeever of Scranton, Pa., junior welterweight, knocked out Eddie Lyons of Cleveland, O., in the first round of a scheduled ten round bout in White City last night. Referee Frank McAdams counted Lyons out after two minutes and five seconds had elapsed.

In the five round semi-final Billy Gillespie, Stone Lake, Wis., heavyweight, won a decision over Danny La Marr. Norman Roth, welterweight protégé of Joey Burman, won a four round decision over Ralph Guajardo.

Freddie Pope, 1939 north sectional Golden Gloves flyweight winner, made a success of his professional debut by beating Pat O'Brien in four rounds.

Reds Score in 13th to Deal Bees 5-4 Loss

Boston, Mass., May 5.—(AP)—Cincinnati maintained its tie for second place in the National league by whipping the leading Boston Bees, 5 to 4, today, in 13 innings.

The Reds took advantage of a momentary lapse by Pitcher Dick Errickson to smash out two singles in the 13th for victory and advance to within half a game of first place.

CHICAGO BOWLERS WIN TWO TITLES IN A. B. C. MEET

Danek, Wilmer Triumph in Singles, All-Events.

Cleveland, O., May 5.—[Special.]—Chicagoland bowlers won the lion's share of the title honors in the thirty-ninth annual America Bowling congress tournament which closed its 58 day stand here tonight with final competition in the doubles and singles. With the aid of suburban Forest Park and Melrose Park, Chicagoans took the singles and all-events crowns and collected ten out of the forty leading places, including fifth, sixth, and seventh in the five man event, sixth in the doubles; third, ninth, and tenth in the singles, and second in the all-events.

Wilman Wins Singles.

Joe Wilman, chunky, light haired, 31 year old Budweiser ace, won the diamond studded gold medal and $200 for first place in the all-events with 2,028, the third highest total ever rolled in the meet. Stan Rudcki of Chicago, was runner-up with 2,002 and earned $175.

Wilman also shared sixth place in the doubles with George Theel on 1,331 for $380, and finished ninth in the singles with 708 for $210.

James Danek of Forest Park took the medal and $300 cash for first in the singles. His score was 730. Lloyd Strouse of Chicago finished in tenth place with 705, which will draw down a $185 check.

Fowler, Icuss Win.

Murray Fowler and Phillip Icuss of Steubenville, O., landed the doubles championship with 1,405, second all-time high.

Low to cash as of May 3: Five man, 2,714; two man, 1,130; singles, 579; all-events, 1,812.

DI MAGGIO OUT OF HOSPITAL AND OPTIMISTIC

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—Joe Di Maggio, injured Yankee slugger, who was taken out of his hotel in a wheel chair last Monday, returned from St. Elizabeth's hospital under his own power.

Di Maggio had been confined to bed in the hospital, recuperating from badly torn muscles in his right leg. He was injured last Saturday in a game with the Washington Senators.

"The leg is coming along faster than I expected," Di Maggio said. "I'll be back in the lineup in two weeks at the most."

Fish Caught, Tagged, Freed by Scientists

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Useppa Island, Fla., May 5.—Marshall B. Bishop of Peabody museum, Yale university, the man who is conducting the tarpon tagging operations in these waters, is in our boat this morning. We are heading for one of the passes to see if we can hook a fish or two, put a tag on it, and then release it alive, and also lend a hand to any fisherman who wants to turn back a fish with a tag on its gill cover or opercle.

May Solve Riddle.

Bishop has been telling us about the tremendous amount of research work to be done on the habits of the Florida tarpon, and how the tagging of fish doubtless will be the means of giving both fishermen and scientists new information on the tarpon's behavior.

Bishop has discovered in the course of his investigations the location of a big tarpon [nursery], as he calls it, in the Ten Thousand Islands region in the vicinity of Everglades, Fla. This part of the west coast is a maze of small islands, oyster reefs, small rivers, and shallow lagoons. Here is a natural rearing ground for countless thousands of tiny tarpon.

Bishop points out that no one knows anything about the larval stage of the tarpon. From the time the eggs are laid until the tarpon are about four inches long it is an unknown form of marine life. But the tarpon research expedition, financed by Mrs. Houghton Rineheart of New York, has made the discovery that just as soon as the tarpon are hatched they swim for fresh water, and there they stay until they are grown up. Bishop believes now that most of the fish remain in the secluded waters of their nursery until they weigh 35 or 40 pounds, and then they swim out to the gulf.

Records Tell the Story.

Where the large ones go is the next big mystery to be solved. And here is where fishermen and guides are cooperating by tagging live fish and releasing them. If a tarpon is tagged near Useppa Island and several months later is caught and reported off the coast of Texas, Bishop and his associates will have the first definite proof on the tarpon's traveling habits. The narrow metal tag which is fastened to the gill cover of a live fish does not hurt it. Each tag has a number and records are kept of these numbers and the size, time, and place of each tagged fish.

POLO GAME WILL TOP 124TH F. A. MILITARY SHOW

A polo game between the 124th Field Artillery team and a team made up of Metropolitan league all-stars will feature a regimental military and polo show at the 124th regiment's armory at Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street tonight. A crowd of 10,000 is expected.

Lieut. W. D. Fergus, who in the last two seasons has led the field artillery trio to two national championships, two Metropolitan league titles, a sweep in the international series with the Cuban army, and a victory over Yale, national collegiate champions, will team with Capt. Romeo Mura and Don Rice against a team made up of Volney Bayley, Detroit; Capt. W. S. Everett of the Chicago Shamrocks, and Herb Lorber of the Ramblers. The all-stars will carry a three-goal handicap. During the evening the artillery and Fort Sheridan teams will be given the league senior and junior championship trophies.

The regimental jumping team, coached by Maj. J. J. Waters, will give an exhibition; the regimental champions, including the boxing, football, basketball, track, and baseball teams will parade, led by Lieut. A. J. Strak; mounted wrestling and basketball games will be put on; two batteries will compete in the regimental stake driving contest, and battery and Red Devil dragoon drills will take place to make up the military program.

SOCIAL SECURITY REVISION URGED BY HOUSE GROUP

Larger Benefits, Lower Taxes Proposed.

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee completed its long study of proposed changes in the social security law today and stamped its approval on a variety of revisions designed to liberalize benefits and lighten the tax burden the law imposes.

In addition, Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] announced the committee had agreed to recommend creation of a special trust fund for old age insurance taxes which would be administered by three trustees—the secretaries of the treasury and labor and the chairman of the social security board.

Taxes paid into the fund would be earmarked for old-age insurance, Doughton said, but could be loaned to the government, as at present. The special trust fund was recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for the purpose of clarifying the federal budget.

Now Part of General Fund.

Under present practice the old age taxes, currently 1 per cent each on employés and employers, are listed as general receipts on the income side of the federal ledger. Then an approximately equal sum is charged to the expenditure side of the budget as "transfers to the old age reserve account."

In effect, money from this account is loaned to the government to pay its general expenses. The effect on the budget of the change proposed today would be to make both income and expenditures appear smaller, without changing the deficit.

The old age tax is scheduled, under the 1935 law, to go up to 1½ per cent next year, but the committee also has recommended, with the tacit approval of the treasury, that the rate be frozen at 1 per cent for the next three years.

Lower Unemployment Tax.

Among other changes the committee has approved is a formula for lowering the unemployment compensation tax and a system of starting old age pensions in 1940, instead of 1942.

A last minute change decided upon, Doughton said, would give general relief to delinquent taxpayers under the unemployment compensation provisions of the law.

At present employers are taxed 3 per cent of their pay rolls by the federal government for unemployment insurance. If they pay state unemployment insurance taxes they are entitled to credit them against the federal levy up to 90 per cent of the latter, provided they make the state payment prior to Jan. 31 each year.

Taxpayers Given Extension.

Doughton said the committee considered this too harsh and voted that taxpayers who were in arrears on their 1936-'37-'38 state taxes would be allowed to take the stipulated credit on their federal tax if they paid their state taxes prior to the sixtieth day after enactment of this proposal.

In future the committee recommended that employers get full credit if they pay their state taxes prior to Jan. 31, but lose only 10 per cent if they pay before July 1.

"That will be a big relief for delinquent taxpayers," Doughton said.

Early in its deliberations the committee decided against extending the act's benefits to agricultural and domestic workers, but Doughton said it was indefinite as to whether seamen would be included.

CHIEF HOLDERS OF EASTERN AIR STOCK REPORTED

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—Eastern Air Lines, Inc., in its annual report to the Securities and Exchange commission revealed that as of March 15, Smith, Barney & Co., members of the stock exchange, owned 86,261 shares of common stock, or 20.6 per cent of the outstanding shares. This was a decrease of 9,455 shares from 95,716, or 23 per cent, owned on Oct. 5, 1938.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., which on Oct. 5, 1938, owned 63,247 shares, or 15.2 per cent of the common stock, was not reported as holding more than 10 per cent of the stock on March 15, 1939. Both Smith, Barney & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. were the chief underwriters of the company's common stock offering in April, last year.

During 1938 the General Motors corporation increased its holdings in North American Aviation, Inc., capital stock by 5,000 shares to 1,005,060.

Nazis Losing Trade Gains Made in Latin America

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special.]—Germany is finding it impossible to sustain trade gains made during 1938 in Latin America, figures made public by the department of commerce today indicate. German trade with twenty Latin-American countries in January and February fell 27.2 per cent as compared with the same months of 1938, the department reported. United States trade fell only 18.7 per cent.

Output of Rayon Filament Yarn Sets High Record

New York, May 5.—(AP)—The Rayon Organon, trade journal, reported today that domestic production of Rayon filament yarn set a record in the March quarter, totaling 81,200,000 pounds. This compares with 57,100,000 pounds in the like 1938 period and the previous record of 78,900,000 pounds set in the like quarter of 1937.

Week's Auto Production Slips to 71,420 Units

Detroit, Mich., May 5.—(AP)—Ward's automotive reports today estimated motor car production for the current week at 71,420 units, against 86,640 last week and 53,385 a year ago.

COAL PARLEYS RESUMED AS STRIKE SPREADS

Negotiators to Meet Again Today.

New York, May 5.—(AP)—A resumption of labor contract negotiations between Appalachian coal operators and C. I. O. union miners was brought about late today by Dr. John R. Steelman of the United States labor department. He publicly criticized and challenged both sides with:

"You cannot break up this conference and go home to have a civil war!"

This averted a final dissolution of the two month conference—thus far so fruitless that negotiations collapsed yesterday.

Nevertheless, the last 5,000-odd C. I. O. soft coal miners still in the pits had their orders to quit at midnight, thus completing a national walkout without parallel since 1922 and involving nearly 460,000 men.

Start Parley Immediately.

At Dr. Steelman's demand delegations representing the United Mine Workers and operators began immediate conferences with him. An incidental effect was that for the first time since the discussions started last March 14 a direct representative of the Roosevelt administration was sitting not by sufferance but at the head of the table. The negotiators adjourned shortly before 5 p. m. and will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The same committees which have been negotiating for weeks were renamed for the new parleys. Members are: for the U. M. W. A., John L. Lewis, Philip Murray and Thomas E. Kennedy, president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, and Van A. Bittner and John Owen, district presidents; for the operators, Lee S. Gunter, J. B. A. Morrow, L. T. Putman, and Charles O'Neill.

The anthracite situation, in which concurrent negotiations to replace the hard coal labor contract expiring last April 30 have been going forward brightened to the extent that a second week's extension—to May 13—of the old agreement was made.

Threatens Anthracite Strike.

John L. Lewis, the U. M. W. head, had threatened to pull out more than 100,000 anthracite miners, as well as those in bituminous, unless an agreement could be reached.

Dr. Steelman's rescue of the conference was made as some 300 operators and union representatives assembled this afternoon to hear a formal report that their conferees had failed.

He stood before them and called out:

"It ill behooves grown men, in this age, seriously to contemplate open warfare. I need not remind you that the American people will not stand for a state of insurrection brought about by one industry involving a vital minority of our population.

"The time to become serious about this matter is now. I have insisted and do now insist that you try to bring this matter to a civilized conclusion—that you furnish work to miners, security to families and investors, and coal to America—somehow, soon.

Demands Immediate Action.

"I demand that you stop this crossfire of debate. We haven't got time for that. I want you to take action today, send committees with authority to talk business to a representative of your country.

"I await your answer. I demand that it be given this afternoon."

O'Neill, speaking for the operators, said:

"We are willing to undertake again to bring in a satisfactory working agreement that would put these miners back to work. But it will require more than platitudes or scoldings to bring about that result."

For the miners, Lewis said:

"The United Mine Workers of America recognizes the right of the government of the United States through its representatives to make the request just made by Dr. Steelman. The United Mine Workers of America recognizes the public interest, but it also recognizes the interest of its own beneficiaries."

Meanwhile some of the country's great industrial areas went on reduced coal rations because of the bituminous shortage. Here in New York City, where two subway lines already were operating on reduced schedules, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia prepared to make a third appeal to President Roosevelt to intervene directly in the dispute.

Willing to Extend Contract.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 5.—(AP)—Officials of the Indiana Coal Operators' association [shaft mines] and the Indiana Coal Producers' association [strip mines] said tonight they had informed John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, of their willingness to extend for two more years the contract which expired in Indiana March 31.

Get Unemployment Pay.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 5.—(AP)—Lewis G. Hines, Pennsylvania secretary of labor and industry, announced today that 20,000 unemployment compensation checks would be mailed next week to idle miners in the western Pennsylvania soft coal region. They will be the first payment on about 60,000 claims.

Kentucky Refuses Pay.

Frankfort, Ky., May 5.—(AP)—Special Examiner Paul W. Buckholz ruled today that Kentucky's idle coal miners are not entitled to unemployment compensation under the state law. His ruling stated "the present conditions in the Kentucky coal mining region constitute a bona fide labor dispute and all claimants unemployed due to this dispute are ineligible for benefits."

25,000 Illinois Miners Quit; 18,000 Remain

Calmness of an ordinary Sunday afternoon prevailed yesterday in most of the coal producing areas throughout Illinois while 25,000 United Mine Workers were idle in the first day of their walkout. No disorders were reported up to a late hour. About 18,000 Progressive Mine Workers went about their jobs as usual.

The only apparent disagreement between members of the rival unions was reported when an airplane, flying over Saline county, dropped handbills signed "UMWA" and urging Illinois miners to join the strike. Saline county is at the southern tip of the state.

200 Mines Operating.

District offices of the Progressive union at Springfield said 200 mines under temporary contract with the American Federation of Labor were operating. One Progressive local at Pana was idle because of the "seasonal" closing of the Pana Coal company mine there.

Fox Hughes, Illinois district vice president of the United Mine Workers, said the walkout was "100 per cent effective." Seventy per cent of the state's coal production was cut off, Hughes added, and the question of picketing of Progressive mines by United Mine Workers members "depends upon the attitude of the local unions."

Officials of both unions said they knew of no picketing at present.

Joe Ozanic telegraphed eastern coal operators that he would take legal steps to "invalidate" any contract they would make covering 224 eastern mines in which the Progressives claim a majority of workers. Ozanic is international president of the Progressive union.

1,000 Leave Peabody Mines.

In the Harrisburg, Ill., district 1,000 members of the United Mine Workers did not report for work. They were employed at the Peabody 43 mine at Harrisburg and Peabody 47 at Harco. Seven mines manned by members of the Progressives, however, continued to operate at full capacity.

All Franklin county mines were idle. All employed members of the United Mine Workers. Ten affected mines in that county employed about 5,000 miners.

At Benton it was reported many miners were taking advantage of the suspension by gardening and farming.

Four thousand Williamson county miners, all members of the United union, joined the strike at four shaft mines and seventy-five smaller mines which supply truck trade there. Williamson county has no coal production from mines manned by Progressives.

Report Record Shipments.

At Harrisburg it was reported coal shipments from the Big Four railroad terminal were establishing records. A four year record was broken yesterday when 466 cars were billed to Chicago and eastern points, B. W. Henley, superintendent, said. The shipments rose from 250 cars ten days ago to the present mark.

In the United Mine Workers' 150 locals throughout the state relief and unemployment committees were formed to obtain needed assistance. Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said applications for work relief or other assistance by idle miners would be referred to local relief officials.

Although coal production in Illinois was expected to be less than half of normal during the strike, observers said the supply situation was not critical in the state. Much of what may be mined was expected to be shipped east to relieve shortages caused by the tieup of Appalachian mines.

SALES OF AUTOS IN APRIL BELOW EXPECTATIONS

April domestic retail deliveries of new cars and trucks fell short of predictions made late in March, according to reports yesterday from factories in Detroit.

Preliminary and partly estimated sales totals of seven makes, comprising about 50 per cent of the industry's aggregate volume, showed that the April volume was about 7 per cent down from March and up 38.8 per cent from April, 1938. A sizeable gain over March had been indicated at the end of the first twenty days.

IOWAN CHOSEN AS DEPUTY TO U. S. CONTROLER

Washington, D. C., May 5.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today appointed A. J. Mulroney of Mallard, Ia., a deputy controler of the currency. He fills the vacancy created last October by the resignation of Goodwin J. Oppegard in a housecleaning of the controler's office. At that time he and Marshall R. Diggs, another deputy, resigned at the request of Morgenthau.

Mulroney was born at Mallard on Aug. 14, 1897. He was graduated from the University of Iowa law school and served for a while as an assistant state bank examiner in Iowa. In 1928 he received a commission as a national bank examiner in Michigan and Indiana. He had also held banking positions in Chicago.

During the banking holiday in 1933 he came to the controler's office here and was placed in charge of reorganization of national banks in the middle west. He served more recently as assistant chief national bank examiner.

Indiana Stone Company Gets $11,000,000 Contract

Bedford, Ind., May 5.—[Special.]—John D. Fuller, president of the Heltonville Limestone company, announced today his company has received $11,000,000 of contracts to supply stone for the social security and railroad retirement fund buildings in Washington, D. C. The contract for 500 carloads of cut stone is one of the largest awarded an Indiana limestone company since 1929.

Illinois Auto Insurance Cut Is Authorized

Ernest Palmer, state insurance superintendent, yesterday authorized rate reductions in the automobile insurance of private operators that range from 20 to 35 per cent. He estimated that the Illinois motorists will save about $750,000 annually by the reductions.

Ernest Palmer.

The 37 large eastern companies belonging to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, with headquarters in New York, were authorized to reduce their charges for public liability and property damage insurance 20 to 25 per cent.

Reductions are retroactive to May 1.

Reductions by Classes.

Private motorists in the bureau's class A-1 division are given a reduction of 25 per cent and those in class 1 division get a 20 per cent cut. These reductions are from the manual rates which have been in effect for years. In addition motorists who insure with companies that belong to the bureau get a "safe driver award" at the end of the year. This consists of a 15 per cent repayment of the premium to those persons who have had no accidents during the year.

Class A drivers are private motorists who do not use their cars in business except in going to and from their place of employment. Class A-1 consists of persons having the same qualifications as those in class A but who in addition, do not drive their cars more than 7,500 miles a year. Further, cars in this class must not be driven by more than two persons and these persons must be at least 25 years of age.

Example of Saving.

In the case of a class A policyholder, for which the annual premium on a medium priced car is $45, there is a possible saving of $14.40. Of this $9 would be the 20 per cent reduction just authorized and $5.40 would be the refund for safe driving for a year. For the class A-1 policyholder the possible saving is $16.31.

The Continental Casualty company, large Chicago company that does not belong to the bureau, was authorized to reduce its rates 30 per cent on class A and 35 per cent for class A-1. Continental Casualty does not participate in safe driver awards.

Palmer in a statement issued in Springfield said that the insurance department disapproved differentials in rates based on classifications of automobile owners by occupation, profession, or employment. He refused to classify ministers for special reductions, holding that this would be an occupational classification. However, he permitted special rates for farmers on the ground that theirs is a territorial division.

The reductions are effective in thirty other states.

Manufacturers Urged to Aid Stores in Local Advertising

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 5.—[Special.]—Newspaper retail advertising had its day here before the second session of the convention of the National Association of Chain Drug Stores. C. C. Burlingame, Pennsylvania manager of Liggett company, stoutly defended localized advertising and called on manufacturers of drug store items for better coöperation in such advertising.

Inferring that manufacturers had fallen down on their job of local advertising, Burlingame quoted figures to show that local drug stores accounted for two-thirds of all drug items and toiletries advertising.

Drug Stores Big Advertisers.

In 100 leading cities drug stores bought nearly 35 million lines of advertising, against only 50 millions for all types of drug item advertising bought by manufacturers. Five large chains accounted for 36 per cent of this total, he said.

In those same hundred cities, retail drug stores used 107 per cent as much space in 1938 as in 1929. Against this manufacturers' advertising of toiletries [soaps, dentifrices, perfumes, etc.] dropped 54 per cent and medicines and drug preparations advertising dropped 66 per cent.

To cap his argument for closer coöperation from manufacturers, he said: "Retail drug store advertising in 1929 was 1.9 per cent of all retail advertising and in 1938 it was 3.2 per cent."

Relies on Newspaper.

"We do not condemn radio and magazine advertising," said Burlingame, "but we point out that the most valuable advertising in our interest is in the good old reliable local newspaper."

E. S. Katz, Katz Drug company, Kansas City, gave a similar argument. He termed general advertising a good will builder.

"For a specific selling job localized advertising through newspapers is the thing," he said.

CANADA DRY'S PROFITS RISE IN 1ST QUARTER

General Telephone Also Has Gain.

Larger earnings were announced yesterday by Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., and the General Telephone corporation. Reports of the Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation, National Supply company, and a number of other corporations showed less satisfactory operations.

Canada Dry and subsidiaries operated at a net profit of $60,444, or 10 cents a share, in the March quarter, compared with a net loss of $43,848 a year ago.

General Telephone had first quarter net income of $351,620, equivalent to 43 cents a share, against $308,048 or 37 cents a share in the 1938 period.

Pump Company Has Loss.

First quarter operations resulted in a net loss of $214,490 for the Worthington Pump and Machinery corporation. In the first three months of 1938 the company had a net profit of $239,665 before federal taxes.

National Supply, which manufactures oil field equipment, showed a net loss of $232,980 for the March quarter, compared with net profit of $1,094,853 in the 1938 period.

The first quarter report of Loft, Inc., candy store chain, showed a net loss of $393,734, against a loss of $195,545 in the first three months of last year. The figures do not include those of the Pepsi-Cola company, control of which was awarded recently to Loft.

Ship Line Has Profit.

The 1938 report of the United States Lines company and subsidiaries, operating a fleet of steamships, showed a net profit of $1,021,993, against a net loss of $119,319 in 1937. P. A. S. Franklin, president, announced operations in the first quarter of 1939 resulted in net profit of approximately $361,000 before federal taxes, compared with a net loss of $122,000 for the initial 1938 period.

Hammond Instrument company of Chicago reported net profit of $170,988 for the year ended March 31, equal to 38 cents a share. It earned $323,899, or 78 cents a share, in the preceding year. The company manufactures electrical musical instruments and clocks.

Lift Farm Fund 381 Millions in Senate Plan

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—A record $1,216,528,572 farm fund won approval today from the senate appropriations committee. The committee reported to the senate an agriculture department appropriation bill providing $381,000,000 more than was voted by the house, some $258,000,000 more than was in last year's agricultural bill, and $375,000,000 more than was recommended by President Roosevelt in his budget estimates.

Senator Russell [D., Ga.], in charge of the bill, said he planned to call it up in the senate Monday and predicted its passage.

Boost Farm Buying Power.

Most of the proposed increases would be used under administration programs to improve farm purchasing power and income. Largest senate committee boost was $225,000,000 additional for "parity payments" to the millions of farmers coöperating in government control programs for cotton, corn, wheat, and rice.

[These payments would be designed to bring farm income up to "parity" in purchasing power, with farm income of the 1909-'14 period.]

The house had voted $500,000,000 for payments to these farmers and to tobacco growers, who are excluded from the parity payments because their market prices are near pre-war purchasing power.

Increase Surplus Fund.

The committee also added $113,000,000 to the $90,000,000 provided by the house for removal of farm surpluses. This $203,000,000 could be used either for domestic purchases, to be distributed to persons on relief, or for payment of export bounties to move wheat, cotton, and other farm surpluses into foreign markets.

Russell said committee voted 11 to 3 for the principal increases, but he declined to disclose votes of individual senators.

The senate committee failed to decrease a single item approved by the house, but added, or increased, scores of different funds. Some of the larger items included:

$25,000,000 in addition to $25,000,000 voted by the house to purchase farm lands for resale to selected tenant farmers.

Million for Weather Bureau.

An increase of more than $1,000,000 for the weather bureau so that it may expand and speed up its nationwide forecasting service and provide a special service for transoceanic flying.

$2,225,306 addition for the forest service for use in acquiring new timbered land and in fire-prevention work.

$4,676,469 for a war against insect pests and plant diseases, including more than $2,000,000 for a special drive on grasshoppers.

$2,625,000 additional for eradication of live stock diseases.

Enactment of processing taxes to offset increased farm outlays was proposed by Senator Lucas [D., Ill.] even before the appropriation bill reached the senate. Processing taxes would be placed on cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco, and possibly dairy products if that can be worked out.

[The taxes would be levied on the products as they are prepared for use. For instance, wheat would be taxed when it is made into flour.]

Food Relief Stamp Plan Extended to Dayton, Ohio

Washington, D. C., May 5.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace selected Dayton, O., today as the second city in which the agriculture department will try out its experimental stamp plan of distributing surplus food through regular trade channels. He previously had selected Rochester, N. Y., as the first of six cities in which the plan will be tried as a possible improvement on the present system of distributing surpluses through relief agencies. Officials said actual operation of the plan in Dayton was expected to start within a month.

SPECIAL TRAINS TAKE BANKERS TO CONVENTION

Meeting to Be Held in Del Monte, Cal.

A 13 car special train pulled out of the North Western station yesterday morning at 9 o'clock daylight saving time, carrying more than sixty of the nation's leading bankers, including thirteen Chicagoans. The bankers were bound for Del Monte, Cal., where the annual convention of the Association of Reserve City Bankers will open next Monday.

The bankers, some of whom were accompanied by their wives, were officers of leading banks in large cities of the middle west. The Reserve City Bankers' group is made up of several hundred executives of the largest banks in the country. James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, was one of the Chicago officials aboard the special train.

New Yorkers' Train Delayed.

Another 13 car special, carrying prominent bankers from New York and other eastern cities, was scheduled to arrive at the North Western at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, but was delayed more than two hours when it struck an automobile at Warrior Ridge, Pa., near Huntingdon. The train reached Chicago shortly after 11 o'clock and headed westward.

Both specials will follow the same route. They went through Omaha yesterday and are scheduled to reach Ogden, Utah, this morning. Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock they will arrive at Berkeley, Cal. The bankers will have a chance in the morning to visit the San Francisco World's fair. The trains will leave San Francisco at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow and proceed to Del Monte, a three hour run.

Meet Behind Closed Doors.

The bankers' convention, which is traditionally held behind closed doors, will continue for three days.

Chicagoans on the train included Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company; Thomas J. Nugent, vice president of the First National bank; Solomon B. Smith, vice president of the Northern Trust company; John S. Broeksmit, vice president of the Harris Trust company, and Edwin N. Van Horne, executive vice president of the American National bank.

DEPARTMENT STORES REPORT APRIL SALES EXCEEDING YEAR AGO

National department store sales in the week ended April 29 climbed 6 per cent above those for the like 1938 week, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

The national average gain was bettered in the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago area] where sales leaped 14.3 per cent. Stores in Chicago proper experienced a 9.8 per cent increase in sales; Detroit, 24.3; Indianapolis, 32.8, and Milwaukee, 9.5 per cent.

Stores in the Philadelphia district led the twelve federal reserve areas in the sales increase from 1938 levels with an advance of 21 per cent. The Chicago area was second. The Cleveland district was a distant third with only 8 per cent.

SENATORS PUSH CAPITAL DRAFT IN FUTURE WARS

Favor Bill to Force Buying of Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 5.—The senate military affairs committee today reported favorably a bill to draft capital as well as men in time of war.

The bill was proposed by Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] as part of the program to build the national defenses and prepare the nation for the eventuality of any war in which the United States might become involved.

The measure calls for a "wealth census" by the President in the event of an emergency in which a draft of manpower is involved. It would classify all citizens according to wealth.

Would Force Buying of Bonds.

Under the terms of the bill the treasury would be empowered to issue 50 year bonds and each person whose net wealth exceeded $1,000 would be required to purchase the bonds on a percentage of wealth basis along the lines of the income tax scale. The bonds would bear an interest rate of 1 per cent annually.

For example, a person with a net wealth of $1,000 to $10,000 would be required to spend 5 per cent of his wealth on the bonds. The percentage would increase to 75 per cent of the net wealth in excess of $100,000,000.

If a citizen had no cash the government would accept his services, his property, or his notes bearing 6 per cent interest and secured by his property.

Denies Property Confiscation.

Lee asserted, in commenting upon the bill, that it would not confiscate property, but merely provide for "forced loans" in order to assure the government of an adequate war chest.

"There would be no need to start the printing presses during war under this bill," Lee said. The committee action on his bill was taken without dissent, according to the senator.

Although Lee has been an ardent Roosevelt supporter, treasury officials denied they had a hand in the drawing up of the bill. Nor did they admit having been asked for an opinion on the bill, as is customary in matters which would involve the treasury.

Treasury to Fix Percentage.

Lee said that although an individual might be required to pay a maximum fixed percentage of his wealth for the bonds, it was possible that the treasury would ask less than the designated amount. If the maximum were reached, however, the treasury could automatically fix a new scale of percentages and continue borrowing.

In commenting upon this "open door" to the private wealth of the nation, Lee said: "This means that the government would have money to finance a war as long as there was any wealth."

FINANCE FIRM WILL PAY OFF $35,000,000 ISSUE

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—The executive committee of Commercial Credit company today voted to call for redemption on July 6 the company's $35,000,000 issue of 2¾ per cent debentures, due in 1942, at 101 and accrued interest.

Funds to carry out this redemption will be obtained through bank loans at interest rates which, according to estimates, will effect a saving of about $400,000 a year in the next three years, less than the premium paid on redemption.

This is the second large finance company to retire outstanding funded debt through bank loans. The Commercial Trust corporation called for redemption on April 15 last its entire issue of $35,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures, due in 1951, at an estimated saving in interest charges of $600,000 annually.

CHICAGO CLEANUP WEEK SUPPORTED BY MAYOR KELLY

Mayor Kelly yesterday praised the plan for a cleanup week in Chicago sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago Wholesale District council. He urged all industries and commercial enterprises in the city to participate.

"Rehabilitation and improvement of commercial facilities will prove a creditable improvement for the city as a whole," the mayor said, "and will also help to stimulate new pride and activities among the officials and employés of the firms which take part. I hope that all Chicagoans will coöperate in such laudable endeavors."

The plan calls for cleaning up, painting and repairing buildings, lofts, manufacturing space, show rooms, sales rooms, office space, and merchandise displays.

New York Bank Clearings Larger, Deposits Smaller

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—Bank clearings were larger and deposits smaller in figures shown today in the weekly statement of the New York clearing house. Total surplus and undivided profits were unchanged at $918,777,800; total net demand deposits [average] decreased $27,925,000; and time deposits [average] decreased $3,647,000. Bank clearings for the week ended today were $3,710,833,175, against $3,221,787,069 in the week ended April 26.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 5.—Stocks closed irregularly lower today after a firm opening. Fractional changes ruled. Trading dwindled, with only 327,990 shares changing hands, compared with 663,380 shares for the preceding session.

Although the speech of Poland's foreign minister, Josef Beck, was considered to have had little influence on prices, it served to spotlight the tension between his country and Germany and for that reason made traders wary.

Contributing importantly in the decline, analyists said, was the threat of more serious developments in the coal situation as the tieup was extended to other coal fields by order of John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organization.

Minor fractional losses incurred by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, General Motors, United States Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Montgomery Ward, and kindred issues.

Chrysler proved an exception, rising ½ point in the most active dealings of the day. Sears-Roebuck, International Nickel and General Electric also pushed higher.

Carrier shares turned in a relatively steady performance.

Power and light shares stayed close to Thursday's final quotations. Airplane stocks mostly worked lower. Farm implement shares backed away, as did the chemical issues.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 5.—(AP)—United States government issues were key performers in today's bond market, pushing ahead for gains running to 12-32 point on moderate volume. Dealers in governments said the supply-demand situation continued to work for rising prices. The two issues of treasury 2¾s led the upturn.

The foreign sector also took on a brighter appearance after digesting international appraisals of Polish Foreign Minister Beck's speech in answer to Germany's claims to Danzig.

Domestic corporate issues lacked a definite trend. A part of the list tended to soften under light offerings in late trading and the close saw a considerable number of losses of a point or more. The advancing group mostly wound up with fractional gains.

Transactions totaled $4,915,125 face value against $5,259,000 on Thursday.

Chicago Stocks.

Fractional declines were posted against a majority of issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading declined to 18,000 shares. Of 73 issues traded, twenty advanced, thirty-six declined, and seventeen closed unchanged. Middle West and Commonwealth Edison were among the most active stocks, the former falling fractionally and the latter advancing slightly. The Chicago Tribune average closed at 10.08, compared with 10.19 Thursday.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks moved higher yesterday in dull trading, dealers said. City National shares gained $2 and Continental Illinois, 50 cents.

COTTON

Buying of May and July cotton yesterday by mills and spot firms gave the domestic markets a stronger undertone. Closing trades were near the top with net gains of .03 to .12 cent a pound.

Firmness in American markets came in face of relative weakness in Liverpool. Washington reports were that the Bankhead export subsidy program now before the senate had encountered so much opposition that its passage was regarded as problematical.

According to Liverpool cotton firms speculative interests in the market has become light as the result of the artificial scarcity of American cotton.

Spot cotton closed .03 to .06 cent higher with New York at 9.31 cents, New Orleans 9.08 cents, and Galveston and Houston 8.81 cents a pound. Prices follow:

BUSINESS BOOKS

"Social Security Taxation and Records," by Calvin E. Favinger and Daniel A. Wilcox. [Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York City. Price, $7.50.]

This book covers all phases of the social security problem from the employer's standpoint and is the first comprehensive presentation in one volume. It was the outgrowth of the authors' researches in designing a system for various large organizations.

Starting with a summary of money saving means, the book discusses the records to be kept and where to keep them. Then it illustrates practical systems of record keeping which range from the most simple for the small employer to the most complex as would be required by large corporations. Several chapters deal with legal points regarding employment, wages, and claim procedures.

Because of the authors' experiences it is a practical book and contains many valuable facts relating to systems engineering work in general.

WARNS CHICAGO TO SAFEGUARD ITS TRANSPORT

Steel Man Makes Plea at Business "Clinic."

Chicago must unite to safeguard its greatest asset—its transportation—or it may face an exodus such as no city has seen. This was the warning given at a "business clinic" held at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. The speaker was S. L. Felton of the Acme Steel company, one of several who discussed Chicago's problems in connection with the Chicago Association of Commerce's "Greater Chicago Campaign."

"The federal government through the Tennessee Valley Authority is attempting to move northern industry to the south," Felton asserted. "The TVA's efforts are now being followed up by the southern governors, who are attempting to reduce southern freight rates."

Charges Propaganda Fund.

Felton said the southern governors are reported to have raised a $500,000 fund for propaganda to aid their drive.

"Chicago's business leaders should unite to support those groups that are fighting to have Chicago retain its transportation's advantages," he continued. "If we lose our transportation we will see a great exodus of industry from this city."

Felton also attacked legislation to regulate trucks now before the Illinois assembly. He said enactment of the truck bill would strangle Illinois truck movements. It would compel a person who wanted to move a truck load of sand across a street to get a special permit. There should have been at least 500 Chicagoans in Springfield to protest the truck bill when it was introduced, he added.

Calls City Medical Center.

Dr. Cassius C. Rogers, 25 East Washington street, said one of Chicago's most priceless assets is "its position as the medical capital of the world."

But this asset is being threatened by the movement in the federal government to socialize the medical profession. He urged Chicago business men to help the medical profession in resisting administration efforts to socialize medicine.

Dr. Rogers said politics should be taken out of the board of health and the county's charitable institutions. He charged that there are many persons in the Cook county hospital and other institutions who were sent there as political favors when they could afford treatment in private institutions.

Other speakers reiterated previous statements that taxes and labor relations are among the most important problems to be solved in order to put Chicago moving forward again.

KRESGE'S SALES IN APRIL ABOUT SAME AS IN 1938

S. S. Kresge company sales in April were almost identical with those in April, 1938, the company said yesterday. Trade volume last month totaled $12,595,503, compared with $12,595,644 in the 1938 week. For four months sales totaled $42,548,022, an increase of 2.3 per cent over $41,574,675 for the corresponding 1938 period. March sales had increased 5.5 per cent over those of March, 1938.

The Walgreen company reported April sales of $5,784,585, a gain of 5.5 per cent from $5,480,557 in April, 1938. In four months this year the drug chain's trade rose 5.6 per cent to $23,078,950 from $21,849,868 in the same period in 1938.

Sales of companies reporting yesterday were:

BANKS ARE URGED TO ENTER SMALL LOAN BUSINESS

Atlantic City, N. J., May 5.—(AP)—Banks of the United States were urged today to make use of their vast idle funds by lending them to individuals on the instalment plan. E. S. Woolley, director of banking installations for the George S. May company of New York, told the forty-fourth annual convention of the Maryland Bankers' association private loan companies were reaping big profits by lending money to individuals for the purchase of goods and said he could see no reason why banks shouldn't do the same.

"The surface of this field," Woolley said, "has not even been scratched by banks. We know there are economists who think instalment buying will sooner or later wreck the country, but their theories were discredited during the depression."

Belgium to Refund Loan with Dutch Bank Group

BRUSSELS, May 5.—(AP)—Finance Minister Camille Gutt informed the cabinet today he had negotiated a 35,000,000 guilder [about $18,697,000] loan with a Netherlands banking group to refund a loan made a year ago with the same group. The loan, which bears interest at 4.49 per cent, will be refunded in guilders or dollars. Gutt said negotiations had been initiated with a Swiss group to renew a loan of 25,000,000 Swiss francs [$5,615,000] obtained last year.

Collections During March 9.98 Pct. Above February

Collections on accounts receivable rose 9.98 per cent in March over those in February and 5.15 per cent over March, 1938, the Chicago Association of Credit Men reported yesterday.
